"Processus factus ad coronationem Serenissimi Domini Georgii Secundi Regis Magnæ Britanniae, et Reginæ Carolinæ Consortis ejus."

285. folio.

A Volume, the greatest part of which formerly belonged to Sir John Paston, Knight, in the reign of Edw. IV. and was copied for him by one William Ebesham, a Scribe by profession.

In vol. II. of "Original Letters," published by Sir John Fenn, Ebesham's own charges for transcribing this manuscript are preserved; from which it appears that he was paid for what was written in prose at the rate of two pence per leaf, and for what was written in verse at the rate of a penny. In this account it is called "the grete booke." See likewise the inventory of Sir John's books, p. 302 of the above volume, last article but one. It appears to have been in the possession of Sir Gilbert Dethick and his son Sir William Dethick, Garter King at Arms, and afterwards became the property of Richard Saint George, Clarencieux. It seems to be the MS. quoted by Mr. Anstis as belonging to Sir Joseph Jekyll: See "Order of the Garter," Vol. II. p. 460. Some pieces of a later date have been added to the original collection. The contents are:

1. "The maner and forme of the Kyngis and Quenes coronacion in Englonde." fo. 2.

2. A ballad describing the manner of the coronation of King Henry VI. including a description of the three courses or serycles at table on that occasion. Beg. "Holde up oure yong Kyng. Ave benigna." fo. 5 b.

3. "Hou Knightis of the Bath shulde be made." fo. 7 b.

4. "Hou a man shal be armede at his ease whan he shall fight on foote." fo. 9.

5. A list of the materials to be brought into the field of battle by appellants and defendants. fo. 9 b.

6. "Abilmentis for the justus of pees." fo. 9 b.

7. "To cry a justes of peas." fo. 10.

N.B. These "justes of pees" are peaceable tiltings for the amusement of the ladies and other spectators; in French "joutes à plaisance;" in Latin, "hastiludia pacifica." They were performed with pointless lances, or coronels, and are in opposition to the real and sanguinary justs or tournaments called "joutes à outrance."

8. "The ordenaunce and forme of fighting within listes," as settled by Thomas Duke of Gloucester, Constable of England, temp. Ric. II. fo. 11.

9. "Challanges of deedis of armys of Philipp Boyle, Knight;" accepted by John de Astley, Esquire, anno 1441. fo. 15.

See Dugdale's Warwickshire, p. 73, first edit., and Stowe's Annales.

10. "The challenge of Piers de Masse." fo. 15 b.

This challenge was likewise accepted by John de Astley at Paris, anno 1438, who vanquished the Frenchman and gained his helmet, according to the terms of the combat. See Dugdale, ubi supra.

11. "The challenge of an auncestre of therle of Warrewik," calling himself "le chivaler vert;" with a very curious account of his combat with three French Knights, &c. fo. 16.

12. "This is the wrytyng and articles sent by the Lorde Scales [Antony Woodvile] unto the Bastarde of Burgoyne," anno 1465. fo. 18.

Num. 285.

13. "The copy of the certificacion made by the Erle of Worcestre, High Conestable of Englonde," of the delivery of the "floure of souvenance" sent by Lord Scales to the Bastard of Burgundy, April 21, 1465. fo. 21.

N.B. This floweré of souvenance had been gallantly attached to the thigh of the Lord Scales by some ladies at King Edw. IVth's court.

14. "These ben the names of the Lordes, Knyghtes, and Squyers, Gentilmen and Herauldes, that were present whan the seide floure of souvenance was touched by the Bastard of Burgoyne." fo. 21 b.

15. "Here folowith the copy of the lettre sent by the Bastard of Burgoyne answeryng the seide articles and wrytyng." Herein he accepts the challenge at arms. fo. 22.

16. "Le challenge Loys de Brutallis." It is in French, and dated June 16, 1466. fo. 23.

This Louis de Brutallisor Bretelles was a Gascon Knight at the court of Edw. IV. and accompanied the Lord Scales to the jubilee in Spain, anno 1473, to whom he lent the work intituled "The dictes and sayings of the philosophers," which his Lordship translated into English, and caused afterwards to be printed by Master Caxton. The challenge is addressed to Messire Jehan de Chassa, a Knight in the service of the Bastard of Burgundy, and is certainly one of the most singular that were ever sent from one person to another. It is not exceeded in extravagance by any thing similar in the volumes that recount the adventures of the Knights of King Arthur's round table, or those of the Emperor Charlemagne, or indeed in any other romance of chivalry. It affords a most curious specimen of the chivalrous spirit and manners of the times. Some account of the combat is preserved in the Memoirs of Olivier de la Marche.

17. "Le repons Sir Jehan de Chassa, a tres honoure Escuier Louys de Brutallis." In French. Dated Brussels, June 27, 1466. fo. 24.

Not less extravagant than the challenge.

18. "Le challange Phillip de Bouton." In French. Dated May 1, 1467. fo. 25.

This Knight was a Burgundian, in the service of the Count de Charolles, and came over to England with the Bastard of Burgundy, where King Edw. IV. gave him permission to make the general challenge to all comers. His combat in Smithfield with Thomas de la Lande, a Gascon in the service of the English Monarch, is mentioned in the Memoirs of Olivier de la Marche.

19. "Comencement de la declaracion du pas a l'arbre dor." In French. Dated July 3, 1468. fo. 26.

This is another general challenge from a Knight of Burgundy, under the assumed name of "Le Chevalier de l'Arbre d'Or," to fight with swords without points, and to break a hundred and one lances. It contains many interesting particulars of these modes of combat. The full description of what passed on this occasion, at the marriage of the Duke of Burgundy with Margaret of York, may be seen in the Memoirs of Olivier de la Marche.

20. "The actes of the full honorable and knyghtly armes doon betwene the right noble Lordes Sir Anthony Wodeville, Lorde Scales, and of Newselles, brother to the Most High and Excellent Princesse the Queene of Englonde and of Ffraunce, and Lady of Irlonde, challenger, and Sir Anton. the Basterde of Bourgogne, Erle of Roche and Lorde of Bener and Beneresse, afore the most Christen and victorouse Prince Edward the iiijth the Kyng of Englonde and of Ffraunce, and Lorde of Irlond, the xi and xii daies of Juyne, in the vii yere of his reigne, defender. The Erle of Worcestre then Grete Conestable of Englonde, in Smythfelde." fo. 29 b.

This is a repetition, but with some variety of circumstance, of what is contained from fo. 18 to fo. 22; what follows is in addition to the former account of this celebrated combat, which the reader will also find detailed in Halle's Chronicle, and the Memoirs of Olivier de la Marche. See likewise Biographia Britannica under the article Caxton.

21. "The returne of Chestre Harauld, with themprise touchid by the Lorde Bastard, and his relacion to the Kyng at Grenewiche, then present the Duke of Gloucestre, the Duke of Buckingham, the Erle of Worcestre Constable of England, and therle of Shrewsbury, the xxiiii day of May the yeere above saide." fo. 34 b.

22. "The comyng of the Bastarde to Gravesende the xix day of May, worshupfully accompanide, where Garter mett hym to the King's commaundement." fo. 35.

23. "The metyng of the Bastarde at the Blakwall by the Constable, worshupfully accompanied, &c. the xxx day of May." fo. 35 b.

24. "The comyng of the Kyng to London astir the comyng of the Bastarde, and the solempne meetyng of hym." fo. 36.

25. "The presentacion of the Bastarde too the Kyng astir his comyng." fo. 36 b.

26. "The comyng of the Lorde Scales to London, nobly accompanied, to doo his armes with the Bastarde." fo. 36 b.

27. "The chapitre holden at Powlys by the said Constable for the declaracion of douptes moved by hym upon the chappitres." fo. 37.

The "chappitres" or chapters, were the terms or articles of the combat that had been previously transmitted to England by the Bastard; and at this meeting, where each party attended by his counsel, who are here named, a very punctilious discussion took place concerning the mode of conducting the combat, and the weapons to be used. The present document is certainly to be regarded as one of the most particular and interesting descriptions of the forms to be observed in a combat between two knights that has any where been given, not even excepting the romances of chivalry.

28. "The Kyng's commaundement to the Constable to purvey a convenyent place for the ffeelde." fo. 38 b.

29. "The comyng of the Lorde Scales to Seint Barthilmewe, joyning to the est partye of the ffeelde, to doo his armes." fo. 39.

31. "Thentryng of the fælde the day of bataill." fo. 39.

32. "Here folowith the ornaments of the trapperes of the Lorde Scales in perfourmyng his acte in Smythfelde." fo. 39 b.

33. "The description of his pavylon." fo. 40.

35. "The proclamacion." fo. 41.

36. An account of the first day's combat." fo. 41 b.

37. "The armes doon of foote the second day." fo. 41 b.

38. "Le statut de armez de turney per la parlament dengleterre." fo. 43.

This statute of tournaments has been printed in Berthelette's edition of the Statuta Antiqua, 1532, 16°. It is remarkable that Mr. Justice Barrington, in his remarks on it, should not have perceived, from internal evidence, that it certainly belongs to the reign of Edw. I.

Num. 285.

This article is in the hand-writing of Sir John Paston himself, and is subscribed with his name.

39. "Coppie des chappitrez de certain faitz darmez tant a pie come a chivall qui par deux gentilshomez d'almaigne touchant certain emprinse comie il sensuit."

The name of the challenger was Gillaume de Boursset.

40. "Le Tournoy entre le Sire de Jounelle et le Sire de Commes." fo. 44.

This is what was called a cry of Tourney.

41. "Le crie des joustes," being the cry of justs of K. Richard II. fo. 46 b. (French.)

42. An ordinance, in the French language, of Thomas of Lancaster, Duke of Clarence and Constable of England, for regulating the fees of the officers of arms. Dated, at Caen, Sept. 4, 1408.

A note, apparently written by Sir William De-thick, Garter King of Arms, states that at the time of the above date there was no Garter King of Arms, as mentioned in the ordinance, which on that account is forged and not justifiable.

43. An account of a feat of arms performed at Tours in the year 1446, between John Chalons an Englishman, and Louis de Beul, partisan of Charles VII. In this combat De Beul was slain. fo. 48. (French.)

44. A singular narration, or as it is elsewhere termed, a challenge, being in substance as follows:—On the 3d of February 1462, the Duke of Burgundy being at the hôtel of Madame de Berghes, at Brussels, with a numerous party of Lords and Ladies, at the commencement of the feast there entered the hall two Heralds, introducing a stranger, who said that he brought with him letters of credence from a noble Lady his mistress. These being read purported to be, that the said Lady complained of a certain powerful neighbour, who had threatened to dispossess her of her lands, unless she could find some Knight who would successfully defend her against him in single combat, and within a year. A boon is then demanded of the Duke by the stranger, and, before it is heard, accorded. The request is, that he should procure for the Lady three French Knights, to be immediately trained to arms. That out of these one should be chosen for her champion by the Lady, who would then disclose her name. The stranger adds, on his own part, some other requests; one of which is, that the Duke's son, Mons. de Charolois, be umpire of the combat. The terms, or articles, of the combat are next read; and, at the conclusion, three Knights instantly present themselves as candidates for the honour of defending the unknown fair one, among whom is the celebrated Antony, Bastard of Burgundy. These put their seals to the articles; and here the account concludes. fo. 52. (French.)

45. An original brief account, or table of contents of a great part of the present manuscript, at the end of which it is stated, that at some of these justs there were certain Gentlemen which shewed the King that the fees to his servants were so great, that if they should enter the field to his honour and that of his realm, the charges would be too much for them to bear, and therefore they besought him that they might be at some reasonable fine. This was accordingly for that time ordained by the judges, and a composition, here particularly stated, settled as to what fees should be paid by those who entered the lists, and according to their rank, to the officers of arms in attendance. fo. 56 b.

At all these justs and tournaments the Heralds attended; and besides the fees above alluded to, they had certain perquisites of pieces of broken armour, &c. which the pages and servants of the combatants frequently usurped; and this produced great disputes between them and the officers of arms.

Num. 285.

46. A very long and particular account of the pass of arms of Mons^r Philip de la Laing, or Lalain, at Bruges, the 28 April 1462, and of the arms, &c. of all the Knights who touched the shields on that occasion. (French.)

This most curious and singular ceremony, borrowed entirely from the ancient romances of chivalry, is described in the Memoirs of Olivier de la Marche, in his account of the "Pas de la Pelerine," held at Saint Omer, 1447, and of the "Pas de l'arbre d'or" at Bruges, 1468. There is also a description of the "Pas de la fontaine des pleurs," in the interesting life of Messire Jacques de Lalain, the brother of Philip.

47. An English translation of Vegetius de Re militari. At the end is this colophon: "Here endeth the boke that Clerks clepith in Latyn Vegesius de Re militari, the boke of Vegesius of dedis of knyghthode, which boke was translatid and turnyd fro Latyn into Englishe at the ordenaunce and bidding of the worthy and worshuppfull Lorde Sir Thomas of Berkeley to grete disporte and daliaunce of Lordis and allwoorthy werriours that be passid all laboure and travaille, and to grete informacion and lernyng of yong Lordes and Knyghts that ben lusty, and love to hire and see, and to use dedis of armes and chivalrye, the turnyng of this booke into Englissh was wryten and endid in the vigill of Allhalowe, the yere of oure Lorde a thousand cccc and viii, the x yere of the reigne of Kyng Herry the fourthe. To hym and to us all God graunte grace of oure offendyng, space to oure amending,

Quod W. Ebesham." fo. 84. (French.)

In the octavo catalogue of the Lansdowne MSS. it was supposed that Ebesham was the translator; but this is a mistake: he was merely the transcriber, and received for his trouble the sum of ten shillings. The real translator's name appears at the end of another copy, on vellum, belonging to the author of the present note [Mr. Douce], in this form: "This is his name that turned this book fro Latyn to Englishe  ton, which rebus or device is to be interpreted "Clifton."

48. A treatise on sailing, or instructions for Pilots as to the coasts of Great Britain, France, Spain, &c. fo. 138.

49. "Thiez ben statutes and ordinancez made by the right noble Prince Kyng Henry the fyfte, at the trefy and counsell of Mawnt." fo. 144.

50. "Other ordinancez made by the Erle of Salesbury and of Perche, and Lord of Monthermer, at his sieges in Mayne and in other places." fo. 150.

This and the preceding article have been printed in the preface to Mr. Grose's "Antiquities of England and Wales." Consult also his "Military Antiquities," vol. II. p. 65, and "Upton de Studio militari," p. 133.

51. "The copie of a lettre made by the Erle of Salesbury and Perche, Captain Generall of the werres of Fraunce, to the worshipfull Bisshop and Clergie and noble burgois of the cite of Maunce." It is a summons of surrender. fo. 152 b. (French.)

glish, "The Booke of all good thewes." Beg. "God Almyghty save and conferme our Kyng." fo. 155.

Lydgate the translator did not live to complete the work, which was afterwards taken up by Benedict Burgh, a Canon of St. Stephen's Westminster, whose part in this manuscript begins at fo. 179 b. It must not be confounded with a similar performance by Thomas Hoccleve. For transcribing this work Ebesham was paid at the rate of a penny per leaf.

55. A copy of King Hen. VIII. letters patent, in Latin, for creating Charles Brandon Viscount Lisle, Duke of Suffolk, anno 1514. fo. 204 b.

Printed in Hearne's Liber niger Scaccarii.

326. folio.

A Volume, part of the Collections of Mr. Roger Dodsworth, containing extracts from the Testa de Nevill and various ancient records relating to the county of Northumberland; with some few matters concerning Yorkshire.

This manuscript afterwards belonged to Mr. Umfreville.

327. folio.

Tenures in the county of Essex, transcribed from divers Escheat Rolls and Inquisitions post mortem from Hen. III. to Rich. III.

The Volume contains likewise some Collections relating to the Honour of Clare and other places in Suffolk. Prefixed is an alphabetical index of places.

328. folio.

A Volume containing extracts from ancient records concerning the repairing of bridges in various counties of England.

It belonged to Mr. Le Neve and Mr. West.

329. folio.

An abstract or abridgment of Domesday Book. Prefixed is an office copy of a part of that record relating to Oxfordshire.

330. folio.

A Volume chiefly of Collections relating to Domesday, made by Philip Carteret Webb, Esq. It contains,

1. Extracts from Domesday for the county of Surrey only, made in fac simile by Edward Falconberge, Esq. one of the Deputy Chamberlains of the Exchequer, to King Charles the Second, at the instance of Henry Hildyard, Esq., a Chamberlain of the Exchequer, whose son presented them to Mr. Le Neve. fo. 1.

Num. 330—336.

2. Mr. Webb's rough notes and collections for his dissertations on Domesday and Danegeld. fo. 19.

3. A printed copy of Mr. Webb's dissertation on Danegeld, with his corrections as it passed through the press. fo. 93.

4. A printed circular addressed to the members of the Society of Antiquaries by their Secretary, requesting the communication of any particulars relating to Domesday Book, Dec. 8, 1757. fo. 107.

331. 12mo.

An almanack for the year 1463; with calculations of eclipses, and a table of the moon's influence in various cases.

Written on vellum. Mr. Baker of Saint John's, Cambridge, to whom this article belonged, has thus recorded his name on the second leaf; "Tho. Baker, Coll. Jo. Socius ejectus."

332. 12mo.

"Divine meditations uppon certeine parables propounded by our Saviour att severall tymes, and especially in his sermons not longe before his death and passion."

At the end is a prayer against the plague through the intercession of Saint Roch.

333. 12mo.

"Methodus hebdomadalis Deo gratias ac laudes persolvendi in et per suam beatissimam creaturam, sponsam, ac Virginem Matrem; præcipue constans psalterio beatissimæ V. M. conscripto a Sancto Bonaventura: cui advenerunt plures psalmi, hymni, lectiones, antiphonæ, orationes; accomodata 7 præcipuis solemnitatibus ejusdem b^{mæ} Dei Genetricis semper Virg. 335. 12mo.

An account, drawn up in Latin by John Fox, the martyrologist, and in his own hand-writing, of John Wicliffe and his followers. Prefixed is a dedication to some unnamed person whom he calls his friend and patron, probably the Duke of Norfolk.

The whole, except the dedication, was printed in his "Res in ecclesia gestæ," Basil 1563, folio, and afterwards translated by himself into English, and inserted, towards the beginning, in his "Acts and Monuments."

336. 12mo.

Extracts from divers ecclesiastical writers: viz. Tertulliani apologeticus adversus gentes; Minutii Felicis Octavius, sive dialogus Christiani et Ethnici disputantium; Cypriani tractatus ad Demetrianum, et sermo de lapsis; S. Hieronymi liber de scriptoribus ecclesi-

Num. 337—343.

asticis; S. Augustini liber de hæresibus; et Cypriani sermo de mortalitate.

337. 12mo.

An antipapistical treatise, in Italian, written about the seventeenth century, or perhaps earlier. It contains much satirical anecdote.

338. 12mo.

Raymundi de Pennaforti summa de pœnitentia et matrimonio. Codex membranaceus, sæc. xv. nitidè exaratus. In fine reperiuntur versiculi quidam leonini de Tempestate, manu cujusdam Johannis Oldfield de Spalding scripti. Liber olim erat Abbatie de Croyland.

339. 12mo.

De vera justificatione Christiani hominis coram Deo, præcipue doctorum et patrum sententiæ [contra Papistas]: et etiam Harmoniæ Evangelicæ ita concinnatæ, ut lector historiam Evangelicam historico modo, et ipsum quoque Evangelium eo ordine quo scripserunt ipsi Evangelistæ, pariter legere: et multa notanda, facilius et melius quam ex ulla harmonia seu concordantia Evangelica unquam antehac in lucem edita, animadvertere et videre poterit." Accedunt annotationes quædam, per Ricardum Beard, Concionatorem.

Huic parvo codici, manu propria D. Beard, ut videtur, concinnè scripto, præfigitur dedicatio ad Reginam Elizabetham; cujus nominis monogramma, ex quibusdam verbis Psalmi primi compositum, in aversa parte primæ folii conspicitur.

340. 12mo.

The life of Saint Richard, Bishop of Chichester, and Confessor, compiled from Ralph Bocking a Monk of Chichester, Matthew Paris, and other writers, by Richard Cleto Stevens, and transcribed by his sister Catherine Sabina Stevens, 1692.

343. 12mo.

A Volume containing miscellaneous pieces of theology, viz.

1. "The Christian yeare," being instructions how to do all one's work well in all seasons of the year; written in a small but legible hand of the seventeenth century. fo. 1.

Num. 343—350.

2. "Private admonitions for our superiors of the Society of Jesus;" transcribed by J. C. from an original written by the hand of John Brenham, [Catholick] Bishop of Waterford, who had it from William Malon his predecessor. fo. 221.

3. Sundry notes for sermons, taken from texts of Scripture. fo. 250.

344. 12mo.

A work in English and Latin, intitled "Speculum Christiani," interspersed with much English poetry, or rather rhymes, being an exposition, from the Apostles, Saints, and Fathers, of the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, the Decalogue, the seven deadly sins, &c.

It has been printed by William de Machlinia, without date. See Herbert's Hist. of English Printing, p. 113.

Bishop Tanner has ascribed this work to John Watton, whose name appears at the end of a copy of it at Oxford; but this person was, in all probability, merely the transcriber of the manuscript.

On fo. 1* are tables for finding the dominical letter, bissextile, and golden number for the year 1425.

345. 12mo.

A Collection of sermons written in short hand by M^r Strype. Among these is one written at length on Luke ii. ver. 49.

346. 12mo.

348. 8vo.

Richard Hampole's Pricke of Conscience, in English verse. Beg. "The myght of the Fader Allmighti." Written on vellum in the fifteenth century.

This manuscript belonged to Sir Henry Spelman, whose name is written on the back of the first leaf, on which are scribbled some charms from Albertus Magnus.

349. 8vo.

The register book of the Cathedral of Tours, written on vellum in the 14th century. At fo. 18 is a confirmation on the part of Henry II. of England of a release granted by his father the Earl of Anjou to the Archbishops of Tours of a claim to the furniture belonging to the dwellings of their predecessors, reserving only the wine and precious metals.

350. 4to.

A miscellaneous Volume, containing,

1. A fragment of the Golden Legend, in English, written in the 15th century, relating to the lives of Pope Urban and Saint Pernel or Petronilla. fo. 1.

Num. 350—353.

2. "A catalogue of the Martyrs and other persons of the Society eminent in virtue, recited on their severall dayes after the martyrologe, as in the refectory of the Casa professa in Rome. Beginning from the 31 of July of the year 1619." fo. 2.

Notwithstanding this date, the lives are included between the years 1549 and 1621.

3. A commentary, in Latin, on the Articles of the Church of England, by A. Pritchard, 1699. The author has recorded, that he undertook the work "jussu Episcopi." fo. 37.

The Articles themselves, or at least their substance, are prefixed; and it is observable that the disputed clause in art. 20, on the authority of the Church in controversies of faith, is omitted.

4. "Linea vitæ: A line of life. Pointing att the immortality of a virtuous name." By John De La Ford; with a dedication to Sir James Hay Knight, Lord Viscount Doncaster. fo. 143.

This is said, in a note written by some former possessor of the MS. to be a very sensible discourse, and to have been composed after the death of Sir Walter Raleigh, in the time of King James I. It includes characters of Lord Harrington, Raleigh, the Earl of Essex, the Duke of Biron, Sir John Vernalden Barnevelt, and King James.

5. "An apologie for John Wickliffe; with answers to such slanderous objections as have been lately urged against him by Father Parsons, the apologists, and others." By Thomas James. fo. 184.

Printed at Oxford, 1608, and transcribed, on account of its rarity, by Mr. Lewis, the author of the Life of Wickliffe.

351. 4to.

A Volume of miscellaneous pieces: viz.

1. A letter of instruction, or pastoral charge, in Latin, written by Father Claudius Aquaviva, General of the Jesuits, to those of his order. Rome, 24 June 1604. fo. 1.

This has been printed.

logist, and in his own hand-writing. Beg. "Quousque tandem abutere patientia nostra, Rom. pontifex?" Imperfect at the end. fo. 225.

3. Collections out of the Prophets and New Testament concerning the conversion and restoration of the Jews. By Roger Edwards, 1580. Dedicated to Lord Burghley and others. fo. 385.

It has been justly intitled by some former possessor "a phantastical booke."

A Latin common-place book, chiefly theological, by R. B. At the beginning are some Latin distichs extracted from "Buchleri institutio poetica," and, at the end, some translations into English, by R. B. of Latin epigrams, &c.

On a few leaves which had remained blank in the middle of the volume Mr. Strype has written, in shorthand, some memorials of M^r James Bonnel of Ireland, dated June 1699, and other matters.

355. folio.

The correspondence between D^r John Covell, Chaplain to the English embassy at Constantinople, with the Greek and Armenian clergy at Adrianople, Philipoli, and Jerúsalem, in the years 1673 and 1675, written in the Greek language.

Dr. Covell was appointed Chaplain to Sir Daniel Harvey, Ambassador to the Porte from King Charles II. and on his return home became Master of Christ's College, Cambridge, and afterwards Vicechancellor of that University. See the preface to his "Account of the Greek Church, 1722," in folio, and MS. Harl. 6943. There is a very copious life of him compiled by the Rev. Mr. Cole, in vol. XX. fo. 72, of his MS. collections, now in the British Museum.

356. 8vo.

359. 4to.

Sermones varii quos adquisivit ecclesiæ Sancti Augustini Cantuariensis frater Johannes Mankael.
Codex membranaceus, sæc. xiv.

360. 8vo.

A theological common-place book, with much shorthand intermixed, seemingly by John Johnson, Minister of Frinsbury.

361. 4to.

1. "Commentaria in librum exercitiorum B. P. Ignatii."
2. "Compendium praxis orationis mentalis, ex libro exercitiorum beati nostri Patris Ignatii."

362. 4to.

The first part of the Speculum contemplationis of Walter Hylton, Monk of Sion, temp. Hen. VI. in English prose.

This work has been printed by Wynkyn de Worde, under the title of Scala perfectionis, or The ladder of perfeccyon, and reprinted in 1659, 12mo, the language being modernised and greatly altered. Beg. "Gostly brother or sister in Jhu crist i praye ye that in the callyng."

The present is not the same work as "The contemplations of Walter Hilton," Cotton MS. Faustina, B. vi. 22, which is in verse, and ascribed to our Monk, apparently without authority, by the first compiler of the Cotton Catalogue, who was probably deceived by the similitude of the titles.

This MS. is written on vellum, and of the fifteenth century.

At the end of the Speculum is a fragment on two leaves only, written in the fourteenth century, of the old French metrical romance of Milles and Amys.

363. 4to.

Some rhapsodical ejaculations in rhyme, by one W. Tipping, Gent. the burthen of which is the author's repentance for having been seduced to marry an artful strumpet of the name of Fletcher, in whose praise he had formerly written a book; and which marriage seems completely to have deranged his understanding. These are followed by a piece on the story of the Prodigal Son, and several other pious matters in verse. At the beginning of the volume is a list of books written by this madman, among which are two dedicated to King William. Interspersed are some indifferent prints by Van Hove and others, chiefly relating to the story of the Prodigal Son.

Num. 363—368.

364. 4to.

A Volume of Collections relating to the temporalities of the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, London, and other matters belonging to that cathedral. On the first leaf is the name of J. Franklin, 1684, who was probably the Archivist, or Register, of St. Paul's, and the person who made these collections.

365. 4to.

A Volume containing,

1. "Statuta antiqua Curie Cons. Ebor. una cum regulis recentioribus ac tabulis feodorum in curiis Archiepiscopi Ebo. usitat. litterisque patentibus officiariorum earundem. Anno 1669." At p. 29 is the Life of Archbishop Greenfield, in English.

This collection seems to have been made by one William Littell.

366. 4to.

Martyrologium ad usum ecclesiæ Norwicensis, cum calendario. Codex membran. sæc. xv.

This volume had been purchased by Mr. West out of the library of Sir Joseph Jekyll, and had belonged to Lord Somers. The dedication of the church at Norwich is entered in the calendar on the 24th Sept. There seems to have been a use for the diocese of Norwich, and probably for all the others. See Nasmith's Catal. of the MSS. in C. C. Coll. Cambrige, No. cccclv. On the back of fo. 2. is a Latin hymn on the wise men's offering.

367. 4to.

A commentary on the Epistles and Gospels of the Church service, written in the seventeenth century by a member of the Church of Rome.

368. 4to.

A work intitled "Margarita Evangelica, sive tractatus de fide; quo probatur, ex verbo Dei, non esse inter mortales nisi unicum fidem, nisi unicum religionem quæ verè divina et salutifera est; ubi etiam operose disputatur quæ religio inter omnes prætendentes illustri hoc titulo sola nobilitetur."

It has a preface signed N. F., addressed chiefly to the English Protestants, for whose conversion the book seems to have been written, in very good Latin, by some zealous Catholic missionary, about the reign of King Charles II.

Num. 369—376.

369. 8vo.

Pauli de Venetiis Sermones quadragesimales.

Codex partim chartaceus, partim membranaceus, sæc. xv. vitiosè scriptus. Desunt nonnulla in fine.

370—373. 4to.

A Collection of Saxon Homilies in four Volumes, transcribed by the Rev. Mr. Elstob, rector of St. Swithin's at Londonstone, and his sister Elizabeth, and in part translated by them, with a view to their publication. At the end of vol. IV. are,

1. Two leaves of an intended edition of King Alfred's version of Orosius, printed at Oxford, 1699, 4to.

2. Two leaves of an intended edition of Ælfric's Homilies, printed at Oxford, 1715, folio, including the proposals.

374. folio.

Another volume, transcribed by Mr. Elstob and his sister, which, as well as the four immediately preceding, were in the possession of Mr. Ames, and at his sale were purchased by Mr. West. It contains the Saxon homilies of Ælfric, and also his extracts from Bede de Temporibus. At the end is a catalogue of the Saxon tracts in the first volume of Saxon homilies belonging to Bennet college library, transcribed by another hand.

375. 4to.

The Register book of the Almoner of the abbey of St. Alban, written on vellum in the fifteenth century. It contains an account of every thing relating to the office of Eleemosinary, or Almoner, of the above abbey, from the latter part of the reign of Edw. III. to the 16th year of Rich. II. At the beginning is an account, from fo. 6 to fo. 51, of a process between the abbey of St. Alban and William Cheselden Rector of Hortpoole, relating to tithes, A.D. 1428. Then follows a very exact and copious table of the contents of this register.

At the beginning of the volume is a brief account of it, drawn up by Dr. Ducarel, at the instance of James West, Esq. the former owner; and on fo. 2 the following memorandum, in the hand-writing of Dr. White Kennett, Bishop of Peterborough: "Cartularium eleemosinariæ mon. S^ci Albani, olim in custodia antecessoris mei Thomæ Dove, Episcopi de Burgo S. Petri, gratissimum mihi munus dedit Henr. Dove de Upton, Armiger, die XXI Aug. A.D. 1722."

376. 4to.

A work written in the seventeenth century, and intitled, "A treatise concerning the pietie and devotion we ought to beare towards our Blessed Lady the Mother of God."

It contains a great number of miraculous incidents extracted from various authors.

Num. 377.

377. 4to.

25. An application of a passage from St. Austin de Fide, against English Catholicks communicating with hereticks. fo. 123.
 26. A narration, by some fanatick, of certain visions that he had seen in hell and elsewhere. fo. 124.

Num. 378—380.

378. 8vo.

An old English exposition of the Rule of Saint Benet; to which is added the form of making or receiving a novice of that order. Written on vellum in the fifteenth century.

It is composed in a Northern dialect, and is a curious and uncommon specimen of the kind. The Rule itself was printed in an English translation by Wynkyn de Worde, 1514; and there is a metrical version among the Cotton MSS. Vesp. A xxv. 16.

379. 4to.

A miscellaneous Volume formerly belonging to Mr. West, and purchased by him from the library of Sir Joseph Jekyl. It contains,

1. Oratio D. Johannis Damasceni, versibus Anacreonticis, Gr. et Lat. sæc. xvii. fo. 1.
 2. A sermon, in old English, on the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. fo. 15.
 3. A sermon on Easter-day. fo. 20.
 4. A sermon on All Saints day. Imperfect at the end. fo. 24.
- These three discourses seem to have been written about the year 1500.
5. An imperfect copy of a tract printed by Wynkyn de Worde, being a declaration of the articles of faith, the 10 commandments, the 7 works of mercy, &c. At the end are two leaves supplied by manuscript. fo. 29.
 6. A medicine to break the stone in a man's body. fo. 43 b.
 7. An old carrol, beg. "Tydyngs tydyngs that be tewe." fo. 44.

de lesglise." fo. 145 b.
 39. "Les utilites et prouffis que on peut avoir et acquérir de oyr la messe." fo. 145 b.
- This article is wanting; which has given occasion to a former possessor of the book to remark in a note that "it has been probably cut out by some Puritan."
40. "Les joyes de Paradis et paines denfer." fo.
146.

Of this the latter part only remains, owing to the depredation alluded to in the last preceding article.

A book written on vellum and containing the following pieces;

1. Eleven leaves of an ancient Latin Psalter, written in the 10th or 11th century, chiefly in letters of gold on purple vellum, and, judging from the names of some particular saints in the calendar prefixed to it, either in France or Flanders. On the first leaf is the hundredth psalm, and on the back of it a painting of the crucifixion. On the opposite page another painting of the resurrection. On fo. 2 b, the prayer "Do-mine, exaudi orationem meam," in letters of gold. On fo. 3 b the calendar begins, which is elegantly written in letters of gold on a purple ground, between columns that support arches in which are the signs of the zodiac and the occupations or symbols of the months.
On fo. 9 b and 10 are paintings of the annunciation and presentation of Christ, with figures below of Moses, Gideon, and Malachi. On fo. 10 b the Psalter begins, the first psalm being written in gold on a purple ground. On fo. 11 b is a part only of the second psalm.

All the paintings are in a good style for so early a period.

2. A fragment of a Breviary for the use of Salisbury, written in the 15th century, near the end of which is "How and in what maner men and wōmen of symple connyng mowe thenke or preie in here bygynnyng," with two prayers or meditations, likewise in English.
These are followed by the five joys of the Virgin, prayers to Saint Mary Magdalen, Saint Agnes, Saint Helen, the Virgin Mary, and Jesus Christ, all in French rhymes.

Num. 382—386.

382. 4to.

Evangelium secundum Marcum, cum glossa interlineari et commentariis S. Hieronymi et Venerabilis Bedæ. Codex membranaceus sæc. XII. pulcherrimè scriptus, olim monasterii S. Osithæ de Chich. Postea transivit in Bibliothecas Dom. Somers, Jos. Jekyll, & J. Welsh.

383. 8vo.

A Latin Psalter, elegantly written on vellum towards the beginning of the twelfth century, and decorated with several paintings executed with great neatness, though of the ruder kind. As these are undoubted specimens of the art as practised in England, and also of English costume at the above period, they will be appreciated accordingly.

Prefixed is a calendar with paintings of the zodiacal signs and occupations of the months; before which is a table of the number of nones, ides, and calends, in every month, and of the concurrents and lunar epacts. At the end of the calendar is a nineteen years cycle for the celebration of Easter, communicated by an angel to Saint Pachomius in Egypt, and afterwards confirmed by the Council of Nice. At the end of the Psalter are the usual canticles, Saint Athanasius's Creed, the Litany, and various prayers and invocations to saints. On a spare leaf at the beginning of this manuscript is a fragment of an old French metrical "conte devot" of the vision that some Knight, perhaps Sir Owain, had of hell and the torments of the damned. There is an imperfection between fo. 171 and 172.

A Volume formerly belonging to Mr. Strype, being a part of the collections of John Fox the Martyrologist for his "Acts and Monuments." Most of them are printed in that work. With these is bound up at the end, a discourse, addressed to Queen Elizabeth, for defence against the threatened invasion of the Holy League.

Written about the year 1580 by Robert, afterwards Captain, Hitchcock, of Caversfield in Bucks.

390. 4to.

A transcript, on vellum, of the acts of foundation and endowment of an alms-house for twelve poor men and one poor woman, at Heighesbury, in Wiltshire, by Margaret widow of Robert Lord Hungerford, John Cheyne, of Pynne, Esquire, and John Mervyn, Esquire, ann. 11 & 12 Regis Edw. IV.

391. 4to.

An abridgement of the register or chartulary of Harwolde or Harwood Priory, in the county of Bedford, of which the following account is given in a manuscript note at the beginning by Dr. Ducarel; "This chartulary is now (1763) in the library of James West, Esquire. It is a small 4to or large 8vo, and contains 58 folios. It is an extract or rather an abbreviation of the charters of that priory, from its foundation to A.D. 1414. It contains some account of the churches of Harewolde, Steventon, and Shakerstone; and of some lands in Bydenham, Bedford, Wroxhulle, Myddilton, Strattoune, Holm, Bletnysho, Wodhull, Hanewyk, Crowle, Harewolde, Astwode, Sulbery, Hemyingforde, Gyllyng, Portenhale, Stachedon, Wuttenborne, Kempstonborne, Carleton, and Shakerstone, belonging to this priory; and at the beginning, in a modern hand, the names of the Prioresses which occur in this book." The Doctor adds a query whether this be not the register formerly belonging to Walter Clavell, Esquire, mentioned by Bishop Tanner.

At the beginning of the register itself it is intitled "Extractus sive abbreviatio cartarum sive munimentorum, reddituum, terrarum, tepementorum, a fundacione et ex antiquo in puram et perpetuam elemosinam collatorum de Harewolde spectantium Priorisse et conventui de eadem."

392. 4to.

A miscellaneous Volume, containing the following pieces, written on vellum in the 14th and 15th centuries.

1. The work intitled "The festial or festival"; often printed by our earliest printers. fo. 1*.

A note written in an ancient hand at the bottom of fo. 1* ascribes it to one Plommer; but this is a mistake, it being well known that John Mirk, a Canon of the monastery of Lilleshull in Shropshire, was the real author. See Cotton MS. Claud. A. ii. In the same library there is an older festival in verse; Jul. D ix. On the first leaf of the present MS. there is the following, but not contemporary, title; "This boke is called the festiall of Englishe sermones, necessari to simple curates and parishe priestes." The conclusion is wanting; and some of the leaves have been transposed in the binding. At the end of the volume is a table or index to the festival, in a modern hand.

20. "Concordata inter Ambasiatores sacri Concilii Basiliensis et Boemos, nomine regni et marchionatus in Praga facta." fo. 264 b.

21. A satirical poem on the times, in stanzas of 8 lines; ascribed, with some probability, to Lydgate, by Mr. Umfrevile, a former possessor of this manuscript, which came out of Mr. Powle's collection. It begins: "All ryghtwysnes doth now procede;" and the burden is, "Cōwayd [conveyed] be lyne as ryght as a ramys horne."

See Harl. MS. No. 2251, fo. 20, for a fragment of the same poem.

Num. 410—415.

410. folio.

A modern transcript of a confirmation by King Edw. IV. in the first year of his reign, of certain recited charters and grants formerly made to the Dean and Canons of Saint Stephen's chapel at Westminster. This patent roll is not in the printed collection.

411. folio.

A transcript of the register of Evesham Abbey, made from the original in the Cotton library. Vesp. B xxiv.

412. folio.

"Nomina omnium rectoriarum et vicariorum infra regnum Anglie, Wallie, et Cales, et Marchiarum eorundem, ultra annualem valorem decem librarum."

Præmittitur index rectoriarum et vicariorum manu recentiori.

413. folio.

A Collection of historical matters, chiefly relating to the Reformation and its consequences; with a treatise on "the general and only moving cause why Queen Elizabeth, her late Majestie, was drawne by the statists of her tymes to prevaricate the liberties of the holy Church;" made, with considerable learning and ability, by some member of the Church of Rome, in the time of K. James I. The first chapter of this work is wanting.

414. folio.

A Volume, in which are bound together the following pieces:

1. "La vraie religion démontrée par l'Ecriture Sainte; traduite de l'Anglois de Gilbert Burnet. A Londres, chez G. Cook, 1745."

"Examen de la religion dont on cherche l'eclaircissement de bonne foy, attribué à Mons^r de S^t Evremond. A Trevoux. Aux depens des Peres de la Societé de Jesus."

The work to which this double title is prefixed was undoubtedly written by neither of the persons therein named. Its tendency is of a very opposite nature to any thing which they would have made public. pag. 1*.

2. "Heaven's Apologie, or an answeare to the manifold untruths, falsifications, slanders, and other abuses offered to the ancient Fathers and other Catholike writers by Mr. Thomas Harding, minister, in his treatise written against invocation of Sayncts. By P. J. a Catholike Devine." fo. 119.

3. A collection of godly prayers, written in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, by R. B. with ornamented initial letters, and flourished borders. fo. 247.

In the last page, and on a label written by the same hand, "Homo homini demon."

415. folio.

The register or chartulary of the Monastery of Gerondon, or Geroldon, in the county of Leicester. It contains grants and charters from the time of Henry I. to Edw. III. concerning lands chiefly in the following places:—Aleby, fo. 10 b, & seq. 23 b, 31 b; Bernewang, fo. 10; Burton, fo. 7 & seq. 17 & seq. 22 & seq. 30; Cortingstock, fo. 5 & seq. 15 b, 16, 23, 27 b; Dixley, fo. 20; Estwell, fo. 9; Goutely, fo. 9 b, 20 b; Haliwellhage or Haliwellhawe, fo. 25, 33 b; Melton, fo. 10; Rampeston, 6 b, 29; Ringolden or Ringoldcorp, fo. 4, 10, 20; Segheswald, fo. 19 b; Stanton, fo. 4 b, 14 b, 15, 27; Swinesfen, fo. 26; Wollstonewell, 8 b; Wymundwold, 33 b; Ybestock, fo. 4, 14, 20, 26. It also contains divers Popes bulls, charters of Kings Henry I. and II. and Stephen; Kings writts, agreements, and various other instruments. On the last leaf is an entry of pestilences in the years 1348, 1360, 1361, 1368, 1369, 1374, and 1375.

A copy of the original grant or endowment of this monastery by Robert Bossu Earl of Leicester is in fo. 13, and not at the beginning, as stated in a very inaccurate note by D^r Ducarel, the latter being a charter from his son Robert avec les blanches mains.

This register, which is fairly written on vellum, was in the possession of the Duke of Buckingham, A.D. 1680, and afterwards in the library of Mr. West.

416. folio.

"Registrum reddituum domorum et terrarum in villa et in campis Sancti Edmundi, et in aliis diversis villis et locis pertinentibus officio Infirmarii monasterii Sancti Edmundi, factum anno Domini 1425, Dompno Thoma Ikworth tunc infirmario existente."

The lands, possessions, &c. mentioned in this register, are arranged in alphabetical order, and written on the upper margins. It has been very fairly transcribed on vellum, about the commencement of the reign of Henry VI. At the beginning is the instrument establishing an anniversary for Stephen, physician to the infirmary, dated A.D. 1257; and at fo. 89 b, a grant from Edward the Confessor to the Monastery of Bury Saint Edmund's.

This manuscript was in the possession of Charles Battely, Esq. A.D. 1698, and afterwards in the library of Mr. West.

417. folio.

The register book or chartulary of the abbey of Meldunum or Malmesbury, in Wiltshire, very finely written on vellum, in the reign of King Richard II. It begins with a charter granted to the monastery of Maelduburg, by King Berthwald, of lands at Summerford on the river Thames.

Prefixed is an original and exact table of contents, a part of which is unfortunately wanting, as mentioned in a note at the beginning of the volume by Dr. Ducarel, who has also pointed out some other imperfections. From the library of Mr. West.

418. folio.

A Volume of miscellaneous Irish collections, formerly belonging to Henry Earl of Clarendon, Viceroy of Ireland; but originally made by Sir James Ware, whose autograph is on fo. 3. It is the 47th article in the list of Lord Clarendon's MSS. printed in "Catalogus librorum manuscriptorum Angliæ et Hiberniæ, Oxon. 1697, folio; tom. II. pars ii. p. 3." The following are its contents:

34. Some Latin verses that may be read in various directions. Beg. "Celi reginam laudemus crebro Mariam." fo. 91 b.
35. A note on the 12 tribes of Israel. fo. 91 b.
36. An ancient French poem concerning the foundation of the city of Ross in Ireland, written in the year 1265. Beg. "Talent me prent de vinnancer;" [qu. a mistake of the copyist for "romancer"?]
37. A note by the transcriber of the eight preceding articles from the Book of Ross, that there is in this book a long discourse in metre, putting the youth of Waterford in mind of harin taken by the Povers, and wishing them to beware for the time to come. Of this he transcribes the first stanza only, beginning, "Yung men of Waterford lernith now to plei." fo. 94.
- The Povers seem to mean the paupers, the rabble.
38. A Latin hymn beginning, "Gloriose presul Thoma." fo. 94 b.
39. "Collections out of an old booke sometime belonging to Christchurche, Dublin, and now in the library of Trinitie Colledge by Dublin: gathered in Jan. 1604, by D. Molyneux Ulster." fo. 95.
- These are notes from an old calendar, in which the deaths of several eminent persons had been entered.

421. folio.

A Volume formerly belonging to Mr. Le Neve and afterwards to Mr. West. It contains the following articles :

1. "A collection shewing what jurisdiction the Clergie hath heretofore lawfully used, and may lawfully use in the realme of England. Wherein is manifestly proved that the Prelates or Ecclesiasticall Judges never had any authoritie to compell any subject of the land to an oath unlesse it were in causes testamentary or matrimoniall, or thereto appertaininge, with a confutation of such frivolous and unlearned surmises as have beene made for the maintenance of the Clergies unlawfull proceedings in these days to the contrary, whereby they have sundry waies incurred the penalties of the statuts of provision and præmunire." fo. 1^a.

2. "Certaine collections and inferences concerning matter of prohibition and consultations, not unfitt to be thought upon for the better preservation of Her Majesties jurisdiction ecclesiasticall, 1598." fo. 100.

3. "Articles of abuses which are desired to be reformed in granting of prohibitions." fo. 106.

4. "A preface to the answeres of the Judges of the Common Pleas, to the objection made on behalfe of the Archbishop of Canterbury against prohibitions." fo. 107.

5. "The grounds of the prohibitions to the High Commission, and the answers unto them." fo. 120 b.

6. "Prohibitions grounded upon this position, that the interpretation of all statutes belongs to the Judges of the temporall Courts." fo. 127.

7. "Prohibitions grounded on mere surmise, not pleaded in the Spirituall Courte." fo. 130.

8. "A declaration of the true grounds of the prohibition to the Commissioners, and the reasons approving the same, &c." fo. 131.

9. "The second question propounded on behalf of the Archb. of Canterbury, touchinge the exposition of statutes concerning ecclesiasticall causes, whether the same belong to the Judges of the realme or to the interpretation of the Civilians." fo. 151.

10. "The third question on behalf of the Archb. of Canterbury, whether if tithes in kind be not divided and sett forth, an action may be brought in any of the courts at Westminster for treble damages, on the statute of 2 Ed. VI. ca. 13." fo. 163.

11. "A breviat of the selected proofes touching the recovery of the treble value in the Spirituall Court." fo. 170 b.

Num. 421—425.

13. "An answeare to the chiefe pointes selected touching modus decimandi, &c." fo. 183.

14. "Authorities in lawe approving the point in question, and the reasons first sett downe." fo. 196.

15. "Concerning the three Acts of Parliament of 6 Hen. VIII., 32 Hen. VIII., and 2 E. I. VI." fo. 204.

16. "A breviat of the selected proofes prohibitions out of the Common Place [Pleas] noe record being before them." fo. 210 b.

17. "In what cases the Common Pleas may grant prohibitions by lawe, and many presidents of former tymes, and in what not." fo. 213.

422. folio.

A work entitled "An ecclesia sit libera? A new question about ancient rights of the Church; or an humble enquiry into some privileges of the Church and Clergy, and more particularly, whether spirituall revenues, especially tithes (as the law now stands) are liable to the charges for the repair of highways; with all due submission to authority, and in the way of apology, propos'd and offer'd by P. Lancaster, M.A. Rector of Torpurley in Cheshire, and one of the Prebendaries of the cathedral church of Chester." With a dedication to Sir John Crewe of Utkinton in Cheshire. Written about the year 1705.

The author's own manuscript.

423. folio.

"A treatise conteyninge the manner of life and death of the most holly Prelate and constant martir of Christ John Fisher, Bishopp of Rochester and Cardinall of the holly Church of Rome." At the end is the following memorandum, "1720, June 8. P^d M^r Dan. Eaton for transcribing this life of Bp. Fisher, from the Right Honble George Earl of Cardigan's copy, in Deen Library £ 1. 1. 0.

424. folio.

The Register or Chartulary of the Abbey of Melsa or Meaux, in the county of York, written on vellum in the 15th century. It appears to have belonged to Christopher Hylyard in the year 1553, and was afterwards in the library of Mr. West, for whom Dr. Ducarel has drawn up the following summary of its contents:

Various Popes bulls, from Eugenius III. to Clement VI. fo. 4 to 33.

Chartæ Episcoporum et Capit' Ebor', à temp. Walteri de Grai, Ebor. Archiep., ad an. 1374. fo. 34 to 66.

Chartæ Regum, à Steph. ad Ed. III. fo. 68 to 94.

Compositiones, privilegia, chartæ variæ, &c. &c., ab ann. 1273 ad 1373. fo. 94 b. to 160.

It has the original but unfinished index or table of contents. It is defective at the end.

425. folio.

A confirmation, by Silvester Bishop of Worcester, of the charter of annexation and appropriation of the Rectory of Tredyngton in the above diocese, to the exempt monastery of Saint Peter Westminster, April 17, 1509. On vellum.

Three seals were formerly appendant to this confirmation.

Num. 426—429.

426. folio.

Liber de prima fundatione monasterii Sancti Petri Glocestriæ, ab Osrico subregulo, de licentia Regis Ethelredi; ubi de Kyneburga, aliisque Abbatissis quæ ecclesiam primo, deinde de Clericis qui post ipsas eandem rexerant, de Abbatibus, h. e. à Serlone, primo Abbate A° 1072, ad Walterum Froncestre Abbatem vicissimum A° 1381. Transcriptum ex Bibliothecâ Cottonianâ, Domit. viii. 21.

427. folio.

A Volume containing the following transcripts from the Cotton library.

1. "Calendarium, in quo benefactorum Monasterii Eveshamensis, qui diebus illis signatis commemorantur, nomina apponuntur." fo. 1.

From Vitellius E xii. art. 4, destroyed in the fire.

2. Cartæ Saxonice monasteriis de Westbury, Breodune, et Wigornie, tempore Bernulphi, Offæ, Cenedi, Egfredi, et Ethelbaldi Regum Merciorum." fo. 42.

From Nero E i. art. 129.

428. folio.

A Volume of collections or common places relating to the English ecclesiastical law, in the hand writing of John Anstis, Esquire, Garter King at Arms; supposed to have been made in the early part of his life.

429. folio.

A Volume containing the following articles transcribed from the Cotton library:

1. Vitæ Abbatum Croylandiæ, à Kenulpho et Turketelo ad Ricardum natum in villa de Upton qui obiit anno 5° R. Hen. 6th. 1427." From Vesp. B xi. art. 4. fo. 1.

These are translated into English and printed in the first volume of Stevens's Suppl. to Dugdale's Monasticon, fol. 356.

2. "Prima fundatio Fratrum Minorum London.: ubi agitur de fundatione ecclesiæ veteris et novæ; de aquæ ductu, et de fundatione bibliothecæ, &c." From Vitell. F xii. art. 15. fo. 7.

An English translation printed in the first volume of Stevens's Suppl. to the Monasticon, fol. 112.

3. "Nomina illorum qui fuerunt Fratres Minores pro fide Christi martyrizati, &c." From Vitell. F xii. art. 16. fo. 24.

An English translation printed in the first vol. of Stevens's Suppl. to the Monasticon, p. 121.

4. An extract from Tiber. A v. containing an account of some of the Abbots of Glastonbury. fo. 35.

Printed in English, in the first vol. of the Suppl. to the Monasticon, fo. 428.

5. "Vitæ Abbatum monasterii S. Augustini Cantuariæ, cum bullis quibusdam Papalibus ad eandem Abbatiam spectantibus." From Tiber. A xi. art. 12. fo. 96.

This seems to be nearly the same as Thorne's work in the X. Scriptores. An English translation is printed in the first vol. of the Suppl. to the Monasticon, fo. 304. The end is wanting in the present transcript.

Num. 429—434.

6. "Impositions and taxes on the state, gathered out of monkish registers and stories, from the Conquest to Hen. VII." From Cleop. F vi. art. 11. fo. 140.

7. "A short and successive declaration of all taxation and supplies laid upon the state in every King's time, of money, men, ships, victuals." From Cleop. F vi. fo. 183.

The last two articles have been partly inserted in "The Royal Treasury of England, or a General History of Taxes," by Capt. John Stevens, to whom the present manuscript belonged.

430. folio.

A Volume formerly belonging to Henry Powle, Esq., Speaker of the House of Commons and afterwards Master of the Rolls, containing an abstract of the principal passages in the Registers of the Archbishops of Canterbury, remaining at Lambeth, collected by Mr. Selden, and transcribed from the manuscript under his own hand, in Lincoln's Inn library, shelf vi., MS. 15. Also a list of all the writs extant in the close rolls, for summoning convocations, from the 9 Ed. II. to the end of Ed. IV., copied out of Hales's MSS. in Lincoln's Inn library, shelf iii., MS. 1.

431. folio.

433. folio.

Codex membranaceus, sæc. XIV. et XV. exaratus, in quo continentur,

1. S. Hieronymi interpretatio nominum Hebræorum, ordine alphabetico. fo. 1.

2. Isidori Hispalensis Episcopi, originum sive etymologiarum Libri XX. Desiderantur folium primum, et pars libri undevicesimi, à capite 19 usque ad cap. 22. fo. 42.

3. Expositio libri Salomonis qui dicitur Ecclesiastes. fo. 192.

434. folio.

The Register Book of fines, reliefs, &c. received by the Abbot and Monastery of Chertsey in Surry, from the 1st to the 21st year of King Edw. III.; written on parchment in that reign. At the end are copies of a few charters relating to lands in Egham.

Num. 435, 436.

435. folio.

The Register book or Chartulary belonging to the Abbey of Chertsey, commencing at A.D. 1307, and ending A.D. 1344, fairly written on vellum.

On some spare leaves of paper at the beginning and end of the manuscript there is a very copious and accurate account of its particular contents, written in a modern hand by some former possessor, who has nevertheless omitted the mention of a survey of the manor of Egham, on the first four leaves, but which forms no part of the original Register. It is said to be no more than a cancelled fragment of a more general survey, intitled "Bundacio Extentorum Maneriorum ad Abbatiam de Certeseia spectantium, facta temp. Johannis de Ruthewick, vel Retherwijk, Abbatis." This Register was in the successive possession of Henry Powle, Esq. Master of the Rolls, Lord Somers, Sir Joseph Jekyll, and Mr. West, the latter of whom appears to have employed Dr. Ducarel to examine this and other similar volumes in his collection; and his accounts of them, not always the most correct, are preserved in most of them. That belonging to the present, and referred to in the former catalogue, is wanting.

the names of God and the Holy Trinity. In the middle of the book are eighteen leaves of an old printed Bible, containing the Scripture genealogies, illuminated.

441. folio.

A Volume in which are bound together two original indentures very fairly ingrossed on vellum, the leaves being all indented at the top. Of these and their contents the following is a minute and faithful description.

1. The first page of the first deed is elegantly illuminated with a broad border, the ground gummy gold, and decorated with roses and portcullises alternately placed. The initial letter of the deed, a C, is elegantly painted in blue, and within it one of the coats of the earldom of Richmond: Checquy or and az. a Bordure gu. charged with lions passant gardant or, a Canton ermine.
2. The indenture purports to be made the 2d day of March, the 21st year of the reign of King Henry the VIIth between the right excellent Princess Margaret, Countess of Richmond and Derby, mother to the said King, of the one part, and John Islip Abbot of the monastery of Saint Peter of Westminster, and the Prior and the Convent of the same monastery, of the other part. fo. 2.
3. Witnesseth that the Abbot, &c. of the said monastery, by a deed dated the 30th Dec. 1496, had bound their successors to the said Princess, to find a Monk of the said monastery to say daily mass whilst the world should endure, at the altar and shrine of Saint Edward's chapel, for her good estate during life and for her soul after her decease, to the performance of which they now further bind themselves. fo. 2.
4. The nature of the mass specified. fo. 2 b.
5. Two more perpetual chantry masses to be established, and a solemn anniversary with 70 wax tapers; also a brother called a Converse to help the Monks at their masses, and two perpetual Readers of theology, one at Oxford and the other at Cambridge, with lands to each of the yearly value of twenty pounds. fo. 3.
6. Foundation of a perpetual chantry of a Preacher in the University of Cambridge, with an annual salary of 10*l*. fo. 3 b.
7. Grant to the Abbot and Convent of the advowsons of Swineshead and Cheshunt, and of other lands of the yearly value of 150*l*. fo. 4.
8. Grant of the manor of Drayton, with lands in West Drayton, Hillingdon, Colham, Uxbridge, Willesdon, Paddington, Westburn, and Kensington, lately purchased of Sir Reynold Bray, knight, of the yearly value of 27*l*. 13*s*. 4*d*. Also of lands at Great Chesterford in Essex, of the yearly value of 6*l*., to defray the expenses of the before-mentioned chantry masses, anniversary, Converse brother, Readers, &c. fo. 5.
9. Bulls purchased from the Popes for daily masses as great as at Scala Cœli at Rome. fo. 7.
10. The Abbot and Monastery to pray for the souls of the Princess Margaret; the King her son, and his children; Edmund Earl of Richmond; John Duke of Somerset and his wife, the father and mother of the Princess Margaret, and of all her progenitors; Thomas Earl of Derby and Henry Lord Stafford, her late husbands; Elizabeth late Queen of England, and her children, and for all the souls that the said Princess Margaret shall have prayed for, &c. fo. 8.
11. The above masses to be said daily whilst the world shall endure, at the altar of our Lady's chapel in the north side of the monastery called the Old Lady of Pewe, except only on Sherethursday, Goodfriday, the vigils of Easter, and the coronation days of the sovereigns of England. fo. 9.

12. Particular directions for saying the masses. fo. 9.

13. Particular collects, &c. to be said for the souls of the above parties. fo. 12.

14. The Monks to take a solemn oath for the due performance of the masses, &c. fo. 16 b.

15. Covenant of the Abbot and Monastery for the observance of the above masses, &c. whilst the world shall endure. fo. 17.

16. Each of the two mass Monks to have an additional weekly stipend of twenty pence. fo. 17.

17. Particular directions concerning the anniversary. fo. 17 b.

18. The bells of the monastery to be rung before every dirige and mass. fo. 18 b.

19. Special collects at the high mass of requiem appointed. fo. 19.

20. Particular psalters to be said. fo. 20 b.

21. Covenant of the Abbot and Convent to erect a hearse in the quire of the monastery at each anniversary, until such time as the chapel of our Lady be built and a tomb erected there for the body of the King, and afterwards to be set between the quire and the high altar; with 70 wax tapers of six pounds each, fo. 21.

22. Rewards to the Prior and Monks on the above occasion. fo. 21 b.

23. Covenant to find an additional Converse brother for the Princess Margaret, with due maintenance, &c. fo. 22 b.

24. The letters patent for the foundation of a perpetual Reader at Oxford, Sept. 8, 1503. fo. 23 b.

25. The letters patent for the foundation of a perpetual Reader at Cambridge, Sept. 8, 1503. fo. 29 b.

26. Grant from the Abbot and Convent of Westminster to John Roper, Divinity Reader at Oxford, and his successors, of an annuity of 13*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*. secured on lands at Hendon, &c. fo. 36.

27. A similar grant to Dr. John Fisher, Divinity Reader at Cambridge. fo. 37 b.

28. Grant from the Abbot and Convent of Westminster to John Fawne, perpetual Preacher at Cambridge, and his successors, of an annuity of 10*l*. fo. 44.

29. Covenant, that if the Abbot and Convent be lawfully evicted from any of the lands before mentioned, abatements shall be made in their payments as specified. fo. 46 b.

30. Covenant from the Abbot and Convent to maintain the anniversary so long as any of the lands, &c. shall amount to the yearly value of 30 shillings. fo. 47 b.

31. That if the grants to any of the beforementioned Readers be lost, the Abbot and Convent shall nevertheless pay their annuities on their petition to the Chancellor of England. fo. 47 b.

32. Every new Abbot of Westminster to make oath at the Chapter-house within two months after election, holding in his hands one part of the present indenture, under seal of the Princess, that he will perform covenants, &c. fo. 48.

33. An abstract of the present indenture, to be annually read in the Chapter-house, in the week next preceding the anniversary. fo. 48 b.

34. Next follows the abstract mentioned in the preceding article, the first page of which is decorated in the same manner as that of the original indentures, except that the ground of the border is not, as in the other, gummy, or sprinkled with drops of water.

Num. 441—446.

The seal to this very curious instrument being lost, it does not appear whether it was the part belonging to the Princess Margaret, or to the Abbot and Convent of Westminster. It is said to have been mislaid among the manuscript collections of Lord Somers, before whom it was probably adduced as evidence in some Chancery suit; and passing afterwards into the hands of Sir Joseph Jekyl, became at his sale the property of Mr. West.

For the description of an article very much like the present, the reader may consult the Harleian Catalogue of MSS. No. 1498.

442. folio.

A Volume of Mr. Strype's Collections, containing,

1. Some commonplaces relating to Our Saviour's resurrection: in Mr. Strype's hand-writing. fo. 1.
2. Fragment of a sermon by Mr. Strype. fo. 3.
3. Some arguments against the Mass, with some corrections in the hand-writing of Lord Burghley. fo. 4. A fragment only.
4. A Latin paper indorsed "Mr. Sheldrake of Benet College, his notion of God and all things": with a transcript of it in a more modern hand. fo. 5.
5. A fragment of a sermon. fo. 9.
6. A Roman Catholick's sentiments on the following question—If the Scriptures be not, what else is it that God has established for our safe conduct to eternal life? By Francis Trinder, in a letter to Sir Thomas Overbury, the nephew, 1671. fo. 11.
7. The fanatical opinions of George Foxe. fo. 15.

Num. 446.

8. Two original letters concerning the Quakers, addressed to some unknown person, by William Moore, and containing queries sent to the writer, as he supposes, by George Fox. Dated Kellet, Sept. 14, 1652. fo. 17.

9. Some thoughts concerning the Deity. fo. 22. Anonymous.

10. A paper indorsed "Brief notes upon the title of God, the better to draw conference thereupon with order." fo. 29.

11. Bishop Sanderson's resolution of a case concerning a rash vow made by Mr. Thomas Chichley, to disinherit his daughter for marrying against his consent. fo. 31.

12. De dissentione orta inter Regem Angliæ et Anselmum Archiep. Cantuar. fo. 35.

13. Forma absolutionis quorundam Episcoporum excommunicatorum per Sanctum Thomam. fo. 38.

14. Littera Senonis Episcopi de morte Thomæ Archiepiscopi. fo. 38 b.

15. A transcript of the roll of Battle Abbey, from Bromton's Chronicle: with other extracts from the same historian. fo. 40. (In French rime.)

16. More notes from English chronicles, of little value. fo. 46.

17. Notes taken out of the laws of Ina King of the West Saxons, and those of other Saxon Kings. fo. 49.

18. A Latin fragment concerning Luther. fo. 59.

It seems to be in the hand-writing of Fox the Martyrologist.

19. King Henry's letter to the University of Oxford, concerning Wicliffe's doctrines, which were condemned there, and in the Council of Constance, and that a copy of the articles might be sent to him by Edw. Leighton. fo. 61.

Transcribed by Mr. Lewis of Margate, from the Bodl. libr. A n. 166. fo. 108 b. and sent to Mr. Strype, who has remarked that the transcript is very incorrect. The instrument has been printed by Anthony Wood in Hist. et Antiq. Univ. Oxon. At the end of this article Mr. Lewis submits to Mr. Strype a correction of some account which he had given, in his Life of Archb. Cranmer, of the celebrated work printed by Berthelett, in 1537, called "The Institution of a Christen man."

20. A transcript of some letters patent of King Richard II., and other documents relating to the Wicliffites, and more particularly to Nicholas Herford and Philip Rippingdon; collected and corrected by John Foxe. fo. 81.

21. Some notes relating to the foundation and endowment of Christ Church, Oxon. fo. 83.

22. Manumissiones quædam ex parte Collegii Regalis Beatæ Mariæ et Sancti Nicolai de Cantabrigia. fo. 85.

23. King Athelstan's foundation charter of the Monastery of Exeter; a fac simile transcript made by Joseph Ames from the original in the possession of Peter Thompson, Esq. fo. 88.

It is dated A.D. 670, and therefore liable to suspicion of forgery.

24. Transcripts of two Saxon charters to Beverley Minster from Edward the Confessor and William the Conqueror. fo. 89.

25. Transcript of a charter of confirmation, from King Edw. II. to the Dean and Chapter of Saint Paul's cathedral, of various privileges, &c. granted to them by several former charters, recited by way of Inspeximus, from the time of Edward the Confessor. Dated 25 June in the 12th year of his reign. fo. 91.

26. The copy of a petition (in French) to the Lord Chancellor, on the part of William de Middleton

Num. 446.

Parson of Ham Preston, concerning a dispute about the tithes of his parish between himself and the Dean of Wymburne Minster; with the indorsement (in Latin) appointing a day for hearing the petition at Westminster, in fifteen days after the Holy Trinity in the 38 year of the reign of King Edw. III. fo. 98.

27. A note of a statute 4 Hen. IV. that the Friars Minors, Augustines, Preachers, and Carmelites, should not receive any infant under the age of 14 into their orders without the consent of parents or next friends. fo. 99.

28. A note of another statute made 2 Hen. IV. to prevent the religious of the order of Cisteaux from purchasing bulls to exempt them from payment of taxes, &c. fo. 100.

29. A transcript of part of the stat. of Leicester 2 Hen. V. from Harl. MS. 751. fo. 101. (French.)

30. Copy of a commission dated 30th Jan^y anno 26 Hen. VIII. directed to the Lord Chancellor, the Abbot of Waltham, &c. to certify the yearly value of the possessions belonging to the monasteries, priories, collegiate churches, and other spiritual promotions throughout England; together with the instructions for that purpose. fo. 103.

31. An account of the penance of Agnes Gun in the church porch at Thetford, on three Sundays, A.D. 1594, for fornication and adultery; with the minister's original certificate to the magistrate of her having "dutyfully" performed the same. fo. 112.

32. The Lord Keeper Coventry's opinion concerning restitution of the temporalities of the bishoprick of Lincoln before homage done to the King. fo. 113.

33. An appeal and protestation on the part of Brian Twyne, M.A. against a sentence of the Vice-chancellor of Oxford. fo. 114. (Latin.)

34. "An abstract of inquisitions on behalf of their Majesties returned and filed in the office of the Petty-bagg in the Court of Chancery, of severall lands, &c. given or disposed to superstitious and illegall uses, and derelict and concealed lands since the 5th of November 1688." fo. 115.

These inquisitions relate to the following lands, possessions, and places: the Abbey of Furness; lands in Monmouth, Abergavenny, Llangaltog, Llanrothell, Llangarren, Hereford, Pembridge; the monastery of Newnham; the manor of Berry; Howton Conquest, Hawnes, Ampthill, and Teddington, in Bedfordshire; Southcave, Ellecker, Bromflet, and Provost, in Yorkshire; Warston, Ranton, the manor of Sow, the lordships of Coater and Alberton, Castle, St. Nicholas, in Staffordshire; Harrington-hall, the manor of Chadsly Corbett, Droitwich, Lowerham, and Witchingford, in Worcestershire; and houses in Kennaston's alley in Bedford Bury, in Middlesex.

35. An original dispensation to Jonas Proast, Clerk, to hold the living of Shottesbrook in Berkshire, 2 Feb. 1693. fo. 123.

36. A particular account of a commission under the Great Seal of Ireland, dated 19 Decem. 1693, for the visitation of the Bishop and Clergy of the dioceses of Down and Connor, occasioned by a general complaint against Dr. Thomas Hackett the then Bishop thereof, and some of his Clergy. fo. 126.

It appears that the said Hackett was called the Bishop of Hammersmith, where he was accused of holding auctions for the sale of his livings to the best bidders. Sentence of deprivation ensued on this commission, and severe punishment against the rest of the offending Clergy.

37. A memorial of the Deans, Archdeacons, and Proctors, of the Clergy of the Church of Ireland, assembled in convocation, respecting their rights, addressed to the House of Commons, A. D. 1704. fo. 130.

Num. 446, 447.

This memorial having given great offence to the House, it was followed by letters of explanation and apology, here also given.

38. "The case of King Henry the Seventh's chapel, and for what reasons the Dean and Collegiate church of Saint Peter's Westminster look upon that chappel and the ground it stands upon to be their property." fo. 132.

39. The draft of a brief in a case argued in the Court of King's Bench, between the parish of Marybone in the county of Middlesex, and the Bishop of London, respecting the latter's ecclesiastical jurisdiction, and right of visitation. fo. 135.

It contains many curious particulars relating to the history of the parish church and the privileges belonging to it.

40. Mrs. Dodwell's title to the advowson of the church of Milton, alias Middleton Malzor, in the county of Northampton, and the case between her and Mr. Price, on the said church's becoming void by the death of Nicholas Twigden the last incumbent, 1744. fo. 141.

Missale ad usum Romanum. In principio et fine mutilum. Codex membranaceus sæc. xv. exaratus.

Pontificale ad usum Ecclesiæ Romanæ et Anglicanæ.

This is a very fine MS. of the fourteenth century, elegantly written on vellum, and executed altogether in the English manner. Several of the margins are gaudily, though somewhat rudely as to art, decorated with borders and grotesque or ludicrous figures; and the initial letters are painted with subjects relating to the text. Among many other curious forms and ceremonies contained in this book, the following seem deserving of notice, and may be found useful in many respects, and particularly to designers of ecclesiastical subjects.

- The manner and ceremony of clerical tonsure. fo. 11.
On the colours of ecclesiastical garments, and why used on particular occasions. fo. 14.
The consecration of Bishops, according to the Roman form. fo. 35.
The consecration and installation of Bishops, according to the English form. fo. 41 b.
The consecration of Nuns. fo. 59 b.
The form of making a Recluse. fo. 62 b.
The form of the coronation of the Kings of England. fo. 96 b.
The form of dedicating and blessing churches. fo. 111.
Benediction of a new episcopal seal. fo. 172.
———— of bells. fo. 176.
———— of a new well. fo. 193.
———— of a new house. fo. 193.
Order of espousals, with the blessing of the nuptial bed. fo. 226.

In the margin of fo. 123, there is a curious painting of a leprous beggar-woman ringing a hand-bell to excite the attention of the passengers. Above her head is a label, inscribed "Sum good my gentyll mayster for God sake."

It appears from the former Catalogue of the Lansdowne Manuscripts, that there somewhere existed a memorandum relating to the present article, by Mr. West, its former possessor. The substance of it is as follows:—That it had been purchased by Mr. Somers, when a counsel on the Oxford circuit, of Mr. Fowler, a Quaker at Evesham, to the abbey of which place it had formerly belonged; and that it afterwards fell into the hands of Mr. West at Sir Joseph Jekyll's auction. On the other hand the compiler of the above catalogue conceived, but without much probability, that this book had belonged to the Cathedral of Exeter; a conjecture that appears to have been founded on a memorandum made by some former possessor, on the last page, relating to the amount of the tenths of that see.

452. folio.

A Volume the leaves of which are greatly injured by damp, and otherwise mutilated. It contains,

A part of the Old Testament, in English, as translated by John Wicliffe or his followers; fairly written on vellum in the fifteenth century.

This appears to be an odd volume, and contains the Pentateuch; Joshua; Judges; Ruth; the four books of Kings; Chronicles; 1 and 2 Esdras; Tobit; Judith; Hesther; Job, and the Psalms of David.

There is a note in the first spare leaf in the handwriting of Mr. Mathews, who was Librarian to the Marquis of Lansdowne, and which it would have been better to have passed over or even to have cancelled altogether, if it had not been printed in the former catalogue; but it cannot be permitted to remain without some animadversion. It states that "Mr. Astle, Keeper of the Tower Records, no incompetent judge, is of opinion that this is the first and earliest English translation known, and much older than Wicleve's time, or somewhat near that of the Anglo-Saxons." It is quite unnecessary to controvert this opinion; but as Mr. Astle was undoubtedly well skilled in the knowledge of ancient manuscripts, and Mr. Mathews a man of the strictest veracity in general, it is not easy to conceive why such an opinion should have ever been promulgated. The latter part of Mr. Mathews's note may interest the curious reader, but cannot with much propriety be given in this place. The manuscript belonged successively to Lord Somers, Sir Joseph Jekyll, and Mr. West.

455. folio.

A Volume written on vellum at the beginning of the fifteenth century, and containing,

1. Certain chapters of the Old Testament, used as lections during Advent and Lent. fo. 12.

2. "Here begynnen þe lessōns and pistlis of þe oolde lawe þat ben rad in þe chirch bi al þe ȝeer." fo. 18.

Both these sets of lessons will be found to vary much from the translation ascribed to Wicliffe.

3. A devout treatise on three wretchednesses that bring sinners to hell, and on the love of God. Anonymous. Beg. "In ech synful man or woman." fo. 34.

Imperfect.

6. An order of the trustees for maintenance of ministers for payment of half a year's rent to Mr. Fowrenesse, the minister of Great Marlow, Oct. 4, 1650. fo. 266.

7. A similar order, dated March 5, 1650. fo. 268.

460. large folio.

An antiphonary, or book of anthems, with the musical notes of the Gregorian chant; splendidly written on fine vellum in the fifteenth century, with the initial letters beautifully painted in vermilion and ultramarine colours. The end is wanting.

At the beginning is inserted a leaf, being the first of a table to the Repertorium Morale of Berchonus; and on it are blazoned the arms of the see of Norwich. The volume may therefore have been used in Norwich cathedral. From the form of the musical notes it should seem to have been of German manufacture.

461. large folio.

A volume of the largest size, written on vellum about the end of the fourteenth century, being an imperfect breviary for the use of Sarum, with the musick belonging to the anthems. It has some illuminated margins and initial letters.

462. large folio.

A gradual or antiphonary for the use of Sarum, with the musick, being a volume of the same size, and written on vellum in the fourteenth century. Some of its margins are handsomely painted in gold and colours, and others have grotesque subjects at top. The initials are richly executed; several with appropriate figures, but, as to design, coarse and inelegant. On some spare leaves at the beginning and end there are hymns, with "Kyrie eleison," &c. and the musick, in a different and later hand.

The beginning is wanting.

463. large folio.

Another volume of like dimensions and written at the same time, with some illuminated margins and initials. It contains the following articles:

1. A gradual or antiphonary for the use of Sarum, with the musick of the anthems. fo. 1.

It is defective at the beginning.

2. A calendar for the use of Salisbury. fo. 98.

The following obits have been entered in various hands:

Obitus Dorathee Chartresse unius filiarum Thome Chartresse et Alicie uxoris ejus fuit in anno Domini 1558. Jan. 31.

Obitus Galfridi Cobb, anno Domini 1461. April 18.

Num. 463, 464.

Obitus Thome Lawes, anno Domini 1539. April 20.

Obitus Alicie Cobb, anno Domini 1449. May 26.

Obitus Alicie Lawes, anno Domini 1466. Jul. 26.

Obitus Willielmi Galyon, nuper Rectoris ecclesie de Wolsurton. Sept. 22. The year erased.

Obitus Ricardi Teller, quondam Rectoris ecclesie Sancti Petri de Westnewton, anno Domini 1438. Nov. 9.

Obitus Erne Rawlins. Nov. 12. No year.

The dedication of the church of Norwich is entered on the 23d September; from whence it may be inferred that this volume, as well as the two last preceding, belonged to that cathedral.

3. An ordinal for the use of Sarum, with the hymns set to musick. fo. 104.

4. A breviary for the use of Sarum, with the hymns set to musick. fo. 134.

The end is wanting.

464. folio.

This is a French translation by some unnamed person in the reign of Edw. I. He tells his readers that he undertook it for the gratification of his friends, and not by any command whatever. He entitles the work "The Laws and Customs of the Second Henry, according to the course and usage of the Exchequer of London, taken from a book in Latin, compiled by a good and wise clerk, in the time of Randolph de Glanvyle, Chief Justice of the kingdom." He likewise states that he has preferred executing his task in "common romance," i. e. plain French prose, to translating it into rhyme. To understand this declaration properly, it is necessary to observe, that about this time it was a sort of fashion to put law matters into French verse. Thus there still exist metrical copies of the Statutes of Gloucester and Merton. It is not probable however that the lawyers, like the monks, attempted to rival the very popular minstrels of these times, or that they designed their poetical compositions to be chanted to the harp. We may rather suppose that the object was to impress these matters more strongly on the memory; and even that in this form they should be gotten by heart, and said, but not sung. The present translation extends no further than book xiii. ch. 22, of the original.

On p. 592 is an extract from the "Constitutio Bonifacii Cantuar' Archiep' de purgacione Clericorum," and on the last leaf are the following old English verses, containing some excellent advice to the purchasers of land.

Who so wol be wyse in purchasyng
Consider the poynts that ben sewyng.
Se that the seller be of age
And that it lye in no morgage.
Se whether the londe be bonde or fre
And se the reles of every feffe.
Loke whate with rent therof oute most go
And whate services longeth therto.
Loke whether it meveth of a wedded woman
Beware well of covert de Baron than.
Loke whether therof a tayle may be founde
And whether it stondyth in statute bounde.
And if thou wylte be ware and also wise
See that thi chartre be made of warantize.
And if it be lordeship lond or howsyng
To thes iij longeth dyvers payeng.
And thus shulde a wyse purchasour doo
Be holde alle that longeth thertoo.
And if thou wise purchasour bee
In xv yer day thou shalte agayne thy money see.

516. folio.

Mr. Petyt's treatise "De Regno Angliæ."

517. folio.

Mr. Petyt's Glossary of the various significations of the most general Saxon words; whereby their common councils were sometimes expressed and denoted, in all which the people or commons are included.

This appears to be only a part of the work, being intitled "Chap. III." Mr. Umfreville, to whom the volume belonged, says, in a marginal note, "Of Chap. I. and II. I can give no account." The words here treated of are, Alderman, Theyne, Greve, Wite, Æthelinges, and (though not a Saxon term) Magnates.

518, 519, 520. folio.

Mr. Petyt's "Monumenta Parliamentaria Anglo-Saxonica," in three volumes, the third being an appendix to the others.

521. folio.

Mr. Petyt's animadversions on the paraphrase "Titulo parliamentum" in Sir Hen. Spelman's Glossary; and upon the clause in the Grand Charter, "Et habendum commune consilium regni de auxiliis assidendis aliter quam in tribus casibus prædictis," &c.

N.B. All the preceding collections by Mr. Petyt belonged to Mr. Umfreville, and were purchased by him of Mr. George Holmes, deputy keeper of the Tower Records.

Num. 522—525.

522. folio.

A Volume very fairly written on vellum in the fifteenth century, with illuminated capital letters and borders. It contains the following articles:

1. Modus tenendi parliamentum. Inc. "Hic describitur modus quomodo parliamentum Regis Angliæ et Anglorum suorum tenebatur temporibus Regis Edwardi filii Etheldredi Regis." fo. 1.

2. "Hic annotatur quis sit Senescallus Angliæ et quid ejus officium." fo. 8.

3. The index to the Nova Statuta. fo. 11.

It seems to have been printed in an enlarged form by Machlinia, and afterwards by Pynson, under the title of "Abbreviamentum Statutorum."

4. The "Nova Statuta," viz. from 1 Edw. III. to 1 Ric. III. fo. 99.

There is a table of all these statutes at the beginning in a modern hand. This manuscript belonged to Lord Somers, and was purchased by Mr. West from the library of Sir Joseph Jekyll.

523, 524.

The Poll-books at the contested election of Knight of the shire for Northumberland, anno 1747, between Charles Lord Ossulstone and Lancelot Allgood, Esq.

525. folio.

A large volume of Collections from Parliamentary Records, from 51 Edw. II. to the end of the reign of Edw. IV. and concluding with the Act declaring the right and title of Richard III.

On the first leaf is the following note by Mr. Umfreville, who probably got the volume from Sir J. Jekyll's library. It had belonged to Lord Somers. "This is a copy of the book published by Prynne as collected by Sir Robert Cotton; but it was the proper collection of Sir John Burroughs, who, regnante 1^o Caroli [Carolo?] was keeper of the Tower Records. 'Twas not from this copy that Prynne published; for it contains more than the printed book." So far Mr. Umfreville.

A careful collation with the printed copy may probably confirm the truth of the above assertion; but it is certain that the printed copy contains matter not in the manuscript. The question whether the work was collected by Sir Robert Cotton or by Sir John Burroughs may be still undecided. It has been maintained that the collection was made by Mr. Bowyer, keeper of the Tower Records in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. See Tyrrel's introduction to the third volume of his History of England.

Extraneously interspersed in this volume are the following articles:

1. After fo. 53 two original letters dated 14th and 16th Sept. 1662, from William Haward to Lord —, begging the command of a new raised regiment.

2. After fo. 83 two leaves of notes out of Baron Henden's Book of Parliament.

3. After fo. 222 a copy of the famous Commission of Array, anno 5 Hen. IV.

Vide Blount's Law Dictionary, v. Arrayers.

562. 8vo.

A copy of the report or presentment of the Jurors on a Commission of survey and enquiry concerning the offices, officers, and fees belonging to the Court of Chancery, executed in the years 1734 and 1735.

Num. 563, 564.

563. 8vo.

A Volume of collections relating to the poor, and parish laws, with adjudications thereon in the King's Bench, to the 8 Geo. II. made by Mr. Umfreville; with a table of contents and alphabetical index.

564. 4to.

A small Volume, written on vellum in the 13th and 14th centuries, containing,

1. Quibus hominibus homo debet dare tripliciter. fo. 1.
 2. Qualiter taxatio debet irrotulari. fo. 2.
 3. Fragmentum R. Glanville de legibus. fo. 1*.
 4. A fragment of the treatise intituled "Hengham Magna." fo. 3.
- It begins at p. 33 of Mr. Selden's printed copy, from which it has many variations.
5. Registrum Brevium. fo. 15.
 6. Aliud registrum Brevium, sive registrum Cancellariæ. p. 47.

On these two registers of ancient writs some learned owner of the volume has, on a spare leaf at the beginning, made the following remarks: "In the first register are conteyned writts of the end of H. III. and beginning of E. I. which I have not found in any other register, this being the antientest I have seen any where extant." And again, "The register of writts, which begins fo. 47, though it be of a latter date than the register that precedes it, yet seemes to me to be as antient as the time of E. I.; for it agrees exactly with Bracton, l. 5. c. 2. fo. 328. of writts of right, as also with Hengham Magna, c. 1. Vide etiam fo. 58 b, ubi fit mentio H. Regis patris nostri." But if the learned owner had given a little more attention to the latter register, he would also have found some writs issued by Hen. III. which render it, so far at least as regards the materials of which it is constructed, coeval with the other. See particularly fo. 76 b.

7. The statute of Westm. 1. fo. 77. (French.) Imperfect at the beginning.
8. Statuta de Judaismo, 3 Ed. I. per consilium prelatorum et procerum concessa, cum subsidio quintedecime. fo. 83. (Gallicè.)

A Volume containing,

1. An abstract of the decrees in the Court of Wards from 7 Ed. VI. to 23 Eliz. inclusive, "which I the more value," says Mr. Umfreville, to whom this and the two succeeding MSS. belonged, "in regard the original books are not now to be found." fo. 1.

2. "Monita secreta Patrum Societatis Jesu." fo. 34. Vide Journal de Trevoux, tom. i.

607. folio.

A Volume containing the decrees in the Court of Wards, as above, and also various Cases in that and other courts, during the reigns of Edward VI., Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth, James I. and Charles I., but not chronologically arranged.

Among them, at fo. 95 b, is the case of the fidlers at Staines, who were sentenced by the Starchamber to pay 500*l.* apiece, to stand in the pillory, and to be whipped, for singing licentious songs on the Duke of Buckingham. The clandestine manner in which this matter was conducted gave great offence to the people, and the reason of it was that the songs and ballads should not be publickly repeated. The reporter of the case makes a memorandum to inquire whether the sentence was executed or not upon the men.

Num. 608—612.

608. folio.

A collection of precedents of forms, judgments, &c. belonging to the Court of Wards and Liveries, made by Thomas Cole of the same court, verified by the records; purporting to be the third part of the work, with a table, at the end, to a fourth.

609. folio.

A Volume of juridical collections, of which Mr. Umfreville has, on the back of fo. 2, given the following account: "This book was of Sir Ri. St George Garter King at Arms, but not of his collecting, and in itself contains much matter of learning as well juridical as historical, proving many of our laws and customes in antient use. Verified by records abstracted between the years 1590 and 1607, from the rolls, bundles, escheats and inquisitions, tam coram Rege quam de Banco, regnantibus Ric^o I., Johanne, Hen. III., Ed. I., Ed. II., Ed. III., Ric. II., & Henrico IV^{to}. E recordis &c. Curiae Scacc'. I take it to be of John Selden. V^c. hic at one of the papers. J. S. 1603, tho' Cotton or Cott. and also Agard are named."

610. folio.

"ΣΚΑΚΚΑΡΙΩΛΟΓΙΑ, or A description of the originall order and manner of administration of all transactions in both Chequers, together with the severall officers and their respective offices in both, as alsoe the judgments and determinations of that Court of sundry doubts and difficulties therein moved; necessary to be knowne of all that are verst in the Common Laws of this kingdome, specially of all that practize in and belonge unto the Court, and generally of all that love and desire knowledge. Written cccxlvii [years] sithence in the reigne of Kinge Henry the Second, in Latine, by way of dialogue, by Gervasius Tilburiensis, and now translated into English for the publique good, by the care and the costs of W. B. Gentl'. A^o 1647." With a table of contents at the end.

611. folio.

The present volume, which belonged to James West, Esq., has been supposed, in a note written by him on the back of fo. 2, to have been transcribed by Mr. William Lambarde the celebrated antiquary; but this is certainly not the case. Mr. West has probably been misled by the copy, in fac simile, of Lambarde's name on fo. 103.

Num. 622—626.

622. folio.

A Treatise on the Court of Star-chamber, written by William Hudson of Greys Inn, Esq. and containing a very full and elaborate account of that tribunal.

The following remarks on it by Mr. Umfreville, to whom this MS. belonged, are, with one exception, too valuable to be omitted in this place. "This treatise or survey (v. fo. 230) of the Court of Star-chamber will, upon reading, appear to be wrote in a masterly yet humble manner, and by impartial readers to be approv'd. It was begun in the reign of K. Ja. 1st, and finished early in the reign of Ch. 1st, for the purpose of composing the general clamor in those times rais'd against that Court, for exceeding its proper bounds and jurisdiction. The author's design is to shew its just jurisdiction, to which he wishes to restore it, and which he verifys by the antient orders and just practise of the Court. He greatly exclaims against innovations and innovators, among whom (in many places of the work) he reckons S^r Edw. Coke during the time of his potency, and when he was Attorney-G., and upon whom he boldly lays these early innovations, which from his example afterwards increas'd and swell'd so greatly to the prejudice of public liberty and property. Upon the whole, from the author's modest manner of conducting the arguments, and his wishes to remove innovations and observe the antient orders, it may be concluded that the Court rather wanted reforming than dissolving, as it afterwards was by the stat. 16 Car. I. cap. 10. § 3. E. Umfreville."

It appears from the work itself that Hudson was a barrister, and a practitioner in the Court of Star-chamber. Some further account of him may be seen in a note by Humphrey Wanley, which follows the above by Mr. Umfreville, and also in the Harl. Catal. of MSS. N^o 1226.

There is another unpublished treatise on the antiquity of this Court, by G. William Mills, 1590, of which Mr. Oldys had a MS. copy. See likewise Mr. Tate's work in vol. ii. of Hearne's Antiquarian Discourses.

623. folio.

"A table to the most remarkable points in the printed cases upon Appeals to the House of Lords since the year 1701, upon which the decrees and judgments were affirmed, varied, or reversed. Together with another alphabetical table of the names of the cases referring to the day and year, and likewise to the titles under which they are placed in the first table, with notice taken whether affirmed, varied, or reversed."

by vertue of his office in England. As alsoe the articles of the unitinge of the late Courts of Augmentations and Revenews of the Crowne, and the late Court of first fruits and tenths to the Court of Exchequer at Westminster. Written at the request of the right honourable the Lord Buckhurst, Lord Treasurer of England in the raigne of our late soveraigne Lord King James."

627. folio.

A work on Flemish Jurisprudence, intituled "Briefve Instruction pour josnes gens veuillans hanter la practique en causes civiles et criminelles en la chambre du Conte de Flandres. Par Maitre Philippes Willant Seigneur de Everbecque, Conseiller du grand Conseil à Malines." Two volumes in one.

Mr. Umfreville states, in a note written on the first leaf, that "this work is not to be found in the industrious collection of Lipenius, in his Bibliotheca Realis amongst his Juridica." The civil part has been printed however at Antwerp, 1573, 8vo. The remaining part of the present volume, viz. the treatise on criminal law, has never been published; but much of it has been introduced, without acknowledgment, in the "Praxis rerum criminalium" of Jodocus, or Josse, Damhoudere, of which there are at least three curious and interesting editions. The author of this manuscript is better known by the name of Wielandt. He was a Counsellor of the Parliament of Philip Duke of Burgundy, and afterwards President of the Supreme Court of the Earl of Flanders.

628, 629, 630, 631. 4to.

660. folio.

A miscellaneous Volume relating to Treasury business. It contains,

1. A report of the Commissioners for enquiring into the Irish forfeitures, 1699. fo. 1.
2. A statement of the establishment of His Majesty's guards and garrisons, to commence the 24th April 1700. fo. 25.
3. A list of His Majesty's ships and vessels in seapay, anno 1719. fo. 37.
4. Payments to be made to the army, ordnance, and other offices for military affairs, on the Irish establishment, to commence from 31 March 1709. fo. 39.
5. A report from Charles D'Avenant, LL.D. Inspector-general of Imports and Exports, to the Commissioners for executing the act for taking the publick accounts of the kingdom, 1711. fo. 47.

This report contains some very able opinions on the political state of Great Britain, the author concluding in words which it may be useful in all times to attend to: "War is commonly the time for private men to make fortunes out of the publick. Peace should be the proper time for the publick to get by the industry of private men, to which industry the State should give all reasonable encouragement and help, and render trade as little burthensome to the Merchant as the circumstances of affairs will admit of. If this course be taken, we shall have the overbalance of trade not only with France, but most of our other neighbours. We shall make provision for another war which is not impossible, let a peace be never so well settled for the present, and we shall lay the foundation for such a stock of treasure as may not be liable to the accidents to which paper credit will ever be obnoxious." It appears from this paper that the national debt of England was at this time fifty millions.

6. The original account of Thomas Lowther, Gentleman, of money received by him at the Exchequer and disbursed for His Majesty's service, as examined and reported by William Loundes, Esq. 26 Nov. 1744. fo. 77.

7. An estimate for a proposed intrenchment in the Dock-yard at Chatham. fo. 104.

8. Considerations offered to the honour and advantage of the kingdom, in a scheme for granting life annuities and raising money by way of lottery, by Peter Furnell. fo. 120.

698. 4to.

A Volume consisting of the four following articles;

1. Collections from Domesday and other records relating to the family of Darcy. fo. 1.

2. The pedigree of Humphrey Dethicke, Esq. 1611. fo. 121.

3. "A true and elaborate relation, and exact pedigree, of the Lancashire and Derbshire families of Hollands, with the several Earles and Dukes of the name, and of the Hollands in most countries of the kingdom. Collected by Henry Holland of London, Gent. 1645." fo. 124.

This is a copy of a very scarce book in 16mo.

4. "Chronologica series vitæ et actorum Domini Christophori Wren, Eq. Aur. &c." fo. 136.

699. 4to.

A collection of the Poems of John Lydgate, Monk of Bury, written partly on vellum and partly on paper, in the fifteenth century, and containing the following pieces:

1. The last stanza only, the manuscript wanting the first five leaves, of a Poem intituled Compilatio brevis de Sancto Egidio, ad instantiam domini Theodorici. fo. 2.

2. Oratio ad suum Egidium. "O gracious Gill of poore folk cheeff patroñ." fo. 2.

This may perhaps belong to the above poem.

3. De fideli amore duorum mercatorum. "In Egypt whilom as I rede and fynde." fo. 3.

4. Guydo de Warwik. "Fro Cristes birth compleet nyne hundred yeer." fo. 18 b.

Compiled, as Lydgate himself states, from the chronicles of the Kings of the West Saxons, by Giraldus Cornubiensis, an author who is supposed by some to be the same person as Giraldus Cambrensis, though others conceive him to be a different person whose work is now lost. From some such work still remaining at Magdalen College Oxford, Hearne has printed an account of Guy of Warwick in the Appendix to his Annales de Dunstaple, p. 825; and the same story, perhaps from the same work, is in Dugdale's History of Warwickshire. The present poem by Lydgate is cited by Fabian in his Chronicle, I. 233. edit. 1559, and by Grafton, I. 150. It was corrected and compleated by John Lane, 1621, the "fine old Queen Elizabeth Gentleman" mentioned in Phillips's Theatrum Poetarum, and whose work is preserved among the Harl. MSS. N° 5243.

5. De ave et rustico. "Problemys liknessis & figures." fo. 28.

This is better known under the title of "The Chorle and the Bird," and has been printed by Caxton and Wynkyn de Worde, and reprinted in Ashmole's Theatrum Chymicum.

6. Miraculum Sancti Augustini de decimis. "Lyk as the Bible makith mencion." fo. 35.

This was printed at Saint Austin's Abbey near Canterbury about 1525.

7. Incipit Macrobius. "O creatures that been resonable." fo. 41.

We have here a mistake of the copyist, who has substituted Macrobius for Macaber the German author of the celebrated work well known under the title of "The Dance of Death, or the Dance of Macabre." It is printed in Tottell's edition of "The Fall of Princes."

Num. 699.

8. Arthurus Conquestor. "Was evir prynce myht hymself assure." fo. 51.

9. Incipit de Constantino Imperatore Romano. "What thyng may be more of excellence."

10. Incipit disputatio inter equum, anserem, et ovem. "Controversies, pleyes and discordis." fo. 67.

This has been printed by Caxton and Wynkyn de Worde.

11. Compilatio de regibus Angliæ. "This myhti William Duke of Normandie." fo. 79.

Printed by Wynkyn de Worde.

12. Disputatio inter conqueritorem et fortunam. "This wrechid werlds transmutacion." fo. 81.

13. Facetia vocata stans puer ad mensam. "My dere childe first thi self enable." fo. 83 b.

This is a translation from the Latin of Sulpitius Verulanus, and has been printed by Wynkyn de Worde.

14. Dietarium. "Who will been holle and kepe hym from sekenesse." fo. 85 b.

This seems to differ from other copies.

15. Descriptio Garcionis. "A froward knave pleynly to descryve." fo. 88 b.

This is the piece sometimes called Jak Hare which of a bolle can plukke out the lynnyng.

16. Littera missiva domini Johannis Lidgate ad dominum Glouc. "Riht myhti prynce and it be your wille." fo. 90.

17. Compilatio facta contra gulosos. "The when Saturn was first kyng." fo. 91 b.

18. The livis and passions of Seynt Albon and Seynt Amphibal, translated out of Frenssh . . . by Dan John Lidgate at the request of maistir John Whetehamstede, Abbot of Seynt Albon, the yeer of our Lord 1439. "To calle Clio my dulnesse to redresse." fo. 96.

This was printed at St. Alban's, 1534, 4to., by John Hertford.

This book belonged to Mr. Umfreville, who, in a note, has properly remarked that many of the pieces contained in it were never printed. The completest list of Lydgate's works is inserted under his article in Ritson's Bibliographia Poetica.

700. 8vo.

A Common-place book containing sundry historical extracts chiefly from printed books.

In fo. 47 b, there are some particulars relating to Sir Robert Walpole, and towards the end, a compendium of Civil Law in French and Latin.

3. Mr. Widmore's account of the number of books in the Royal library, extracted from a catalogue made in the time of K. Charles II. fo. 153.

4. Mr. Widmore's list of books designed for Westminster library. fo. 153 b.

5. "Etymologia, anomalix, dialecti, historix, &c. ex Iōta Odysseæ Homeri." fo. 207.

6. A list of various catalogues of private libraries, by Mr. Widmore. fo. 219 b.

Num. 702—706.

702. 4to.

The Note or Common-place book of Thomas Rawlins of Pophills, containing numerous extracts historical, political, biographical, satirical, poetical, &c. from books, tombstones, newspapers, &c.; with some original matters,

In fo. 101 is an account of the satirical portrait of Dr. Kennett introduced into the altar-piece at Whitechapel, with the verses written on that occasion by Maittaire and others. 1724 to 1734.

703. 4to.

"A booke dedicated unto the Queene's Majestie, by Master Thomas Charnocke, student in the most worthisciens of astronomie, phisicke, and philosophie: contayneinge the woorke off naturall philosophie."

This is the author's autograph. His dedication is dated from his house at Stockland Bristow, 4 miles from Bridgwater, anno Dom. 1565, the 25 Novem. the year of his age 40. The work is in the form of a dialogue between the author and an Oxford man, and appears, from the last page, to have been intended for the press. It contains many quotations from Thomas Norton's Ordinal of Alchemy. The book is in its original ornamented covers, and was probably sent as a present to Queen Elizabeth; but from its silly nature detained in its passage by Lord Burghley, in whose family it continued.

Mr. Ashmole has collected a good deal concerning this man in the annotations to his "Theatrum Chemicum"; see also Ayscough's Catal. of the Sloane MSS. p. 481.

704. 4to.

A book, for the most part in the hand-writing of Signor Ludovico Petrucci, a Commoner of Baliol College, Oxford, containing the materials (in Latin and Italian) for his Emblems, his apology against his calumniators, his own life, and other works, printed during his stay in England.

On the back of fo. 157 is an entry of the original licence for the printing of his Life and Emblems, dated Feb. 20, 1616; which may serve to show the manner in which these licences were then obtained. At the end are various memoranda of his expences, &c.

705. 4to.

A Volume containing the following articles,

1. "Brevi notizie delle cose più rimarcabili della citta di Verona" da Giacomo Scherli. 1749. fo. 1.

2. "A description of the voyage off France." Anon. temp. Car. I. fo. 39.

3. A political treatise on the interests of the several countries of Europe, and on divers other matters. Anon. temp. Car. I. fo. 87.

706. 4to.

A Volume of Tracts relating to the Mint, formerly belonging to Mr. Umfreville. It contains,

1. "A breife collection of the alterations which have been made in the monies of this realme sithence the time of Kinge Edward the First. Together therewith a discourse towching the monies of this realme and the true value of all the monies coyned since the raigne of Queen Elizabeth untill the first of January last. 1611." fo. 1.

Num. 706—708.

2. "A short treatise brieflie touching the differences and demaundes nowe in question depending betwixte the Warden of the Mynt and the Master of the Mynt, and woorker of the monyes thereof. Collected out of sundry indentures and auntient presidents of the said Mynt. 1603." fo. 34.

This tract was compiled by Sir Richard Martin, Lord Mayor and Master of the Mint, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. On the page opposite to the above title is a brief account, by Mr. Umfreville, of Sir Martin and the present treatise, which had once been in the collection of the Duke of Chandos.

3. A modern discourse on the silver coinage of England, with a refutation of certain reasons for altering the standard thereof. fo. 61.

707. 4to.

A Volume containing the following articles,

1. A translation into English of King Charles I. charter to the borough of Quinborough. fo. 2.

2. A geographical and historical narrative or summary of the controversy between Daniel Nimham, Sachem of the Wappinger tribe of Indians, and Roger Morris and others of New York, heirs and representatives of Col^l Frederick Philipse of New York, who was heir to Adolph Philipse also of New York, concerning a large tract of land contained within the limits of Philipse's Upper Patent, so called in the southernmost part of Dutchess County in the aforesaid Province. With the decision of the above controversy by the Council at Fort George in the City of New York, 11th March 1767. fo. 30.

3. "Reasons tending to prove that smuggling from the Isle of Man can be suppressed by annexing it to the Crown of Great Britain." By John Baldwin. Addressed to James West, Esq. principal Secretary in His Majesty's Treasury, 1753. fo. 60.

708. 4to.

"A Catalogue of all the Earles of Pembroke that hath benn since the Conquest, in order as they succeeded, with the yssues of diverse of them, together with their proper Cote-armor, and a breefe remembrance written touching some matters of eache of the said Earles. . Wherebie maye be seene in what names and famelyes the same Earldome hath contynued from tyme to tyme and to whome the same hath come by discent and to whome by gifte of the Kinge. Also when and howe the same contrey hath benn subdued and inhabeted by Normans, Saxons and Flemmynges is breefly touched in the beginninge, with a shorte discription of the Sheere. 1594."

These collections were made by George Owen of Henllys in Pembrokeshire, stiled by Mr. Camden, in his description of that county, Lord of Kemeys; and, in very servile and fulsome language, are dedicated to the Earl of Pembroke, by George Owen, the collector's grandson, and his Lordship's chaplain.

Num. 709—715.

709. 4to.

A thin Volume very neatly written and intituled "A description of the library of the Escorial. Extracted from a book printed at Madrid, anno 1657; intituled Descripcion breve del Monasterio de S. Lorenzo el real del Escorial. Por el P. F. Francisco de los Santos. Translated by Philip Carteret Webb, Esq."

It is dedicated to Lord Chancellor Hardwicke. 1754.

710. 4to.

A poem in two parts, intituled "A Vision"; to which is added a poetical translation of part of Petrarch's Triumph of Love: the whole neatly transcribed, in the eighteenth century, on a glazed paper, with the borders printed in various colours.

Obras poeticas de Don Miguel de Barrios.

712. 8vo.

A Volume containing,

1. Extracts from Humphrey Wanley's Catalogue of the Harleian Manuscripts. fo. 2.

2. "Villare Northantiense, being a particular account of all the hundreds, parish churches, and chapels, monasteries, and religious houses; with their dedications, towns, hamlets, innships, and depopulated villages, in the county of Northampton. Collected from the records in the Tower of London, registers of the Archbishops of Canterbury, Bishopricks of Lincoln and Peterborough, manuscripts in several librarys both publick and private, as well as the information of the inhabitants in that county, for the use of John Bridges late of Barton Segrave in that county, Esq." fo. 96.

3. "An account of what was wanting to compleat Mr. Bridges's collections for the history and antiquities of Northamptonshire." fo. 120.

4. Some remarkable monumental inscriptions at divers places in the County of Bucks, among which is one to the memory of Mrs. Mary Ann Campion the actress, who was taken off the stage by the Duke of Devonshire; said to have been composed by Dr. White Kennett, his Grace's chaplain. fo. 122.

It is stated that a part of this inscription is now hid by the wall.

5. More extracts from Humphrey Wanley's Catalogue of the Harleian Manuscripts. fo. 125.

713. 4to.

An English translation of the introductory part of a treatise on the Civil Law, written in Latin by Arthur Duck, LL.D. Prefixed is an account of the author of the treatise and his works, extracted from Wood's Athenæ Oxonienses.

This book belonged to Basil Kennett.

714, 715. 4to.

A work intituled "Natsichhatil-Moulouki, or a tract containing the edification of virtue to all Kings; being a true guide, shewing to all Mouhhamadanish Kings and Regents, &c. how young or ignorant that they be, after being enthroned and come to sovereign government, how they all their life time religiously shall behave themselves, and without of being solicitous perfectly to govern their kingdoms; interlaced with all sorts of histories and sentences of learned men, taken out of all books, and first composed in the Persian language, and afterwards translated into the Arabick and Malajouish, by Imam-ghazali and Hhadji-ismael, and in both languages characterally written and translated into English by Ja. Walker, 1701."

Num. 715—720.

The work is divided into two parts or volumes, the first containing the Arabick text, and the second the English translation, both very neatly written. The translator seems to have been a Dutchman by birth.

716. 4to.

An unfinished abridgment of Camden's Britannia, as published by Dr. Gibson, 1722.

717. 8vo.

A book in the hand-writing of John Stowe the historian, containing divers extracts made in the year 1572, from the "Liber de Hida," a monkish chronicle, in Latin, belonging to the Abbey of Newminster or Hyde near Winchester. It contains many particulars of Saxon history, and also copies, in Latin and English, of the wills of Kings Alfred, Edred and Athelwold, with that of Duke Athelmar. It is a different work from the Register of Hyde, formerly in Mr. Astle's library, and from which he published King Alfred's will. In fo. 47 Stowe has the following memorandum, "that there be in the booke of Hida in greate and lardge parchment written dyvars of thes things before writen, and many other testaments of certeyn Saxon Kings which be writen in bastard Saxon and translated into Latyn and Englyshe, &c."

This volume belonged to Sir Richard Saint George Clarencieux herald, and afterwards, as mentioned in Tanner's Notitia Monastica, to his son Sir Henry.

718. 4to.

The account-book of Dr. Charlet when Bursar of Trinity College, Oxford, interspersed with a great number of miscellaneous notes and common-places, some of them curious. 1692.

719. 4to.

A list of the Lord Mayors of London from the year 1214 to 1605, with an account of the arms of some of the City Companies.

720. 8vo.

"Voyage d'Italie." This is the title to the present elegant and interesting volume, which contains an account of the travels in Italy of some very learned and intelligent Frenchman, between the years 1574 and 1578. They are written in a remarkably neat Italic hand, and occasionally ornamented with neat drawings in pen and ink. Interspersed are numerous sepulchral and other inscriptions. As the work is unfortunately without any index or table of contents, it may not be improper to notice a few of the most remarkable particulars:

Num. 720, 721.

fo. 68 b. An account of a door way in the cathedral at Bologna, having very singular twisted columns, accompanied with a drawing.

fo. 103. A representation of the celebrated monument near Bologna, with the inscription AELIA. LAELIA. CRISPIS, &c.

fo. 124. A spirited drawing of the head of Petrarch, copied from the bronze on his tomb at Arquà near Padua. There is also a figure of the monument itself, with some particulars of Petrarch not generally known.

fo. 137 b. A note of the author's having heard an oration made by Carolus Sigonius at Bologna, on the appointment of Roderic de Pozos Figueroa à Pontevendra, as a rector in the university there, with a printed copy of the oration itself inserted. His reason for introducing it is very singular, and shows the contempt in which the French, at this time in particular, held the Spanish nation. These are his words: "laquelle j'adjousteray ici pour memoire d'avoir ouy orer un si grand personnage, et non pour le subject de sa harangue, qui est en la louange d'un Espagnol." fo. 190. An account of the monument of Brunelleschi the Architect, with the story of the egg as related by Vasari.

Query if this be not the original of the adventure of the egg ascribed in general to Columbus?

fo. 201. A printed edict of the Grand Duke of Tuscany for the protection and preservation of the armorial ensigns and publick inscriptions belonging to the city of Florence.

fo. 279. A copy of some Chinese characters in a book said to have been written by Pope Marcellus II. and preserved in the Vatican library, together with the ancient Etruscan alphabet and a musical scale composed of numerals.

This work is not only one of the earliest descriptions of modern Italy, but it may be also regarded as one of the best, especially as to the contents of palaces, publick edifices, and inscriptions of various kinds, many of which are no longer existing and probably no where else recorded.

721. 4to.

A miscellaneous Volume, formerly belonging to James West, Esq. It contains the following articles:

1. A letter from the Rev. Joseph Greene, of Stratford upon Avon, to Mr. West, accompanied with a transcript of Shakespeare's will made from the original. fo. 2.

2. Some remarks on Mr. Wise's account of the White Horse Hill in Berkshire, in a letter from "a young antiquary." fo. 7.

3. "Mechanica, sive de motu corporum tractatus." Quædam sub fine desiderantur. fo. 27.

4. A fragment of a letter to Mr. Camden, describing some of the rivers in Cumberland. fo. 52.

5. Excerpta ex Registerio Patris Willelmi Strickland Episcopi Carlionensis de antiquitate civitatis Carlioli. fo. 53 b.

6. Series Episcoporum Carliolensium. fo. 54.

7. An account of several Roman inscriptions and other antiquities in the county of Cumberland, by the author of the preceding letter to Mr. Camden, to whom these materials were also communicated for his Britannia. fo. 59.

Num. 721—722.

This is probably the writer's own transcript of his communication. The name of this person, who resided at Appleby in Westmorland, does not appear. Interspersed with the above matters are some genealogical notices of the families of Whilpor, Cospatrick and Bruce.

8. A memoir of the life and writings of the Rev. Thomas Pierson, Minister of Bramton Brian in Herefordshire, in the reign of King James I.; together with an account of several of his successors in that living. fo. 89.

9. "An abstract of the lives of John Williams Bishop of Lincoln and Archbishop of York, and William Laud Bishop of London and Archbishop of Canterbury, written by D^r Hacket and D^r Heylyn who had been their chaplains; together with a breif comparison of those two great men and their historians." fo. 155.

10. "A breife replye to the answeres of M^r William Sparks made to two questions proposed unto him by a Catholike;" by H. F. 1631. fo. 194.

722. 4to.

Another Volume of Miscellanies, formerly belonging to Mr. West, and containing,

1. A Latin poem addressed to Queen Anne, by Basil Kennett. fo. 2.

2. "Considerations on a foreign memorial done at London, but underwritten Baron de Bothmar." fo. 5. Imperfect at the end.

3. "A Translation of Huitfelts History of Denmark. By Captain Christian Holmes. Anno 1757." fo. 26. Three leaves only.

4. Sir William Dugdale's Journal of his itinerary to the fens of Ely, in his own hand-writing, being the materials used in his printed history of draining and imbanking of fens and marshes. fo. 29.

5. An astrological treatise intitl'd "Of annuall profections, and by what meanes to finde out the profec-tionall signe every yeare." fo. 40.

6. "A criticall essay in which is endeavoured to be shewn in what consists the poesy of the Hebrews." fo. 54.

7. A literal translation of the first three chapters of Genesis, with a paraphrase and commentary. fo. 61. (Latin.)

8. A part of an alphabetical collection of verses, chiefly Leonine; containing the letters O and Q only. fo. 93. (Latin.)

9. "The ceremonye for the healing of them that be diseased with the King's evill." fo. 100.

It is in Latin, and in point of date, but not hand-writing, anterior to the Reformation. It is materially different from the Ceremonials given in Tooker's book on the Evil in Waldron's Literary Museum, and in Parsel's Latin Common Prayer, the last of which is merely an abridgment of the older one.

10. "Certaine prayers to be used by the Queenes Highnesse in the consecration of the Cramp-ring." fo. 103.

This is likewise copied from an ancient ceremonial, and probably by Mr. Smith of the Poultry Compter, a curious collector of books in the reign of Cha. I. See another in Waldron's Literary Museum.

11. "Epitome fidei et religionis Turcicæ a Mahumeta Okareischita, Arabum Propheta, prius in Arabia deserta, postea in successoribus per totum penè Orientem diffusæ." fo. 105.

Num. 722—726.

12. "Sir Thomas Overburie's observations of the Low Countryes and Kingdome of France." fo. 115.

They have been printed.

13. A letter from Dr. Gastrell concerning Queen Anne's bounty to the Clergy, dated Greenwich, Mar. 23, 1703-4. fo. 126.

14. "An account of the murther of Francis Seymour, Duke of Somerset, received from Hildebrand late Lord Allington, who was with him at the time of his death." fo. 133.

He was murdered by Horatio Botti at Levici in the republick of Genoa, April 20, 1678.

723. 4to.

A Volume containing two Latin plays, viz.

1. "Fatum Vortigerni, seu miserabilis vita et exitus Vortigerni Regis Britannicæ, una complectens adventum Saxonum sive Anglorum in Britanniam." fo. 1.

2. "Solymanidæ, tragedia." 1581. fo. 47.

724. 4to.

A Volume containing,

1. "The booke of the reverend lerned man Lord Barnard Erle of Trevisane, towching the philosopher's stone, written by him in the Frenche tonge and nowe Engleshed by J. C." fo. 1.

2. "The lives and wittie answers of philosophers, collected out of sundrie authors, as well Latin as English, at idle night-houres." By Richard Ingoldsby, an university student, dedicated to his father Sir Richard Ingoldsby, Knight. fo. 37.

3. "The uses of Tetraedrum transformatum garnished with dyalls." fo. 64.

This tract belonged to Lord Burghley, who has intitl'd it "The use of the dyall, 1576."

725. 4to.

A Volume containing,

1. A poem intitl'd "An olde manuscript conteyn- ing the Parlament of Bees, found in a hollow tree in a garden at Hibla, in a strandge language, and now faithfully translated into easie English verse, by John Daye, Cantabrig." fo. 2.

The author was a student of Caius College, and his work was printed 1641, 4to, with a dedication to George Butler. In the present manuscript the dedication is addressed to William Augustine, Esq.

2. "Tres Eclipses Chameræ Stellatæ," per Richardum Cullen. Opus Johanni Foscue [Fortescue] militi, ac fisci regii cancellario, dicatum. fo. 39.

726. 8vo.

An English translation of the oration of Æschines against Ctesiphon; a college exercise by Hum. Quick. Dedicated to Dr. Hunt, Master of Baliol College, Oxford.

Num. 727—733.

737. 4to.

A miscellaneous Volume, formerly belonging to Peter Le Neve, Esq. Norroy, containing,

1. "A defence of Her Majestie's administration, particularly against the notorious forgeries and calumnies with which His Grace the Duke of Marlborough and the Right Honourable Mr. Secretary Harley are scandalously defamed and aspers'd in a late scurrilous invective, entitled, A Letter to the Author of the Memorial of the State of England." 1705. Imperfect at the end. fo. 1.

This has been printed.

2. A copy of certain articles exhibited against some person in the reign of Q. Elizabeth, supposed to be Mr. Robert Beale, a Clerk of the Privy Council, for writing against oaths in ecclesiastical courts, ecclesiastical jurisdiction, and the use of torture. fo. 5.

3. "A just defence, character, and history, of that true English Protestant patriot Edward Earl of Clarendon, Lord H. Chancellor of England, &c. Proving him innocent of those crimes long since laid to his charge and lately published in a scandalous libel called The Proceedings, &c., with some reflections on the anonymous publisher and his preface. Written 1701." fo. 8.

4. A single leaf of a Journal made in French, but apparently by some Englishman sent to Paris in a diplomatic capacity, containing brief notes of what passed from Sept. 1597 to the 28 Oct. in the same year, in his journey from Theobalds to Paris; with another leaf, written by the same person, of extracts, in French, from Plutarch's Lives. fo. 37.

5. "The names of the noblemen created and being synce the Conquest in every Kyngs tyme and of some that were here when the land was conquered, by whom they were advanced, and their armes." fo. 40.

6. More memorandums, forms of letters, prayers, &c., all in French, by the writer of article 4. fo. 120.

7. "Extracts out of an original book of accounts in folio, written in the time of King Henry the VIIIth, and at the end of every month signed by his own hand; being the accounts of who was his Privy-purse, beginning on the 17th day of November in the 20th year of his reign, which book I, Peter Le Neve Norroy, bought of . . . Wynde, Esq." There followed a few more words, since blotted with a pen and ink, part of which seems to have been, "and sold it for the same price to the Right Honorable Lord Harley." fo. 126.

Mr. Le Neve adds that it belonged to Sir Orlando Bridgeman, Knight, Lord Keeper, and had his handwriting at the beginning.

Num. 737—742.

These accounts are extremely curious for manners, and, with those of Hen. VII. preserved in the Exchequer at Westminster, and a few others still remaining, would form an interesting addition to the Expences of Edw. I. already published by the Society of Antiquaries.

8. Liber Pacis, or a list of nobility and gentry in the different counties of England and Wales, who are qualified to act as Justices of Peace. Circa 1584. fo. 149.

763. 4to.

A Volume fairly written on vellum in the fifteenth century, and containing the following ancient and very interesting treatises on musick by different authors:

1. "Hunc librum vocitatum Musica Guidonis scripsit Dominus Johannes Wylde quondam exempti monasterii Sancte Crucis de Waltham precentor. Quem quidem librum ut [aut?] hunc titulum qui maliciose abstulerit vel deleverit Anathema sit." fo. 1*.

This work is also intituled "Monacordum," and divided into two parts; the first being called by the author "Musica Manualis," and the second "Tonale." The whole has been accurately analysed and commented on in the valuable Histories of Musick composed by Sir John Hawkins (vol. ii. p. 202), and Dr. Burney (vol. i. 413), both of whom had had the use of this manuscript. The preface, or prologue, begins "Quia juxta sapientissimum Salomonem." In it the author informs us that he had composed the first part abroad, and the latter, lately in England. He does not in this place name himself; but there is very good reason for supposing, with the above learned writers on the science of musick, that he was the before-named John Wylde, precentor of Waltham Abbey, and not Guido himself, whose precepts contained in his general works are here condensed and delivered in another form. This manuscript therefore is the author's autograph.

2. "Tractatus de octo tonis." Inc. "Septem orbes septem planetarum cum dulcissima armonia volvuntur." fo. 49.

This short treatise, in which the musical tones are assimilated to the sun and planets, occupies little more than a single page. The author's name nowhere appears. See an abstract of it in Hawkins's Hist. of Musick, ii. 214.

3. "Musica de Sancta Magdalena." Inc. "Felix Magdalene cantandi prominet arte." fo. 50.

This short work, in hexameter verses, contains a mystical gamut in which all musical perfection is said to lie concealed. It was composed, if we are to believe the author of the verses, by Mary Magdalen herself. The writer appears to have been one Kendall, a monk of Sherborne.

4. A resolution of tones and semitones, set to musick. fo. 53.

5. "Antiphona, per quam ascendit a Gamma usque ad Delasol." fo. 54.

6. "Tractatulus de effectu musice speculative." Inc. "Musica est scientia recte canendi." fo. 54 b.

Of this anonymous work Sir J. Hawkins has given an analysis, vol. ii. p. 215. And see Burney, vol. ii. p. 416.

7. "Speculum cantantium sive psallentium, scil. de affectu musice moralis secundum tradiciones antiquorum et sanctorum patrum." Inc. "Quia omnes 7 scientie liberales." fo. 58 b.

See an abstract of it in Hawkins, ii. 218. See also Burney, ii. 417.

In this treatise are the following very curious satirical verses upon those clerical chanters who in performing the church service not only corrupt the singing psalms, but hurry them over in a very disgraceful manner. They have evidently been composed by some monk under the feigned name of Saint Bernard.

Detestatio contra perversè psallentes

Qui psalmos resecant qui verba rescisa volutant
Non magis illi ferent quam si male lingue tacerent.
Illi sunt qui psalmos corrumpunt nequiter almos:
Quos sacra scriptura dampnat, reprobant quoque jura;

Janglers cum jappers, nappers, galpers, quoque drawers,

Momlers, forskippers, overenners, sic overhippers.

Fragmina verborum TUTIVILLUS colligit horum.

Janglers and jappers are those who talk fast and jestingly; nappers and galpers, sleepers and yawners; drawers, probably those who sing or read in a drawling tone of voice; forskippers are, skippers over; overenners (overrunners) and overhippers seem to mean something of the same kind. Tutivillus is a name given to a Lollard in one of the old monkish mysteries or pageants, performed in the abbies and by the companies of city tradesmen. He is introduced as bringing a parcel of damned souls, which he had corrupted on earth, to a company of Devils, and in the following lines describes himself and the reason of his name:

Num. 763.

"My name is TUTIVILLUS, my horne is blawen Belzebub Algorum, Belial belman doliorum."

He tells the Devils that he is one of their order and one of their sons, and in return is saluted by the name of the Devil's chorister, which explains the reason of his introduction into the above verses.

8. "Metrologus liber." Inc. "In nomine sancte et individue Trinitatis incipit de plana musica et brevis sermo." fo. 60.

See it analysed in Hawkins, ii. 220. See Burney, ii. 417.

9. "Octo tonorum tractatus metricus." Inc. "Primus est tonus re la, re fa, quoque secundus." fo. 67 b.

10. A treatise intitled "Tonale." Inc. "De origine musice artis quia rudem lectorem vidimus." fo. 68.

It contains some account of the discovery of the consonances by Pythagoras, and much relating to the nature of tones, plagal modes, &c. evidently extracted from the Micrologus of Guido.

11. An illuminated page with figures of four pots or vases containing flowers that resemble the form of a chandelier with several branches. fo. 86 b.

It seems to have some connexion with the next ensuing treatise.

12. "Distinctio inter colores musicales et armorum heroum." Inc. "Numerus sexdecim est numerus prestantissimus." fo. 87 b.

Analysed in Hawkins, ii. 222; and see Burney, ii. 418.

13. "Declaracio trianguli superius positi et figure de tribus primis figuris quadratis et earum speciebus ac etiam scuti, per Magistrum Johannem Torkesey." Inc. "Ad habendam perfectam noticiam." fo. 89.

14. "Octo tonorum proporcio et Grecorum vocabulorum ad predictos tonos pertinencium expositio." Inc. "Tonus constat in proporcione sesquioctava." fo. 90.

See Hawkins, ii. 224. and Burney, ii. 418. The three preceding articles seem to be included under the general title of "Regule Magistri Johannis Torkesey." This person seems no otherwise known to us than by the present work. He was probably a monk or precentor of the Priory of Torkesey in Lincolnshire.

15. "Regule Magistri Johannis de Muris." Inc. "Intendentes scientie musicalis exquirere cognicionem." fo. 94.

This is supposed to be only an abridgment, by some other person, probably John Wylde, of De Muris's doctrine touching the Cantus Mensurabilis. Whoever is desirous of knowing more of the last-named author may consult Tanner Bibl. Britannico-Hibernica; Fabricii Bibl. Med. et infim. ætat. iv. 309. edit. 1734; Hawkins's Hist. of Musick, vol. ii. book ii. ch. 2; and Burney's Hist. of Musick, vol. ii. chap. 3. There has been much dispute respecting his country; but proof seems wanting that he was an Englishman.

16. "Regule Magistri Thome Walsingham de figuris compositis et non compositis, et de cantu perfecto et imperfecto, et de modis." Inc. "Cum sit necessarium juvenilibus ad facultatem organicam tendentibus." fo. 97 b.

The account in this treatise of the musical notes will be found curious and interesting. There can be no doubt that the author of it was Walsingham the historian, who was a monk and also precentor of the abbey of Saint Alban; but it has escaped the notice of Leland, Bale, Pitts, Tanner and Fabricius. Dr. Burney has given a short analysis of this work, ii. 420; and see Hawkins, ii. 142, 225.

Num. 763.

17. "This tretis is contrivid upon the Gamme for hem that wil be syngers, or makers, or techers." fo. 104 b.

It was composed by one Lyonel Power, of whom nothing is recorded, except that his name is mentioned in the catalogue of "authors cited and used" at the end of Morley's "Plaine and easy Introduction to Practicall Musicke" 1597. folio, who, it is conjectured, had seen the present manuscript. At the end of the treatise the author tells us that "who wil konne this gamme wel, and the ymaginacions therof and of his acordis, and sette his perfite acordis with his imperfite acordis as I have rehersed in this tretise afore, he may not faile of his countirpoint in short tyme." See more relating to this work in Hawkins, ii. 225; and Burney, ii. 422.

18. "Her folwith a litil tretise according to the ferst tretise of the sight of descant; and also for the sight of countir, and for the syght of the countirtenor, and of faburdon." fo. 112.

This is probably written by the author of the next article. See the substance of it in Hawkins, ii. 227; and see Burney, ii. 425.

19. "Her beginneth tretises diverse of musical proportions and of their naturis and denominacions, ferst in English and than in Latyne." Beg. "Now passid al maner sightis of descant." fo. 116.

The author was one Chilston, of whom nothing more is known. Nearly the whole of this article has been inserted in Sir J. Hawkins's Hist. of Musick, ii. 229; and see Burney, ii. 426.

20. A short treatise on proportion in Latin, being a continuation of an addition to the preceding article; with some exemplifications in musical notes. fo. 122.

See Burney, ii. 426.

We have seen that this valuable manuscript belonged originally to John Wylde the precentor of Waltham Abbey; and not only such part of it as was composed by himself, but all the other treatises that it contains were written by his own hand, in all probability about the year 1460. His pious anathema was of no avail; for at the dissolution of the Abbey the book fell into the hands of the celebrated Thomas Tallys, organist to King Henry VIII., his name being on the back of the last leaf. From him it is supposed to have passed into the hands of the no less celebrated Thomas Morley, one of the gentlemen of Queen Elizabeth's chapel, to whom it was of considerable service in his "Introduction to Musicke." It afterwards became respectively the property of Mr. Powle, Speaker of the House of Commons and Master of the Rolls in the reign of King William; Lord Chancellor Somers; and Sir Joseph Jekyll. At the sale of the latter's books it was purchased by some country organist, who presented it to Mr. West. Dr. Pepusch appears to have been permitted by one of its owners to make a transcript of it, which is said to be still extant. Besides the passages in the Histories of Musick by Sir John Hawkins and Dr. Burney, already referred to, a general account of the contents of this manuscript may be found in the work of the former gentleman, vol. ii. book 2, chap. 10.

The following papers have been added to the end of this volume, viz.

1. An original letter from Dr. John Wallis to some unknown person (the superscription being lost), with his remarks on an ancient Greek manuscript containing a collection of hymns and anthems composed by the members of the Greek church at Constantinople, with the art of singing, &c. fo. 124.

Num. 763—767.

It is printed in Hawkins's Hist. of Musick, vol. i. p. 391.

2. Humphrey Wanley's account of the last named Greek manuscript, which was taken from the Turks at Buda about the year 1686, and is supposed to have belonged to the library of Matthew Corvinus, King of Hungary. fo. 125.

This manuscript appears to have been in Mr. Wanley's own possession at the time he wrote the above account; but it is certainly not the article afterwards described by him in the Harl. Catal. N^o 1613, as was stated in the former Catalogue of the Lansd. MSS. See a letter from him on the same subject to Dr. Charlett, printed in Hawkins's Hist. of Musick, vol. i. p. 392.

3. A note from Mr. West to Mr. Raper, requesting his judgment on Wylde's manuscript, 4 Decem. 1767. fo. 127.

4. Some brief remarks on the manuscript, by Mr. Raper. fo. 128.

5. A letter from Mr. Daines Barrington to Mr. West, returning thanks for the loan of his manuscript, &c. 17 March 1770. fo. 129.

2. "A breefe historye of th' Earles and Dukes of Anjou sence Geffery Grisegonnelle unto my Lord Henry sun and broother of the Kings of France, Duke of Bourbon and Auvergne. By Bernard of Girard Lord of Haillan, secretarye to my sayd lord. Newly translated out of Frenche by Charles Lennox. Anno Domini 1574." fo. 20.

The first of these pieces is very neatly written; but the last in a hand of uncommon beauty.

"A treatice of Exchange and of the King's Majestie's Royall Exchangers office in his emenent place of dignity. Shewing the greate good that came unto the land two or three hundred yeeres together by that office being in use. And the greate hurt and losse of many millions of pownds starling unto the land, within this seventie yeeres since the same office hath been neglected. And the merchandizing exchange put in use, with allso remedie shewed for the same."

The author, whose name was William Sanderson, a schemer and projector in the reign of James I., calls his work "A present for the King's most sacred Majestie and the Prince His Highnes"; and maintains that he shall enable His Majesty to gain 400,000*l.* and the Prince half that sum if his project, which he communicates to the King himself, in confidence, shall be adopted. It is most probable that this performance never came to the King's hands, but was detained in the Secretary of State's office.

769. 8vo.

"The commentarie of George Acropolite then the greate Logothete in the Greekish empire; comprising the state of the Orientall church and empire (together with the Bulgarique and Turkish affaires coincident) for about threescore yeares. Faithfullie translated out of an originall manuscript brought (as manie other rare monumentes of antiquitie) out of Greece, by that late industrious and learned man William Pettie."

The ambiguity of the above title has led to a supposition that Wm. Petty (the person particularly mentioned in N° 770 of the present collection) was the translator of the work; but it seems only to mean that he brought the original manuscript with many others from Greece, as he is well known to have done. It came into the possession of John Cotes, Esquire, of the Middle Temple, who put it into the hands of the translator, as is stated in the dedication to that gentleman, dated Feb. 6, 1644. The original work is printed among the Byzantine historians and elsewhere; but, as the above translator states, from a far less perfect copy than that which he made use of; and for this reason, as well as that no English translation of this curious writer was ever published, the present manuscript may be regarded as extremely valuable.

770. 4to.

A Box or Portfolio in the form of a quarto volume lettered "Rev^d W^m Petty's Papers, Vol. XII. 1613 &c." It contains the following articles:

1. A collection of letters on various subjects to Mr. Petty, from his friend Edward Thornburgh of Wichampton in Dorsetshire [q. Archdeacon of Worcester?] from 1613 to 1617. On the covers of these letters are many notes, extracts, and memorandums by Mr. Petty.

2. Theological notes, apparently heads of sermons.

3. Mr. Petty's copies of some Latin letters written by him to Henry Jackson, Edw. Thornburgh, and Richard Smith, from 1613 to 1617.

Num. 770—775.

4. More theological notes.

5. Artis logicæ Compendium.

6. Euraξίας et ecclesiasticæ politeias Tabulæ analyticae.

This William Petty was vicar of Thorley in the Isle of Wight, and is supposed, with good reason, to have been the uncle of Sir Wm. Petty, and the same person who is often mentioned in Sir Thomas Roe's negotiations as sent into Greece by Lord Arundell for the purpose of collecting antiquities.

13. "A catalogue of all such Dukes, Marqueses, Earles, and Barrons as have byne in England from the tyme of William Conquerour." fo. 59 b.

14. "The names of the Cheif Justices of the King's Bench from the 22^d yeare of King Edward the Third untill this present yeare 1593. Anno Eliz. 35." fo. 83.

15. "The names of the Cheif Justices of the Common Pleas from the yeare 1399, viz. from the last yeare of the raigne of King Richard the Second." fo. 83 b.

16. "A breif discourse of the generall causes of the mutynies and disorders in the Scottish Commonwealth." fo. 84.

This article appears to have been drawn up by one John Levytt, of Purleigh in Essex, to whom the present volume belonged in 1590, and who also transcribed the greatest part of it.

17. "I renditi comodita et provisioni che il Re di Spagna caria de suoi regni et signori, con lor carico." fo. 89.

18. "The tytles and names of the Spanish Nobility." fo. 90.

19. "Los titulos y nombres de la Nobelesa Portuguesa." fo. 91.

20. "The pedegree of the King of Spayne, and howe he cam to so many kingdomes and provinces." fo. 91 b.

21. A general account of the kingdom of Spain. fo. 92.

22. A general account of the kingdom of France. fo. 100 b.

23. "A description of the estate of Italie in the yeare 1592, devyded into 4 chapters." fo. 107.

24. A general account of the German Empire. 1595. fo. 131.

25. "A discourse of the present government of the United Provinces in the Lowe Countrey by the States." fo. 134.

This seems to have been also compiled by the above J. Levytt.

26. "A breif description of the Lower Germany touching the aforesayd seventeen provinces." fo. 139.

27. "Certayne remembraunces touching the two great offices of the Seneschall or High Steward of England, and Steward of the King's howse." fo. 140.

29. "Kyng Henrye's wyll," i. e. Hen. VIII. Decem. 30th, 1546. fo. 153.

30. "Essayes" by Lord Bacon; viz. on studies, discourse, ceremonies or respects, followers and friends, suitors, expence, regiment of health, honour and reputation, faction and negotiating. fo. 164.

These essays will be found to vary in some degree from the printed copies, and especially from an expensive edition of Lord Bacon's works, in which the essays appear to be greatly mutilated.

31. "The letter of Balthazer the Emperour of Babylon to Henry the VIIIth, King of England." fo. 166 b.

This is a bantering epistle, beginning "Balthazer by the Grace of Mahound, King of Kings, Lord of Lords, Steward of Hell," &c.

32. A pedigree of the union of the houses of York and Lancaster. fo. 168.

33. Another pedigree of the Kings of England from the Conquest to the time of Queen Elizabeth. fo. 175.

777. 4to.

A collection of miscellaneous pieces chiefly of the seventeenth century, viz.

1. Sundry poems by William Browne of the Inner Temple, Gent., the author of Britannia's Pastorals. fo. 1.

They consist of a great variety of epigrams, epitaphs, elegies, sonnets, &c. the greatest part of which have never been published, the whole written with his own hand between the years 1614 and 1650. Among them will be found (fo. 5) the humorous poem intituled "Lidford Journey," imperfectly printed in Prince's Worthies of Devon, and from thence in a collection of Browne's works edited by T. Davies, in 3 vols. 12°, 1782. It was also published in Grose's Glossary from Westcott's Survey of Devonshire.

Another MS. of it is in the Harl. Coll. N° 4931. 7.

2. A collection of poems written by Sir Walter Raleigh, Sir Henry Wotton, Dr. H. King, Hugh Holland, Sir N. Throckmorton, W. Basse, Dr. Sineroes,

Num. 777, 778.

W. Str., G. M., W. P., Wm. Reynolds, and P. Pembroke, and some anonymous persons. fo. 63.

These are also in the hand-writing of Browne.

3. "Three moneths observations of the Low-Countryes, especially Holland." fo. 82.

In the hand-writing of Mr. Browne. See Harl. MS. 5111.

4. "The three establishments concerning the pay of the sea officers; to which is prefixed an introduction for the better understanding by what occasions they came to be produc'd. By P. C. London, Printed 1705." With a table of the monthly wages of the Commission officers at the highest established pay, together with the warrant and petty officers, and the rest of the ship's company at the middle compliment. The number of petty officers as allow'd in time of war, with the amount of the whole for each rate distinct. fo. 85.

5. A collection of College verses in Greek, Latin, and English, by John West. fo. 129.

Written about the time of King Charles I.

6. "A letter from a country clergyman to a citizen in London;" expostulatory on the City's not chusing Sir Charles Duncombe to be Lord Mayor. fo. 152.

7. A treatise on the origin, jurisdiction and practice of the Court of Chancery, intitled "The Course and Court of Chancerye." fo. 159.

8. "An exhortation against the feare of death." 1644. fo. 210.

9. Moral instructions from a father to his son. fo. 225.

10. Some old receipts in medicine, &c. viz. for the gout, ague, and plague; with the manner of perfuming gloves. fo. 287.

11. "A prophecy found under the foundation of the church of Saint Dionisius, written in the Hebrew tongue." fo. 296 b.

12. A treatise on the oath of allegiance to William and Mary. fo. 298.

13. "The booke of articles to be inquired of in visitations, &c. 1640." fo. 319.

14. "An account of the June fight between the English and Dutch fleets in the year 1666." fo. 342.

A Volume of original letters from Thomas Hearne, of Edmund Hall, Oxford, the celebrated antiquary, to James West, Esq., then residing in Fig-tree Court in the Temple.

1. Concerning some work by Donald Lupton, and his mention of Bale's epitome of Leland.—Account of a Roman inscription found at Chichester. May 19, 1724. fo. 2.

2. Some remarks on John Fox the martyrologist, and his works.—His credulity and extensive memory.—That societies should engage in great works not already printed. Feb. 18, 1724. fo. 4.

3. Mr. Gibbons the Herald's discourse on Stonehenge.—On a printed brief of King Hen. VIII.—Mr. Tanner the surgeon a curious man.—Buceus learned Greek at an advanced age. March 2, 1724. fo. 6.

4. On Friar Bacon and his works.—An inscription on a rock at Blacklow Hill near Warwick, indicating the place where Piers de Gaveston was beheaded, unnoticed by historians or antiquaries. March 15, 1724. fo. 7.

5. On Skelton and his Image of Ypocrisy, a manuscript in Mr. Le Neve's possession.—On Mr. Anderson, the Scottish historian, mentioned in Hearne's Appendix to his Fordun. March 29, 1725. fo. 8.

Num. 778.

6. That the London booksellers had made paltry work about the three pieces of Stonehenge, &c. April 6, 1725.

7. On Roger Wendover, the historian. Robert Hegg's MS. legend of Saint Cuthbert. April 19, 1725. fo. 10.

8. Further remarks on Mr. Gibbon and his Stonehenge, with Hearne's own observations on that monument.—On the dearness of the Scriptores Heydelbergici. fo. 11.

This letter is very much torn and mutilated.

9. More remarks on Hegg's legend of S. Cuthbert, and other works relating to Durham.—That he would have printed Arthur Agarde's remarks on Domesday if he had possessed them.—That he would have printed the index of books belonging to the monasteries preserved in the Cotton library, if he could have ascertained whether it were different from another catalogue in the fourth volume of the Collectanea. May 3, 1725. fo. 13.

10. Further remarks on some of the subjects mentioned in the last letter. That Mr. Anstis's book on the Knights of the Bath was compiled and printed within three weeks.—That Francis Thynne, Lancaster herald, had also written on that subject, and that Mr. Anstis had a MS. copy of his work.—Desires Mr. West to inspect the Cotton MS. Claud. A. II. for any mention of Saint Winifred, concerning whom he meant to speak in his preface to Langtoft. May 8, 1725. fo. 14.

11. The homily of Saint Winifred in the MS. copies of the Liber Festivalis, but not in the printed.—The Bishop of Ely when writing on S. Winifred, not acquainted with this homily.—He was assisted by Hearne in that work; but failed in his purpose to prevent superstitious persons from making fruitless pilgrimages to the Holy Well, his book having had a contrary effect.—Many persons, of good judgment, of opinion that the Bishop's evidence against the existence of this saint was very weak, and that he had been highly injurious to the memory of Robertus Salopiensis, whom he makes a great villain, but who, on the contrary, was a religious good man.—Hearne defends the writers or martyrs against the Bishop [Fleetwood], his own friend Mr. Dodwell, and the Bishop of Worcester. June 4, 1725. fo. 15.

The reader may consult, on the subject of this letter, Hearne's preface to his Langtoft, from which it may be collected that Hearne himself was not a little credulous about the legendary tales of the Welsh Saint.

12. Leiger book of Christ's Hospital, in Abbingdon.—Robert Halstead's book, a great curiosity; some account of him requested.—Catalogue of Sir J. Sebright's MSS. and printed books.—A MS. of William of Malmsbury's Life of Saint Dunstan, in Mr. West's possession. Nov. 25, 1725. fo. 15.

13. That he had just run over Dr. Thomas Barlowe's coll. about mortuaries, and returns the MS. without extracting a single word, &c. March 7, 1725. fo. 17.

14. His reasons for not having extracted any thing from Dr. Barlowe's notes about mortuaries, viz. that the Doctor had prohibited the divulging of any of his posthumous things; that his executors declared against publishing any of his papers, and because he himself never had any great opinion of that Calvinistical Divine's writings.—That the MS. of Lucian at Bridge's sale was not dear at 40 guineas, if it was 800 years old. [This was bought by Lord Oxford. See Harl. MS. N° 5694.]—Saxon coins found in Ireland confirm Keder's opinion that that island was conquered by English Princes before the reign of Hen. II., and that therefore Athelstan might be properly stiled TOT. BRIT.

Num. 778.

REX.—Doubtful whether Anlaf's Hiberni were Scotch or Irish. March 27, 1726. fo. 18.

15. Hearne gives his reasons why Ireland was conquered before the reign of Hen. II.—The modern way of elections at Oxford fatal to all good learning. April 29, 1726. fo. 19.

16. His account of Nicholas Carr's scarce little book of three sheets, De Scriptorum Britannicorum paucitate, in Mr. West's possession.—That tables recording the foundations of, and transactions in, the religious houses were suspended in their refectories, &c. to be read by their societies as well as by strangers. Such were the Tabulæ of St. Frideswide, formerly much read by the people of Oxford, of which place she was the ornament and patroness. Oct. 23, 1726. fo. 20.

17. Thanks Mr. West for conveying to him Mr. Lang's present of Coryat's Crudities, which he says is a most rare book.—Gives some account of Coryat, and of a diary which he kept before he travelled abroad.—Supposes that his mother Gertrude, who long survived him, destroyed it, to prevent further descants upon him. Sept. 9, 1726. fo. 21.

18. Character of John Tzetzes's Chiliads.—Some account of Andreas's Bibliotheca Belgica, and of Richard Whyte of Basingstoke.—Enquires after Whyte's Life of S. Ursula, printed at Douay 1610, and whether it contained any notice of a MS. of Geoffrey of Monmouth, with the Life of S. Ursula in it, stated by Baronius, in his Martyrology, to be in the Vatican. [If Hearne had looked into Baronius, he would have soon perceived that this MS. does not differ, as he seems to think it might, from the printed copy.]—Enquires after a Life of S. Winifred, by Tho. Goldwell, Bishop of St. Asaph, a friend of Baronius, and a Catholic, who retired to Rome when Q. Eliz. came to the crown. Nov. 4, 1726. fo. 22.

19. That although he had printed the old table hanging in the hospital at Abbingdon, he should be glad to see Mr. West's extracts from the Leiger-book, lest any thing remarkable in them may have escaped him.—Wonders that so little is left on record about Michelney Abbey.—Suspects that Sir J. Sebright's catalogue contains only such books as belonged to Sir Roger Twysden.—Sir Thomas bought Mr. Badger's books and Edward Lhuyd's MSS.—Wishes to see the inscription on the honorary monument for Dr. Grabe in Westminster Abbey. Decem. 20, 1726. fo. 23.

20. Mentions some MSS. relating to Berking Abbey, in the catalogue of the library of John Humphrey of Rowell or Rothwell, in Northamptonshire, sold by auction in 1682 at London; which catalogue he thinks was drawn up by his friend John Bagford, "a man of great and uncommon curiosity." fo. 24.

21. Concerning "the old lamina about Glastonbury, published by Sir Henry Spelman." Jan. 2, 1726. fo. 25.

22. Concerning the Abbey of Michelney, and John Bracy, one of its Abbots. Jan. 20, 1726. fo. 26.

23. Enquires after the first edition of Fox's Martyrs.—Mentions a work by George Coryat an Oxford poet, noticed by Dr. Caius. Febr. 6, 1726. fo. 27.

24. Thanks Mr. West for a present of the MS. Life of Saint Dunstan, by William of Malmesbury. Febr. 7, 1726. fo. 28.

25. On the first edition of Fox's Martyrs.—Some account of Mr. Madox the historian of the Exchequer.—That Mr. Parne, Fellow of Trin. Coll. Cambridge, is writing the history of that College. Febr. 19, 1726. fo. 29.

26. Returns the Abbingdon fragment, the original of which he has referred to in Leland's Itinerary. Febr. 21, 1726. fo. 30.

Num. 778.

27. More on the first edition of Fox, of which he does not remember to have seen a perfect copy.—On the Historia Britannica, printed at Amberg, 1603, the name of the author of which he thinks may be learned from Richard Smith's own MS. catalogue of his books, in the hands of the late Dr. Fleetwood. March 2, 1726. fo. 31.

28. That he had copied Mr. Selden's corrections in Lord Surrey's poems for Mr. Serjeant of the Tower, who never made him the least acknowledgment.—Desires Mr. West to buy the copy so corrected, at Serjeant's auction. March 7, 1726. fo. 32.

Mr. West writes at the bottom of this letter "James Joy, Esq. bought the above copy of Surrey's poems."

29. That he loves to look over catalogues when he knows that they contain all and nothing more than what the collectors made; and for this reason he was pleased with the book-catalogue of Mr. John Laughton of Cambridge, of whom and of his collection he gives some account.—He fears the New edition of Bishop Tanner's Notitia Monastica will be a great while printing, as well as his work De Scriptoribus Britannicis. March 16, 1726. fo. 33.

30. On the edition of Surrey's poems printed 1717, in which he doubts whether Mr. Serjeant had any concern.—Some remarks on the history of the English Franciscans; and on Sir Isaac Newton, whose knowledge of chronology was, like Dr. Wallis's, but mean.—Some account of Mr. Francis Thompson, Fellow of Queen's Coll. Oxon, and of Dr. Crosthwaite's pamphlet on the election of heads of that college.—Eulogium of Sir Christopher Wren.—That Sir Isaac Newton owed much to Dr. Hooke's papers. March 30, 1727. fo. 34.

31. The printed catalogue of Dr. Laughton's books censured.—He is glad of Sir Hans Sloane being elected President of the Royal Society.—No authority that Inigo Jones built Saint Mark's church at Florence.—Moyle's defence not worth his notice, and the extract from what he observed very faultily printed by "that vile r——l C——l."—He hears that the booksellers interested in the new edition of Wood's Athenæ Oxonienses are highly enraged at his notice of it. April 16, 1727. fo. 35.

32. Wishes that Mr. West, when at Cambridge, had examined the coins mentioned in his preface to the Antiquarian Discourses, as given by Dr. Andrew Pern to the University library, that he might have ascertained whether there were among them any of the nummi ratiti, &c. [Hearne had no skill whatever in ancient coins.]—Some remarks on the hurricane of 1703.—Mr. Thwaites, and not Sir Andrew Fountaine, the author of the notes on Saxon coins mentioned in p. 86 of Rawlinson's Catalogue, and p. 67 of vol. ii. of Leland's Itinerary. April 28, 1727. fo. 36.

33. Requests of Mr. West to consult a Cotton MS. for him, &c. June 2, 1727. fo. 37.

34. Thanks him for several presents.—Some remarks on the decline of the Saxon language. June 13, 1727. fo. 38.

35. Abbey of Bittlesden dedicated, though Hearne could not have supposed it, to Saint Nicholas.—On Nic. Carr's scarce book De Scriptorum Britannicorum paucitate.—He likes a retired place beyond all human greatness. June 30, 1727. fo. 40.

36. That he had finished Adam de Domesham, and was printing Elmham's Life of Hen. V.—Wants an account of the Cotton MS. Vitell. D. xii (since burnt) in order to print an old song on the battle of Agincourt, &c. July 10, 1727. fo. 41.

37. Wishes that the reign of Richard II. might be better cleared than in the printed books.—The English affairs from Rich. II. to Hen. VII. more obscure than any other parts of history since the Conquest, July 23, 1727. fo. 42.

Num. 778.

38. A printed advertisement of the publication of his Adam de Domerham, &c. with a proposal for printing Thomas de Elmham. fo. 44.

39. Some account of Clunokvaur Abbey in Caernarvonshire. Aug. 1, 1727. fo. 45.

40. Thanks for presents, &c. Aug. 2, 1727. fo. 46.

41. He explains how Lionel Walden, who was murdered eight years since, came to appear as a subscriber to his Adam de Domerham. Aug. 11, 1727. fo. 48.

Mr. West's answer to this letter is subjoined.

42. That he had read a bold speech in MS. against the Queen's supremacy, by John Feckingham, last Abbot of Westminster.—Desires Mr. West to ascertain whether any thing similar had ever been printed. Aug. 17, 1727. fo. 50.

43. That he would willingly know something about Mr. Le Neve's MS. History of Hen. V. though it should be too late for his Elmham.—Wants some particulars of William of Worcester, which he supposes Dr. Tanner might furnish. Sept. 13, 1727.

44. Some remarks on John Norden and his works. Sept. 26, 1727. fo. 54.

45. Desires Mr. West to examine whether the skeleton of Queen Catherine is above ground in a wooden chest in Westminster Abbey, and to ascertain the reason, &c. Oct. 13, 1727. fo. 56.

46. That he values the book concerning the Scudamore family, more for the sake of the donor than of the crazed author.—Further enquiries after Queen Catherine's skeleton.—His indifferent opinion of Goodwyn's Life of Hen. V. Oct. 20, 1727. fo. 58.

47. Catalogue of authors in Stowe's Summary.—Mentions several rare books, as Arnold's Chronicle; Boorde's Introduction of Knowledge; Belenden's Boethius; Nuremberg Chronicle, &c.—Some account of Thomas King, a writing-master and scrivener at Maidenhead, an imitator of Cocker who died in the King's Bench.—Account of the masters of Brayschool, especially of his own tutor Patrick Gordon, a Scottish episcopal divine, and Prebendary of Hereford. Nov. 5, 1727. fo. 60.

48. Thanks Mr. West for an epitaph on Dufresne.—Supposes the design for a new edition of his Glossary dropped.—Great works not carried on in France, as they were in a late reign, and that learning dwindles there "as it does every day among us." Nov. 16, 1727. fo. 62.

49. That Lord Oxford had bought all the three copies of the London edition of Antiq. Eccl. Brit. in Rawlinson's auction, and that he engrosses all the pieces printed by Caxton, W. de Worde, &c. in that collection.—Supposes a seal of Mr. West's to belong to Ottersey in Somersetshire.—Reminds Mr. West of his promise to let him have what the present Bishop of Peterborough has said, in his coll. of Bishops' Nicholson and Maningham. Dec. 6, 1727. fo. 64.

50. Sees no reason why Antony Wood's Diary should be burnt.—Some remarks on Sir Simonds Dewes and his MS. Life in Lord Oxford's collection. Decem. 15, 1727. fo. 66.

51. Notices a metrical Life of King Hen. V. by Elmham in the hands of Mr. Martin, which, he says, it would be to no good purpose to publish, as the Life in prose is better and fuller.—The town of Fenney-Stratford displeased with B. Willis.—Remarks on Abbingdon or Abbandune.—A MS. work by Stephen Birchington, in Mr. West's possession. [See the next article.] Decem. 29, 1727. fo. 68.

Num. 778.

52. Thanks Mr. West for a transcript of Wanley's notes about Bury; many of the like nature drawn up by Sir Simonds Dewes.—A register of Bury Abbey in the hands of Dr. Cox Macro.—Mr. Bruce and his tutor Professor Ward. Jan. 12, 1727. fo. 70.

53. Sir Isaac Newton, though a great mathematician, an inferior historian and chronologer.—His chronology, in Hearne's opinion, done merely for diversion, &c. Jan. 13, 1727. fo. 72.

54. He knows nothing of Palmer, the printer, who had undertaken a History of printing.—His ideas of the necessary qualifications of a person who should undertake such a work. Jan. 26, 1727. fo. 74.

55. A printed advertisement of the publication of Thomas de Elmham, and a proposal for printing the Liber Niger Scaccarii. Jan. 29, 1727. fo. 76.

56. Desires Mr. West to send him the inscription on the fine monument in the church of Saint Andrew of Scotland, where the brain of a certain Prince is interred whom he afterwards calls "that most horribly abused and most unjustly abdicated King." Jan. 31, 1727. fo. 77.

57. Thanks Mr. West for his trouble about the transcript of Rich. II. Life.—Calls William Prynn a writer of the lowest class, and a very mean author.—The Black book of the Exchequer will settle many things about the nobility wherein Dugdale himself mistakes.—That work and Will. of Worcester's Annals now in the press.—That Wanley's notes are very indifferent, and that he wonders how they came to be printed.—That he used to talk (but 'twas only talk) of printing some original historians from the Harley library, but that he [Hearne] could never learn the name of them. Febr. 7, 1727. fo. 78.

Justice to the memory of honest Humphrey requires that it should be remarked in this place, quocunque periculo, that he possessed twice the knowledge and judgment of Thomas Hearne, whatever merit be justly due to the latter. No man ever discharged the duties of his office with more honour to himself or satisfaction to his patrons; and of his extensive skill and learning the portion of the Harleian Catalogue of MSS. executed by his hand, will remain a valuable and lasting monument.

58. Another printed advertisement about the publication of Thomas de Elmham, &c. fo. 80.

59. He is glad to hear of the effigies of Bagford.—Enquiries after various materials for his Black book of the Exchequer.—That Mr. Best is about to sell his books.—Hears that Mr. West is about to be "upon the circuit," and supposes that he is therefore become a barrister, of which he wishes him joy. March 8, 1727. fo. 82.

60. Sends up fragments from a little book on the translations of the Scriptures, and wishes they may be of service to Mr. Granger.—He thinks the Black book not the same with the Red book, Sir W. Dugdale having quoted them as different.—Thinks the original of the Black book is quite lost, and might have perished in private hands in the fire of London. March 24, 1727. fo. 84.

61. Controversy between Dr. Finch and Mr. Proast.—Sir Ph. Sydenham's books and portrait.—Hopes that Mr. Anderson, who is lately dead, has not, in his collections relating to Mary Queen of Scots, been influenced by the many scandalous lies that have been published by the party to sully her reputation.—Mr. Eyston a collector of rare books. April 14, 1728. fo. 85.

62. Worthington's Catalogus Martyrum.—Nicholas Carr an elegant writer in Latin.—Sir Philip Sydenham's plan of collecting a parochial library, for the use of the clergy. April 22, 1728. fo. 87.

Num. 778.

63. More on Worthington's work.—Mr. Thoresby had a copy of many things from the Red book of the Exchequer.—Norden's Cornwall made a pompous book.—Hearne gave the editor of it leave to print a letter from him, May 16, 1728. fo. 89.

64. On the Works of William of Worcester. June 2, 1728. fo. 91.

65. That he had had five fits of a tertian ague, caught by sitting with his neck to an open window, and was taking bark.—Mentions a roll belonging to Mr. Le Neve, being William of Worcester's account of the Norfolk families, and the Bishop of Chichester's certificate to H. II. of his Knight's fees; the latter of which is a part of the Black book. June 11, 1728. fo. 93.

66. That Mr. Smith's book is a studied rhapsody of lies, and that he is sorry it should have come from a member of the University.—That all Smith has said of his Life of Alfred is false, and that he was an innocent young man when he published that work, &c. July 17, 1728. fo. 95.

67. More on the Black and Red books, and on Mr. Smith's work, who used to be called puzzle-cause and the blackness of darkness. Sept. 27, 1728. fo. 97.

68. Thanks Mr. West for a present of two books and three nutmegs.—Gives some account of one of these books, viz. An Ecclesiastical Protestant Historie.—Supposes Mr. Aynsworth to have had a hand in the catalogue of Dr. Woodward's books.—Dr. Friend's books likely to be sold by auction. Oct. 20, 1728. fo. 99.

69. Some remarks on the reign of Rich. II.—That Bishop More's copy of the first edition of Fox has the date. fo. 101.

See Hearne's Adam de Domerham, pref. xxii.

70. That the news of Dr. Samuel Jebb, an eminent physician, being married to a young lady of Ormond-street, wants a little explication.—That he had heard an acquaintance of the late Dr. Friend remark that the medal of him was not a likeness.—That Mr. Smith's book, stiled The Annals of University College was lately dispersed in common rooms at Oxford, but he knows not to what purpose.—Hears from Mr. Tyrrel's amanuensis that his History has sold a little since his death; but that the MS. volume was left imperfect, though Mr. Tyrrel himself had told him it was quite finished. Dec. 23, 1728. fo. 103.

71. More on Dr. Jebb.—Hears that he designs to edit the physical works of Dr. Caius of Cambridge.—He is uncertain about the author of Pyers Plowman's Exhortation, and supposes there may be some notable things in it.—Some account of a supposed MS. of Tho. de la More's Life of Richard II., belonging to Mr. West. Jan. 14, 1728. fo. 105.

72. A printed advertisement of the publication of the Liber Niger Scaccarii, and proposals for printing Evesham's Vita Ric. II. fo. 107.

73. That the Black book being finished, he was proceeding with Evesham's Life of Rich. II. Jan. 20, 1728. fo. 108.

74. Mr. West's MS. not the work of Tho. de la More.—Dr. Friend and Dr. Woodward's book catalogues.—That Mr. Graves, who is well versed in the history of Evesham Abbey, may probably discover the name of the author who wrote the Life of Rich. II.—That Bishop Nicolson speaks ignorantly of this work, as he usually does of others. Jan. 30, 1728. fo. 109.

75. A printed advertisement of the publication of the Liber Niger Scaccarii, &c. fo. 111.

A duplicate of art. 72.

76. That he is pleased with a letter in the Evening Post to Mr. Smith, which is only a single instance, among many, of the falshoods in his book. Feb. 11, 1728. fo. 112.

Num. 778.

77. Thanks Mr. West for a present of Twining's book about Avebury, though the author be a meaner antiquary than he could have imagined.—Mentions the Cotton MS. of Ross's [supposed] Life of Richard Beauchamp Earl of Warwick, which Mr. West had misconceived to be a Life of Guy. Feb. 19, 1728. fo. 113.

78. He is surprised to hear that Mr. Lowe drowned himself, and wishes to know if he had taken the oaths; and if his conscience was troubled on that account.—A critique on Mr. Twining's book on Avebury, which he thinks should be Abury.—That Twining is poorly versed in antiquity. March 4, 1728. fo. 115.

79. Mr. Dale's collections for Essex.—That Mr. Tyrrel had more than once forced a discourse on him about Robert III. King of Scotland. March 19, 1728. fo. 117.

80. That it will not be worth while to engrave the pictures in the Cotton MS. of the Life of the Earl of Warwick. [These are what Mr. Strutt afterwards published.]—That he is informed of one Capt. Vincent having purchased Dr. Woodward's shield, and wants to know who he is.—Hears that a private catalogue of the Duke of Kingston's library, in which are several valuable MSS., is in the press, but despairs of seeing it.—Recommends Mr. West's attention to old books printed at Greenwich.—That Mr. West's MS. Life of Rich. II. wants eighteen pages. April 3, 1729. fo. 119.

81. Desires Mr. West to send him an account of a picture of Rich. II. which he had seen in the Earl of Pembroke's collection. April 25, 1729. fo. 121.

82. Commends Dr. Woodward's shield, and enquires about the sale of his curiosities.—Mention of Mr. Wilkinson, parson of Laurence Waltham, an antiquary, whose books passed into the hands of Mr. Le Neve, and that he should feel great delight in perusing any volume of his MSS.—He does not expect any thing curious from Palmer's History of Printing, who, he hears, is assisted by Mr. Maittaire, because he is a mere mechanick. April 28, 1729. fo. 123.

83. Further enquiries about L. Pembroke's picture of Rich. II. which he did not know before to have been engraved.—Some remarks on Dr. Woodward's shield, and the strictures on it by Mr. Downes.—That he has heard there is an account of it in the London Journal for Sat. April 9 last, or in one about that time, which he wishes to see. May 14, 1729. fo. 125.

84. That the remarks on Woodward's shield in the London Journal are just.—Cannot imagine why they have reprinted Bale's book about Sir John Oldcastle, as he really thinks it is not worth more than two-pence, but 'tis such things as often come from the London presses.—That Dr. Rawlinson had told him 'twas done by a good hand, and wants to know who this good hand is, as he has, at present, another notion of the matter. June 23, 1729. fo. 127.

85. That the person who has printed a part of his book is a man of a very vile character and is "very pragmatical in Kent, where he is abominated"; that he is a silly fellow, an enemy to antiquity, and is for altering originals; that his Catechism was stolen, and his books in no esteem.—That he is sorry the person mentioned by Mr. West should be the publisher of lying Bale's book about Sir J. Oldcastle, but that as his name is not to it he suspends his judgment, July 4, 1729. fo. 129.

86. Wishes to know whether Bale's tract about Oldcastle does not occur in pag. 261 of the first edition of Fox's Acts and Monuments [it does]; and whether in Mr. West's copy of Arnold's Chronicle there be not a blank leaf, instead of a title-page, a thing common in old printed books.—Refers Mr. West, for an account of Arnold, to his Appendix to Heming. July 6, 1729. fo. 131.

87. A printed advertisement of the publication of the Monk of Evesham's History of Ric. II., with proposals for printing Trokelowe Annales Edw. II. fo. 133.

88. That all the copies of Arnold's Chronicle begin without a title.—He gives a further account of that work, in which we have nothing new but his conjecture that Thomas Elmham, the historian of Hen. V., might have been the author of the Nutbrown Maid; but that this being only surmise, he did not ascribe it to him in his edition of that writer. July 15, 1729. fo. 134.

89. Another printed advertisement respecting the Evesham book, &c. as in art. 87, with a slight variation. fo. 135.

90. Sends Mr. West a present of a large paper copy of the Evesham book. Aug. 5, 1729. fo. 136.

91. That he has not yet seen the rhapsody de re nummaria, nor has any keen appetite to read any thing by the author of it, &c. Aug. 15, 1729. fo. 137.

This is the Mr. Smith mentioned in art. 66 and 76.

92. Enquiries about a copy of Edw. II's wardrobe Account in the hands of Mr. Murray, and about another that Mr. West had mentioned to him.—Desires Mr. West to consult some MSS. in the Cotton library for him, &c. Sept. 22, 1729. fo. 139.

93. Announces the death of his "worthy, virtuous friend Mr. Graves of Mickleton" who died Sept. 18, at the age of 53.—Enquires after the books of Mr. Le Neve lately deceased, whose misfortune, he says, it was to have been always collecting without taking care to digest. Oct. 4, 1729. fo. 141.

94. That the Series Episcoporum was done by Mr. Carte the father, not the son, who had nevertheless published many things, &c. Nov. 4, 1729. fo. 143.

95. Wonders how Mr. Le Neve came to write "in such scraps."—That he died very rich, but that he [Hearne] cared for nothing but his collection of manuscripts which he is desirous of having secured for the publick.—Some particulars of the late Mr. Whiteside. Nov. 22, 1729. fo. 145.

96. More particulars concerning Mr. Whiteside and the manner of his death. Oct. 23, 1726. fo. 147.

97. Some remarks on Mr. Le Neve's will and collections; on Mr. Anderson's plates, and on the catalogue of books belonging to the late Dr. Grey, with whom Hearne corresponded when engaged with his Fordun.—That Lord Oxford had purchased some work by Bale, with the author's own MS. notes, which he had printed in his present work before he knew of the purchase.—Enquiries after Sir William Glyn's manuscripts which he had been informed Mr. West meant to purchase. Dec. 10, 1729. fo. 149.

98. He thinks that as 530*l.* have been given for Mr. Anderson's plates, they are to be published in some way or other.—Sir Wm. Cordell of Long Melford, an eminent man in the time of Elizabeth, and an encourager of Saxton's maps.—That 1000*l.* had been asked for Sir Wm. Glyn's manuscripts. Dec. 25, 1729. fo. 151.

99. A printed advertisement of the publication of Trokelow's Annals of Edw. II., with proposals for printing Cuius Indiciæ. fo. 153.

100. That Sir W. Cordell's arms appear in all the copies of Saxton's maps.—He is informed that Dr. Stratford left part of his books to the libraries of Christ Church and Manchester College, and the rest to Dr. Robert Freind. Jan. 23, 1729. fo. 154.

101. Another printed advertisement of the Annals of Trokelowe, different from Art. 99, with a letter inclosing it, &c. fo. 155.

Num. 778.

102. That the proceedings against A. Wood are just come to his hands.—That Wood's Life contains things of great note, and is what he intended to publish himself.—That Mr. Whiteside's relations had neglected him though such a true friend. Feb. 28, 1729. fo. 157.

103. More on Saxton's maps.—That he has heard some knowing men say that the copies not coloured are preferable to the others.—Some particulars relating to Rastell's Chronicle.—That the age of Rich. III. is not mentioned in any of our published writers, though it appears from William Wyrcester that he was 33. March 24, 1729. fo. 159.

104. Mentions the death of his friend Mr. Thomas Hinton, rector of Lasham in Hampshire, a lover of antiquities and collector of books and manuscripts.—Doubts the genuineness of Mr. Le Neve's epitaph from its oddity.—Announces the death of his old master for the Latin tongue, Mr. Patrick Gordon of Hereford, April 24, 1730. fo. 161.

105. That he had hoped Mr. Le Neve's epitaph was spurious, but is satisfied by Mr. West to the contrary.—That he has not seen Mr. Le Neve's Creed, which he desires may be sent to him.—Some remarks on the Chronicle of the Brute, sometimes called Historia Regia. May 7, 1730. fo. 163.

106. Condoles with Mr. West on the loss of his father, but is glad he has left so good an heir.—Enquires after Bishop Kennett's books; who he hears has made large additions to Gunton's History of Peterborough as if for a new edition, and also to the first edit. of Athen. Oxon. as if he intended to have put out an Athenæ himself. June 17, 1730. fo. 165.

107. Desires Mr. West to send him word when Rastell's Chronicle was printed. July 5, 1730. fo. 167.

108. Some enquiries about Arnold's Chronicle, the second edition of which he [mistakenly] supposes to have been printed by Pynson. June 9, 1730. fo. 169.

This letter has been greatly damaged by fire.

109. That he knows not what to think of an opinion of Mr. West's that Simon Fish was the author of Pierce Plowman.—That perjury is no news now-a-days, when oaths are so little regarded as to be made a jest of, and looked on only as political tricks.—Laments the death of old John Sturt, who he supposes had made curious collections on writing and engraving, as Mr. Bagford had suggested to him.—Enquires about an old scarce book called A Skeltonical Salutation. Aug. 31, 1730. fo. 171.

110. Some enquiries and particulars about Walter Hemyngford's Chronicle. Oct. 15, 1730. fo. 173.

111. More about Hemyngford.—That Mr. Baker of Cambridge wonders why Mr. Anstis should detain his manuscript so long.—That Mr. Willis had lately given a collection of coins to Christ Church. Nov. 10, 1730. fo. 175.

112. Enquiries about the Chronicon Abingdoniense, which includes Walter Hemyngford, on account of the good opinion entertained of him by the Abbey. Nov. 24, 1730. fo. 177.

113. Thanks Mr. West for correcting an error in his preface to Trokelowe, and for his intention of sending the catalogue of books, &c. belonging to Mr. Le Neve, who, he says, was a friendly communicative man.—That when Mr. Willis gave his coins to Christ Church he sent for Mr. Pointer to tell him what they were, and to discover the use of them in history.—Some account of Ducket's Catalogue of Religious Houses, which, he says, has a malicious preface and appendix. Dec. 15, 1730. fo. 179.

114. On Mr. Tyrrel's mistakes about Walter Hemyngford, and the use falsely supposed to have been made by Knighton of that author and of the Chronicon Abendunense; the compiler of which latter work Hearne conceives, with Archb. Parker and Dr. Caius, transcribed from Hemmyngford. Jan. 2, 1730. fo. 181.

115. Some account of Mr. Gray, a barrister at Colchester and a collector of coins and papers relating to monastic affairs.—He wishes that gentleman would write a history of Colchester.—That he learned from Mr. Gray that Mr. Holman of Halstede in Essex, and lately deceased, had large extracts from Domesday relating to that county, supposed to have belonged to Sir Simonds D'Ewes.—That he was a Puritan and a Presbyterian teacher, had many old chartularies and other antiquities, probably also belonging to Sir Simonds D'Ewes.—That he had formerly drawn up some account of the history and antiquities of Essex, but that instead of publishing it, he made money by taking fees of such as came to him for information, of whom there were many; and that the printing of his materials would have spoiled his trade.—That the Hereford Missal is very scarce and was unknown to Bryan Twine.—Desires further information from Mr. West concerning that gentleman's MS. Epistolæ Domini Abbatæ Willelmi de Paraclyto.—Does not know of any MSS. given by Dr. Plot to the Ashmolean Museum; but that his son-in-law Mr. Burman parted with several of them to Harris, when writing the History of Kent, and gave that in quarto on all the counties to Dr. Thorpe of Rochester. Jan. 21, 1730. fo. 184.

116. Further particulars and enquiries respecting Mr. Holman and his manuscripts.—That none of Mr. Selden's private papers, nor his noble collection of law books, came to the Bodleian library.—That Mr. Selden's careless stile indicated him an extempore writer, but that many of his MSS. were so altered as to be scarcely legible. Feb. 6, 1730. fo. 185.

117. A printed advertisement of the publication of Hearne's Caii Vindicia, with proposals for printing Walter Hemmyngford. fo. 186.

118. Wishes to know what articles Mr. West purchased at Le Neve's auction, that he might mark them in the catalogue, as he would those bought by Lord Oxford.—Enquiries about Whethamstede's Chronicle, April 7, 171. fo. 187.

119. Laments the imperfect state of a very rare copy on vellum of the office church-book of Wirtzburg, given him by Mr. New.—That Dr. Tanner had many times assured him he had no more of Wood's Life than what Hearne had printed. May 4, 1731. fo. 189.

120. That he learns that Mr. Le Neve's MSS. for Norfolk and Suffolk are not lodged, as he supposed, in the church of Norwich.—Fears that Wood's Diary is lost, as well as Mr. Wharton's, the latter of which contained matters of great moment and curiosity. May 25, 1731. fo. 191.

121. That a copy of the Saint Alban's edition of Juliana Barnes (if it can be found) is worth any money, and that a fragment of two or three leaves of it as printed by Pynson, given to him by Mr. New, has proved of service.—Further enquiries and particulars relating to Whethamstede.—That Mr. Isham has a copy of the Nuremberg Chronicle to be disposed of for five guineas. 24 June 1731. fo. 193.

122. On the scarcity of Nevyle's Apologia, and on the several editions of his Kettus, but more especially that which contains the offensive passage. July 20, fo. 195.

123. A printed advertisement of the publication of Mr. Hearne's Caii Vindicia, &c. fo. 197.

A slight variation from Article 117.

124. A note inclosing the last article, with particulars of some copies transmitted for the subscribers. March 2, 1730. fo. 198.

Num. 778.

125. Another note on the like subject; and announcing the death of Mr. Shephard, keeper of the Ashmolean Museum. March 6, 1730. fo. 199.

126. He regrets the death of "poor Kit Bateman."—Gives Mr. West joy of acquiring John Blackman's Collectarium.—That our histories are very barren concerning Hen. VI. of whom the Carthusians had a good opinion, notwithstanding the weakness of his title. Aug. 1, 1731. fo. 201.

127. More on Blackman's Vita Henrici VI. [Hearne printed it in his Otterbourne].—He is glad that Hen. VI. was not canonized, he being a weak man, and thinks it strange that Henry VII. should have made the attempt.—Enquires after MSS. in the Cotton library damaged and destroyed. Dec. 6, 1731. fo. 203.

128. That he is much affected with the dismal account he had heard concerning the Cotton library.—That the book containing forty of L. Pembroke's statues had not answered his expectation.—That L. Pembroke has a MS. called Rota Temporum, being a piece of Scottish history, but he supposes it may contain nothing more than what is in Fordun, judging from the passage given from it in Camden, &c. Nov. 23, 1731. fo. 205.

129. Some particulars concerning Whethamstede's Granary de Viris Illustribus.—Desires Mr. West to inspect for him that writer's Registrum de diversis Terris ad Monasterium S. Albani pertinentibus, a MS. in the library of the Royal Society. May 10, 1731. fo. 207.

130. Congratulates Mr. West on having picked up many curiosities at Dr. Brathwaite's auction, but thinks many articles were previously taken away.—That the Doctor delighted in no other books than what related to English history and antiquities.—Some particulars of Dr. Thomas Barlow, neither whose judgment or principles were admired by Hearne. Aug. 25, 1731. fo. 209.

131. Enquires about a printed book relating to Col. James Bridall, and about a Saxon coin of Ludica in Mr. West's collection.—Hears Mr. West is going to France, &c. July 2, 1732. fo. 213.

132. On the coins of Rich. II. and Rich. III. and their differences.—That the late Mr. Graves procured all coins found at or about Campden, having a design of publishing a history of that place. May 17, 1732. fo. 215.

133. That Mr. Graves's design might only relate to the religious houses with which his estates were connected, and that therefore his collections would remain among his family papers.—That Mr. Granger's collection is likely to bring a large sum of money. April 24, 1732. fo. 217.

134. A printed advertisement of the publication of Mr. Hearne's Hemmyngford. fo. 219.

135. A letter inclosing the last article, with thanks for the loan of books. Feb. 29, 1731. fo. 220.

136. That he can get no account of any MS. of John Blackman.—On the losses in books of Archb. Usher and Dr. Tanner.—Some obscure mention of his finding "Grub-street under his door."—On the late edition of Matt. Parker's Antiquitates Britannicæ Ecclesiæ. Jan. 18, 1731. fo. 221.

137. That he had enquired about Sopewell nunnery purely on account of Juliana Barnes, the Prioress.—Further enquiries about Blackman's Life of Hen. VI.—That Dr. Tanner is busy in curing his books that were all sunk with the barge at Benson Lock near Wallingford. Dec. 28, 1731. fo. 223.

138. Rejoices at Mr. West's prospect of inspecting the MSS. of the late Mr. Tyrrel.—That Mr. Tyrrel had prepared a defence of himself against Dr. Hickes, to which he [Hearne] had made several objections.—That English antiquaries ought to attend to the coins of Carausius and Allectus.—Some remarks on Juliana Barnes and her book of Hunting and Hawking.—Lord Orrery's legacy of books to Christ Church. Oct. 7, 1731. fo. 225.

139. More on the coin of Ludica and on Juliana Barnes's book, which he thinks should interest Mr. West as he has part of the lands of Sopewell priory.—That he had seen MSS. of this work, copied by scribes; and that it was from one such copy that the S. Alban's edition was printed, and not, as he conceives from Juliana's own original book which he fears is lost, though it was probably lodged in the library at Sopewell.—That it would be pleasing to him to have an account of Mr. West's travels, which that gentleman had hinted he would leave for a personal conference.—That he had always heard Mr. Granger's collection of coins commended, and did not suppose Mr. West could have equalled him in so short a time. Nov. 15, 1732. fo. 227.

140. That he had supposed Mr. Granger's coins would have brought more money, and is concerned to find that he died deeply in debt. Oct. 28, 1732. fo. 229.

141. Enquires after Richard de Merins, Canon of Saint Austin's order at Merton in Surry. Jan. 1, 1732. fo. 231.

142. Enquires about two ancient inscriptions at S. Alban's, the one on an old urn, the other on the hilt or handle of a sword.—That he had heard Mr. Graves's books had been sold for a trifle.—Understands that Mr. West is busy in digesting Mr. Le Neve's MS. collections for Norfolk, which he hears amount to seventy volumes in folio. June 14, 1733. fo. 233.

143. Mr. Camden's fragment of a MS. History of Dunstable.—Hopes Mr. West will be able, after his return from the circuit, to find time to digest Le Neve's numerous collections.—Thought Mr. West might have helped him to a sight of Mr. Graves's collections, which he hears had been disposed of for a trifle.—Thanks Mr. West for an inscription on a whip handle found at St. Alban's, &c. July 1, 1733. fo. 235.

144. Further enquiries after Richard de Morins.—Desires Mr. West will let him have the particulars of Humphrey Wanley's death.—Wishes to see the catalogue of Mr. Granger's books.—His anxiety about Mr. Baker, whose life he prays for. Feb. 12, 1732. fo. 237.

145. Some notes made by Mr. West on the cover of the last letter, relating to the death and burial of Humphrey Wanley. fo. 238.

146. Desires Mr. West to inspect the MS. History of Eynsham by Mr. Graves, concerning Adam, Abbot of that place. Aug. 30, 1731. fo. 239.

147. A note on the cover of the last letter, by Mr. West, of a medal of Giles Strangways, of Melbury in the county of Dorchester, for which somebody, probably himself, had paid 26*l.* 2*s.* fo. 239.

148. More on the Abbey of Eynsham.—Mr. Drake's York.—That county historians have made too little use of MSS.—Mr. Thoresby's account of his MSS. more valuable than the first part of his book.—That Pausanias had obtained great reputation by inserting accounts of ancient monuments, &c. in his work.—Wishes that Mr. Camden our English Pausanias, after Leland, had always mentioned the MSS. he made use of. Oct. 1, 1733. fo. 241.

149. His concern for the dismal fire at the Duke of Devonshire's.—That he had lately been very merry with Bishop Tanner on various subjects of antiquity.

Num. 778.

—That Stowe had put down Humphrey Dyson among his authors, but that he himself had never met with any thing of his writing. Oct. 30, 1733. fo. 243.

150. More on Humphrey Dyson, many of whose books he had found in the Bodleian library, when he drew up the catalogue.—That he little thought Mr. Mead's library, after excepting the law books, would have brought eleven hundred guineas.—Some anxious enquiries after the authenticity of the boustrophedon inscription in Lord Pembroke's collection, the marble of which he had heard was seen ten years before it came there, without any inscription. Dec. 13, 1733. fo. 245.

151. More on the inscription at L. Pembroke's, the opinion of which he had received from an ingenious man, who "quoted a great man for his authority."—He points out some errors in the Tables of English coins published by the Society of Antiquaries.—Some remarks on Slezer's Theatrum Scotiae. Jan. 8, 1733. fo. 247.

152. Enquiries about the Registers of Kenilworth and Oriel College, in Mr. West's possession. March 12, 1731. fo. 249.

See the index to the present collection.

153. Mentions a new sale of Mr. Granger's coins, and wishes to see the catalogue of them.—His remarks on tradesmen's tokens.—Wonders why people should look on such trash as curiosities.—That it might be more useful to collect the foreign pieces found in the ruins of monasteries. Dec. 14, 1732. fo. 251.

154. A printed advertisement of the publication of Hearne's Otterbourne and Whethamstede, with proposals for printing the Annals of Dunstable. fo. 253.

155. That he had not known of Lord Oxford's giving rings on Mr. Wanley's death, but thought the funeral had been wholly at the widow's expence, she being left in very good circumstances.—Some remarks on the very rare book Gualteri Antiquae Tabulae Siciliae. 1624, 4^o. Feb. 24, 1732. fo. 254.

156. Another printed advertisement concerning Otterbourne and Whethamstede. fo. 255.

A little different from art. 154.

157. The letter inclosing the preceding article, with enquiries about the Annales de Dunstable. March 20, 1732. fo. 256.

158. Further notice of the inscription on the whip-handle at St. Alban's, and enquiries after Gislebertus de Novo Castello, mentioned in it.—A MS. concerning Otho Nicholson's building the conduit at Cairfax.—That old Baskerville of Bayworth, commonly called the King of Jerusalem, used to note down in his Flying history, then in Mr. Murray's possession, many particulars of history, especially little matters, such as ballads, arches of bridges, &c. but that he was a humourist and wanted both learning and judgment. July 19, 1733. fo. 257.

159. On Archb. Sharp's work concerning coins.—That he begins to think the Pembroke inscription spurious.—Some particulars about Dunstable. Feb. 3, 1733. fo. 259.

160. Remarks on boustrophedon inscriptions, and particularly on that in the Pembroke collection, with more objections to its authenticity.—That the owner stated it to have been brought from Persepolis, &c. Feb. 11, 1733. fo. 261.

161. A printed advertisement of the publication of Mr. Hearne's Annales de Dunstable, with proposals for printing Benedictus Abbas. Feb. 26, 1733. fo. 263.

162. The letter inclosing the last article.—Enquiries about the Cotton MSS. of Benedictus Abbas.—That Mr. Wanley had a design of publishing the Annals of Dunstable, and also Benedictus Abbas, which he had transcribed from the Cotton MSS. Feb. 27, 1733. fo. 264.

Num. 778, 779.

163. That Mr. Carte is to publish L. Clarendon's History of his own Life, which he feared had been destroyed.—That Mr. Graves had made considerable progress in the history of several abbies, which was to have been in the manner of Kennett's Parochial Antiquities.—That this work should be continued by one of his sons, or some other person.—That he had heard of strange changes at Bodley, and at the Ashmolean Museum, where they have at last got the head of a college (the President of Trin. Coll.) to be the keeper. Aug. 7, 1732. fo. 265.

164. Some very particular enquiries about a printed but not published book, written by Mr. Gole [Goole, Vicar of Eynsham and Master of Witney school,] which he is very desirous of obtaining.—That Sir John Bois hopes no copies of it will reach Oxford. April 30, 1734. fo. 267.

165. That both his friends, Doctors Mead and Frewin, have prescribed for him in his illness.—Some enquiries about Mr. Ray's list of local words, and its editions. April 2, 1735. fo. 269.

166. An answer to Mr. West's enquiries about Elias Meniati, Bishop of Cephalonia's work on the schism between the Eastern and Western churches. Feb. 10, 1734. fo. 271.

167. Describes a troublesome disorder that had afflicted him. March 9, 1734. fo. 273.

168. Mentions a book intitled The information of the beginning and causes of all our troubles, full of cuts, among which is one of Cheapside Cross, copied in Burton or Crouch's Civil Wars, and odd republican remarks.—Some account of Dr. Gilbert Kymer, physician to Humphrey Duke of Gloucester, an Oxford author unnoticed by Wood. Aug. 28, 1728. fo. 275.

169. That he had heard of some trouble being likely to ensue on Mr. Archdeacon Benson's accepting the bishoprick of Gloucester.—That his compositor had just finished the text of his Benedictus Abbas.—Further account of Meniati Bishop of Cephalonia's work, written in the vulgar Greek, and enquiries after the printed copy. Jan. 13, 1734. fo. 277.

170. That he had been attacked with an epidemical disorder, the particulars of which he describes.—That the Bishop of Cephalonia's work quoted as in Lord Oxford's library, is not there.—Enquiries about Sir Philip Sydenham. Feb. 25, 1734. fo. 279.

171. A printed advertisement of the publication of Mr. Hearne's Benedictus Abbas, with proposals for printing the Chronicle of John Bever, Monk of Westminster, and the Annals of John Merylinch, Monk of Glastonbury, from MSS. in the Harleian library. fo. 281.

These Hearne did not live to publish.

172. The letter which inclosed the last mentioned article to Mr. West, and announced the transmission of his large-paper subscription copy of Benedictus Abbas. May 13, 1735. fo. 282.

Mr. Hearne died on the 10th of June following.

A Volume of Miscellanies, transcribed for the use of Mr. West, containing the following articles:

1. "Archaismus Graphicus, Henrico Spelman milite autore: cui adjungitur verborum contractio clericis

3 A

Num. 785—788.

in curiis forensibus usitata, curante Roberto Dykes. In fine additur verborum in libro Domesday abbreviatio. Sumptibus Jacobi West." fo. 1.

Other copies of this extremely useful work are to be found in many public and private libraries. See Harl. 6353, and the present collection 207 c. The original, in Sir Henry Spelman's own hand-writing, is in the possession of the compiler of this article; from which it appears that Sir Henry drew it up for the use of his sons in 1606. The printing of it with due accuracy and fidelity would be of much benefit in all MS. libraries.

2. "An essay on English money, by John Sharp, S.T.P. Archbishop of York." fo. 69.

See Harl. MS. N° 4119, the original of this work, and Mr. Nares's remarks on it; to which it may be added, that Mr. Nichols printed from a MS. purchased by the late Mr. Gough from Mr. Thoresby's Museum, in 1764; and that Mr. Ives had already published a part of it in his "Select Papers," from a copy obtained from Thoresby by Mr. Le Neve, at whose sale Mr. Ives bought it. A part of it will likewise be found in N° 850 of this collection. The present MS. has several variations, and some additions, worthy of the reader's notice.

3. Tables of the different gold and silver coins minted in each King's reign, from the Conquest to Geo. I. fo. 168.

These have been published by the Society of Antiquaries.

4. "An account of all the gold and silver money which hath been annually coined at the Mint in the Tower of London, commencing the last day of December 1701, and ending the last day of December in each succeeding year." fo. 187.

5. Sundry extracts concerning the city and university of Oxford, from deeds and other manuscripts in the keeping of the Custos Archivorum, and from Brian Twyne's papers in the archives of Corpus Christi College. fo. 197.

786. 4to.

"Gismond of Salern in love." A tragedy in English verse on the story of Tancred and Sigismunda.

This work was printed in 1592, but not till it had been revised and very much altered by Robert Wilmot, one of its authors; of whom, and of the play itself, see Dodsley's Select Collection of Old Plays, vol. ii. edit. 1780. The present manuscript is in the unaltered state.

Num. 792—794.

792. folio.

A Volume containing the following articles:

1. The Emperor Charles Vth's political instructions to his son Philip II. on his resignation of the crown of Spain. fo. 1.

Translated from the Spanish, with a long dedicatory epistle to Queen Elizabeth by the anonymous translator. The whole very neatly written.

2. A treatise intitled "Isdario dell' Arcipelago et altri luoghi particolari. Di Francesco Lupazolo. Nel qual si vede il lore nome antico et moderno, modo di vivere, il numero delli populi habbito delle donne, et le antichità, si come altre cose particolare fuor dell' Isole, fatto l'anno del S. 1638, in Scio." fo. 56.

This work is accompanied with maps of the several islands, and figures of the dresses of their inhabitants, neatly, but not skilfully, drawn with pen and ink. It is imperfect at the end.

4. A brief description of the Canary Islands, written about the reign of King James I. fo. 97.

5. Inventories of the cargoes of divers ships bound from Constantinople to Venice, 1596. fo. 103. (In Italian.)

6. A tract intitled "Placat of the high and mighty Lords the States Generall of the United Provinces; containing a strict prohibition to the inhabitants of those countrys, and also orders touching the navigation and commerce of neuters to the ports of France and England, and likewise the goods of counterhande, and the instruments of ships and commodities belonging to the subjects of the Kings of [France] and Great Britain." fo. 126.

793. small folio.

The History of King Boccus and Sydracke the philosopher. Translated from the French into English rhyme by Hugh of Caumpeden.

This is a MS. of the fifteenth century fairly written on vellum; but the last five leaves have been much injured by damp. For some account of this work consult Mr. Warton's Hist. of English Poetry, vol. i. 143, vol. ii. 101, and the Athenæum, vol. i. 493. The MSS. of it are not very uncommon in French, but the present and the Sloane 2332 are the only English copies in the Brit. Museum. Mr. Warton mentions one in the Bodleian library, with a different beginning, according with the very rare printed copy. This begins

"Fadir and sone and holy goost

As thou art Lord of mightes moost."

It has not the concluding lines in the printed copy which points out the translator's name, of whom nothing seems recorded; for Bale only knew him in the booksellers' shops. Robert Wakefelde, whose name occurs at the end of the Sloane copy, was only the transcriber of the MS. and probably the learned chaplain of King Henry VIII.

794. folio.

"The Image of Ypocresye." A poem in four parts by John Skelton, poet laureat. Written on paper in the reign of King Henry VIII.

This is in all probability the author's own MS. of a work never printed. It belonged to Peter Le Neve, Esq. Norroy, at whose sale it was purchased by Mr.

Num. 794—796.

West. Thomas Martin of Palgrave was permitted to make a copy of it, which fell into the hands of the late Dr. Farmer of Cambridge, and is now in the possession of Richard Heber, Esq. of Hodnett in Shropshire. It seems to want the beginning, though this cannot easily be ascertained; for the first page has not only suffered much from time, but Mr. Le Neve has written several memorandums upon it, and covered some part of the original hand-writing. Mr. Hearne made great use of this MS. in his Glossary to Peter Langtoft's Chronicle, where there are some extracts from it. See particularly under the word "wroken," p. 684. See likewise N^o 778 of this collection, art. 5.

795. small folio.

A Volume containing the following articles:

1. A collection of charms, conjurations, and exorcisms, in Latin; probably extracted from the Flagellum Dæmonum or some such work, by some person in the seventeenth or eighteenth century. fo. 4.

2. "Vita de Gio. Gastone primo e settimo Gran Duca, figlio di Cosimo terzo de Medici, Gran Duca di Toscana." fo. 30.

3. "Relatione del Governo del Regno di Napoli." fo. 86.

4. A collection of Italian Sonnets, written by various persons in memory of the Marquis Gabrielli who died at Rome about the year 1750. At fo. 119 is a Latin epigram, "Ad tumulum lectissimæ feminæ Catherinæ Trotti Gabrielli." fo. 106.

796. folio.

A very thin book consisting of seven leaves only, written at the end of the fifteenth century; it contains the following articles;

1. A miserable poem, in stanzas of four lines, in praise of English woollen manufactures, and recommending that they be kept out of the enemy's hands. Prefixed is this Latin motto, "Anglia propter tuas naves et lanas omnia regna te salutare deberent." Beg. "Goo forth lybell and mekly shew thy face." It concludes with the following stanza,

"Here endyth the boke of Ynglyssh polysye,
That may cause all the worlde yt to obeye;
Ther may no man denye but that it ys soth, Ffor every man must have met drynk and cloth."

fo. 1 b.

2. "The syse of a millare." fo. 4 b.

3. "The syse of a baker." fo. 4 b.

4. "The syse of an ale-breware." fo. 5.

He is enjoyned not to sell his ale till he have sent for the ale-taster to see that it be good "and abill for mannys body," and for every offence he is to be amerced sixpence. For general breach of the assize regulations he is to be adjudged, for the third offence, to the "cukkyng stole," and afterwards to the pillory.

5. "The syse of a ffyshare." fo. 5.

6. "The syse of a bochare." fo. 5.

7. "The syse of a cooke." fo. 5 b.

8. "The syse of an inholder."

797. folio.

The School Exercises in Logick of one John Cole, chiefly compiled from Keckermanni Systema Logices, Fonseca, Scotus, Sanderson, Zabarella, Regius, Javelinus, Byerwood and Toletus.

798. folio.

A miscellaneous Volume containing the following articles:

1. The answers to Sir John Davyes his booke off impositions." fo. 1.
2. Arguments proving the King's Majesties proprietie in the sea-lands and salt-shoares thereof; and that no subject can lawfully hold any part thereof but by the King's graunt. fo. 70.
3. Keymer's booke of observations for your most excellent Majestie, touching trade and traffique beyond the seas, and in England, wherein hee certainly findeth that your sea and land commodities doe serve to enrich and strengthen other countries againste your kingdome, which were the urgent causes why hee endeavoured himselfe to take extraordinarie paines for the redresse: soe it may stand with your Majesties good liking. fo. 78.

See N° 216, art. 6, and N° 811, art. 2. It has been printed.

4. "A treatise approveinge the monarchy government of this kingdom from the Saxons" fo. 106.
5. "Extracts out of the records, wherein may be collected by what meanes the Kings of England have and may raise moneys."

These are said, but on doubtful authority, to have been made by Mr. Agarde.

6. An analytical table shewing how the Kings of England have supported and repaired their estates. fo. 182.

799. 4to.

"In hoc libro continetur abbreviatio sive brevis recapitulatio tractatum de matrimonii pace, bello, treugis, intercurso seu commercio, et prestacione pecunie inter Reges Anglie et Imperatorem Romanum, Reges Francie et Castilie; et Ducibus Geldrie, Burgundie et Britanie; que omnia missa sunt in pixides seu scrinia vocata drawing Tille, quibus affilantur in pergameno tempora Regum et nomina Nacionum. On the cover is stamped "Leagues," and Mr. Agard's motto "Dieu ma garde," with a bugle horn. These treaties extend from 1286 to 1551.

800. folio.

A critical, historical, and descriptive Catalogue, in English, of a collection of Roman medals in large, middle, and small brass, formerly belonging to the Ercolani family, an ancient senatorial house at Bologna; published by some Englishman in his travels, and again offered by him for sale. It contains some useful remarks.

801. folio.

"Brief memoires relating to the silver and gold coins of England, with an account of the corruption of the hammer'd monys, and of the reform by the late grand coynage at the Tower, and the five country mints, in the years 1696, 1697, 1698, and 1699." By Hopton Haynes, Esq. Assay Master of the Mint, 1700.

This valuable work seems to have been intended for publication by its author. It passed into the hands of his son, the Rev. Hopton Haynes, and afterwards became the property of Mr. West. The following are its contents or divisions:

1. General observations of the ancient state and use of money in commerce. fo. 1.
2. A brief account of the ancient coins of England, and the several alterations in their species, weight, and standard. fo. 10.
3. Tables of the silver coins from 28 Edw. I. to the present Queen. fo. 43.
4. Tables of the gold coins from 18 Edw. III. to the present Queen. fo. 51.
5. Remarks on the foregoing tables. fo. 59.
6. Account of the debasing the hammered silver money by clipping. fo. 75.
7. Account of the provisions in parliament to remedy the ill state of the coin, 1694 and 1695. fo. 96.
8. State of the royal mint in the Tower, when the grand coinage began, 1695. fo. 125.
9. Account of the clipt money melted down at the Exchequer, and recoined into milled money at the Tower, pursuant to the first act for remedying the ill state of the coin. fo. 147.
10. A general account of the new milled monies coined at the six mints pursuant to the first act for remedying the ill state of the coin, and for encouraging the bringing of plate to the mint to be coined. fo. 147.
11. Proceedings in parliament about the coin in the winter sessions, 1696, 1697, 1698. fo. 149.
12. Of the five country mints. fo. 179.
13. Account of gold and silver coined yearly from the Restoration 1660 to the year 1700 included. fo. 193.
14. An appendix, wherein the principal reasons for an alteration of the standard of the silver monies are briefly considered and refuted. fo. 203.

802, 803. folio.

Two Volumes, being part of a critical and descriptive Catalogue of Drawings, chiefly of the Italian School, and formerly belonging to Padre Resta, an eminent collector.

Num. 803—805.

There is some reason for supposing that this collection passed into the hands of Elias Ashmole, Esq. who has transcribed the present volumes, and occasionally inserted some fragments of the original catalogue, written by the Padre himself in Italian.

The first volume contains an account of only a part of the collection, the description of which seems to have filled several volumes. It is interspersed with a great number of historical remarks on the different masters, chiefly compiled, especially from Vasari, but containing nevertheless many original anecdotes that may be found extremely useful. There is also a vindication of the Bolognese School against Vasari; and at fo. 261, copies of two letters from Annibale to Ludovico Caracci. To each volume of the collection of drawings the original owner had prefixed a very quaint and fanciful title, which might induce some persons to believe that he was a little deranged in his understanding.

The second volume contains "An alphabetical catalogue of the Painters in the collection, with the drawings of each respective master, referring to the several books in which they are placed;" with "A chronological view of the Painters" from the year 1200 to 1670. Qu. whether the rest of these volumes, with the drawings themselves, be remaining in the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford?

804. folio.

A miscellaneous Volume formerly belonging to Mr. Powle. It contains:

1. A calendar of the Rotuli Escaetorum from Edw. I. to Edw. IV. fo. 1.
2. A copy of the King's mandate to the Mayor of Kingston-upon-Hull, for the restitution of a Flemish fishing vessel taken off the coast of Scarborough. From the office of the Clerk of the Pells. No year mentioned. fo. 49.
3. The names of all such persons as have contracted by indenture to serve the Kings of England in their wars from the time of Edw. III. to the end of the reign of Hen. VII. alphabetically. Collected from indentures in the custody of the Clerk of the Pells, by Edward Pagett. fo. 51.
4. "Nomina Bannaratorum tempore Edwardi Tertii." fo. 92.
5. A copy of a letter from Edw. IV. to the Magistrates of Dunkirk, desiring the release of some Frenchmen who had been captured by the Flemings off the Isle of Wight. Oct. 12, 1477. fo. 93.
6. "Instruction des principaulx points de l'art militaire tant par mer que par terre, ensemble ce que fault pour ravitaillement de gens despenche de l'artillerie pouldres et boulets y servans, faict et compose par l'excellent et noble prince Monseigneur le Duc Philippes de Cleves, Seigneur de Ravestain, et par luy presente et donne au tres illustre tres hault et tres puissant Prince Charles, cinquiesme de ce nom, Empereur des Romains, Roy de Germanye et des Espaignes, &c. Et dont icelluy sa Mageste a use jusques maintenant cet mesmes le baille a ses tres chers jeunes princes, nepveux et autres." fo. 97.

805. folio.

A Volume formerly belonging to Mr. Le Neve, except the last article, which has been since added. It contains the following pieces:

1. Valuation of divers manors and dissolved monasteries, extracted from the originals in the Chancery, from the 27th to the 31st year of Hen. VIII. fo. 1.

Num. 805, 806.

2. The verdict and answer of the jurors to certain articles of enquiry concerning the manor of Berkhamstead in the county of Herts, 22 Oct. 1616, containing a very particular account of the names of all the tenants, and the nature of their tenures, &c. fo. 25.

The last leaf is mutilated at bottom.

3. "Coronis. A clozing ode or canzon roiall, crowning the name and memory of King James with immortality of renown. The verse consists of seven syllables. The poem itself is divided into stops or pauses, not unlike therein to the odes of Pindarus, the prince of Græcian lyricks. Dedicated to his most excellent sonn, our Sovereigne Lord, King Charles." fo. 65.

4. "The accompt of John Clotterbooke, Esq. Commissioner appointed, under His Majesties great seale, for collecting and receiving the moneys arising by the voluntary subscriptions of the peeres, and of all peeresses and widdowes of all peeres, by vertue of an act of parliament A° xiii Car. II. Regis, intituled, An act for a free and voluntary present to His Majesty." Written on eight leaves of vellum. The sums subscribed are from 50l. to 400l. fo. 69.

5. "The case of the King and kingdom stated." Addressed to the Duke of Buckingham, 15 Sept. 1662. fo. 77.

A bold and masterly production.

6. A biographical and highly sarcastical list of the members of the English parliament in the time of King Charles the Second; pointedly describing those persons who were influenced by bribery and corruption. The following may serve as specimens:

"Charles Lord Buckhurst (member for Sussex)—who with a good will parted with his Play wench, and in gratitude is made one of the Bed-chamber; has the ground of the Wardrobe given him, and 6000l. at three several times."

"Stephen Fox (member for Wilts), once a link-boy, then a singing boy at Salisbury, then a serving man, and permitting his wife to be common beyond sea at the Restauration, was made paymaster to the Guards, where he has cheated 100,000l. and is one of the green-cloth."

"Henry Clerk (member for Wilts) hath had a lick at the bribe-pot."

7. "A treatise on logic on the principles of the best authors, antient and modern, in a new method."

806. folio.

A miscellaneous Volume, containing the following articles:

1. A petition, treatise, and memorial against imprisonment for debt, intituled "The humble petition of the distressed prisoners for debt, in the several prisons of England. Wherein is declared the mischiefs and inconveniences arising to the King and Commonwealth, by the imprisoning of mens bodies for debt." Addressed to King James I. fo. 1.

2. A copy of a letter from Sir Walter Raleigh to King James I., accompanied by a Treatise in the form of a dialogue between a Counsellor of State and a Justice of Peace, on the calling of parliament, on aids, and on other parliamentary matters. fo. 28.

It has been printed under the title of "The Prerogative of Parliaments in England. Middleburg 1628. 4to," and in his "Remains."

3. Sir John Burrough's "Soveraignty of the seas of England proved by record, &c." fo. 40.

It was printed 1651 and 1729.

3 B

Num. 806, 807.

4. Sir John Dodridge's "Discourse of the antient and moderne estate of the Principallitie of Wales, Duchie of Cornwall, and Earledome of Chester, collected out of the records of the Tower of London," &c. fo. 67.

Printed 1630 and 1714.

5. "Certayne advertysements or instructions very necessary for every one of the Prynces pryvy Counsell to be pryvy unto concerning Her Majesties revenewes." fo. 195.

6. "Extracts out of the records, wherein may bee collected by what meanes the Kings of England have and may raise moneys. Written by S^r R. C. [Robert Cotton] Knight and Baronett." fo. 203.

It is printed in "Cotton's Posthuma."

7. "A politique dispute aboute the happiest mariag for the noble Prince Charles." fo. 263.

8. Attorney-general Noy's treatise how the King may support and increase his annual revenues, collected from the Tower records. 1634. fo. 268.

This was printed in 1715.

9. A duplicate of art. 4. (Dodridge on the Principality of Wales, &c.) with a table of contents, intituled "Abstracts and advertisements concerninge the contents of this discourse." fo. 301.

10. A copy of the deed of settlement of the Queen's jointure, July 11th, 1629. fo. 333.

11. "An abstract of fees and other allowances to keepers of houses, gardens, &c. and also of forests, parks, game and chases, payable out of the receipt of Exchequer per annum;" temp. Jac. I. fo. 372.

807. folio.

A Volume, formerly belonging to John Warburton, Esq. Somerset Herald, containing the following plays;

1. "The Queene of Corsica, a tragædy, written by Fran. Jaques, anno Dom' 1642." fo. 1.

2. "The second Mayden's tragedy." fo. 28.

At the end of this play is the original licence by the Master of the Revels, for its performance, in the following words; "This second Mayden's tragedy (for it hath no name inscribed) may, with the reformations, bee acted publickly. 31 Octob^r 1611. G. Buc." After the licence was written, some person has indorsed on the back of the last leaf this title, "The second Mayden's Tragedy, October 31st 1611. By Thomas" The name that followed has been so carefully obliterated with a pen and ink as to render it almost impossible to ascertain what it was; but a conjecture has been formed that it was "Goff." The person who endeavoured to cancel this name has substituted that of "George Chapman," which in its turn has been struck through with a pen that in its progress has added to the former mischief, and introduced, without the least foundation, the words "By William Shakspeare." The judicious editor, therefore, of Baker's Biographia Dramatica seems to have had very good reason for believing that the piece was not the composition of Goff or Chapman; and he might well have added, "or Shakspeare." A specimen of this play is given in the above-mentioned work, where it is also very correctly stated that the two plots of which it consists are borrowed from the story of The curious Impertinent, in Don Quixote, and from Camoens's Lusiad.

3. "The Buggbears." fo. 56.

This title, which, however, is sufficiently appropriate, has been added long after the play was written, which appears to have been in the time of Queen Elizabeth, when it was translated from some Italian comedy not hitherto traced, but certainly not from the Fantasma of Bentivoglio. The editor of the Biographia Dramatica is mistaken in stating "John Jeffere" as the translator; for he was only the subsequent owner of the manuscript. The whole is written in a long, irregular, and prosaic metre, intended as lines of twelve syllables. At the end are some songs, partly set to musick, of which the following is a specimen:

Num. 807.

"The Song for Piccinino.

Cor^s.

With clattryng, with battryng, with pattryng, with

A sprityng, &c."

This play has sustained the loss of more than half a leaf, being part of the second act.

4. A fragment, beginning with Act III. Sc. 4, of Dr. Robert Wild's comedy of The Benefice.

This was probably the author's copy, his name occurring at the end of it.

On the back of the first leaf of this volume, the contents of which are all that remained of a most valuable collection of old manuscript plays made by Mr. Warburton, and most unfortunately destroyed by the ignorance of his servant, he has fastened a slip of paper on which is written the following list of them;

809. folio.

A Volume containing,

1. A Chinese and English vocabulary. fo. 1.
2. "Historical account of the revolt of the Chactaw Indians in the late war, from the French to the British alliance, and of their return since to that of the French; in which are contained the publick and private measures pursued on that occasion in the Province of South Carolina, and wherein the respective services of the several persons claiming the merit of effecting that revolt are placed in their proper light, and the true causes shewn of each event." 1753. fo. 45.

810. folio.

A Volume containing,

1. "A schedule of the writings and records now in the custody of Mr. Carrington, mostly in the old French tongue, which were saved out of the fire at Whitehall, and are of the several reigns following, viz. Hen. III.; Edw. I., II., III.; Rich. II.; Hen. IV., V., VI.; Edw. IV.; Rich. III.; Hen. VII., VIII.; Queen Eliz.; James I.; Charles I., II.; Oliver Cromwell; James II.; William III." fo. 1.

Most of these had been formerly sorted and bundled up in strong parchment rolls, and endorsed "Brevia de privato sigillo."

2. "An essay on the improvement of the Revenue of the State of Athens; from the Greek of Xenophon: to which is prefix'd some account of his life from the Latin of Leunclavius: with elucidatory notes and observations, selected from divers approved authors, and now first accomodated to the several passages of this treatise, by J. G. 1753." fo. 51.

The author of this translation was the Rev. Joseph Greene, of Stratford upon Avon.

3. A letter from the Rev. Joseph Greene, to James West, Esquire, expressing his gratitude for favours received; with an account of some coal works at Goldicott, Oct. 7, 1761. fo. 63.

4. Another letter from Mr. Greene to Mr. West, inclosing the copy of a curious letter from Thomas Cartwright the Puritan to his relation Michael Hicks, one of Lord Burghley's secretaries, who had desired Cartwright to send him a form of prayer for his private use. June 29, 1762. fo. 65.

Mr. Greene thus sensibly comments on the stile of the Puritans; "This designing people retain enough of their spiritual gallimawfry to tickle the ears of their common auditors, who with a true Mahometan genius have little relish for any doctrine which does not either excite ideas of good eating and drinking, or that is not well larded with more amorous expressions than can be pick'd out of the Canticles." The original letter may be seen in N^o 79 of this collection art. 71.

5. A copy of the endowment and disposition of the tithes, &c. of the vicarage of Claverdon in Warwickshire. Dec. 4, 1474. fo. 68.

812. folio.

An office copy of a Decree made on further directions by the Court of Chancery relating to the free Charity School at Heyford in Northamptonshire, Nov. 26, 1679; with copies of other papers relative to a dispute between the trustees and master of the school, including the will of the founder William Bliss,

813. folio.

"A dutifull defence of the lawfull regiment of weomen devided into three books; The first conteyneth reasons and examples grounded on the lawe of nature. The second reasons and examples grownded on the civile lawes. The third reasons and examples grounded on the sacred lawes of God, with an awnswer to all false and frivolous objections which have bene most unjustlie countenaunced with deceitfull couleres forced out of their lawes in disgrace of their approved and sufficient auctoritie."

This work was written by Henry Howard Earl of Northampton, and is dedicated to Queen Elizabeth, the dedication being signed by the Earl himself. It is a presentation copy to Cary Lord Hunsdon, whose arms are blazoned on the back of the title, and to whom the Earl has addressed some affectionate Latin lines in his own hand writing.

It is necessary to observe that there are other copies extant of the dedication to the Queen, with a different title from that given above; which has naturally led to a supposition that it was a complete work. See the Catalogue of Harl. MSS. N^o 7021. 11. and the much improved and excellent edition of Lord Orford's Catalogue of the Royal and Noble Authors of England, &c., by Mr. Park, 1806. vol. ii. It is at present doubtful whether so complete a copy of Lord Howard's work as that here described is any where to be found.

Num. 814.

814. folio.

A Volume of letters written by divers persons, and other miscellaneous papers: viz.

1. Mr. Strype to Sir Edward Smith of Hill Hall in Essex, Bart. giving an account of what he had done for the Life of his ancestor Sir Thomas Smith, with some additional particulars of his History; and that he had thought fit to dedicate the work to Sir Edward, &c. No date. This is Strype's rough draught of his letter. fo. 1.
2. Mr. Strype to Mr. Archdeacon Knightsbridge, that no further proceedings might be had against one of his parishioners for non-payment of dues, &c. Low Leyton, May 13, 1704; with some notes at the bottom in short hand. fo. 5.
3. Mr. Strype to some unnamed person, concerning Mrs. Welshes Exchequer debt. No date. fo. 7.
4. Three letters from Mr. Jos. Blake to Mr. Strype, on the subject of Mrs. Welsh or Walsh's debt. fo. 8.
5. Two letters from J. Crawforth, a tradesman, to Mr. Strype, stating his conditions of marriage with his daughter Susan Strype, which were 400*l.* down, and 60*l.* for the first child, &c. 1710. fo. 12.
6. Sir George Ludlam to Mr. Strype, with an account of the relations of some Lord Mayors. July 6, 1719. fo. 14.
7. Mr. Fisher Tench, a magistrate, to Mr. Strype, recommending him to settle some dispute with a Mrs. Reson about wages, &c. fo. 15.
8. Another letter from Mr. Tench on the same subject, and complaining in very sharp terms of Mr. Strype's conduct towards himself and the other parties. fo. 17.
9. Some receipts, in Dutch, from Mr. David Bonnel, to Mr. Strype for silk. fo. 18.
10. Samuel Bonnel's account current with Mr. Strype. Leghorn, June 1648. fo. 21.
11. An original certificate, signed by some inhabitants of Low Leyton in favour of Mr. Strype their minister, and recommending him in particular to the Mercers' Company. Dec. 18. 1677. fo. 23.
12. An original bond of 100*l.* from Mr. Strype to Sir John Cotton, Bart. for the restoration of a MS., Titus, B II. borrowed from his library, May 19, 1697. fo. 24.
13. Another bond of 200*l.* between the same parties, on the loan of two other MSS., Jul. F. vi. & Vitell. F. v. March 29, 1697. fo. 25.
14. Some account of benefactions to the parish of Stepney, by Josiah Woodward the minister, seemingly in a letter addressed to Mr. Strype, Sept. 20, 1705. fo. 26.
15. A receipt given by Mr. Strype and the churchwarden of Low Layton to Sir Gilbert, for 5*l.* paid for the use of a pew for his servants, Nov. 3. 1713. fo. 29.
16. Copies of a decree and report in Chancery concerning the establishment of the free school at Low Layton, in pursuance of the will of Robert Ozeler, and also a copy of his will made Feb. 3, 1697. fo. 30.
17. Mr. Strype's statement of the value of the vicarage of Low Leighton, in the deanery of Barking in Essex, amounting to 33*l.* 12*s.* per annum. fo. 33.
18. A summons to Mr. Strype to attend as a witness in a commission of lunacy granted against Sir Wm. Hicks, Bart. of Ruckholts in Essex, Feb. 6, 1699. fo. 35.
19. A letter from Antony Barnes to Mr. Lyches, obscurely referring to some bargain for an estate, &c. Oct. 3, 1601. fo. 38.
20. Mrs. Julyan Penn to Antony Barnes, soliciting the loan of a sum of money for a friend, and trusting, if he will lend it, to meet him and his good wife in Abraham's bosom, the reward of doing good. fo. 40.

Num. 814.

21. Edward Suliarde to Mr. Michael Hicks, giving him an account of Lister Hall, Decem. 7, 1600. fo. 42.

22. "A letter from Sir Thomas Bodley, sometime Queen Elizabeth's agent in Holland, to a great Privy Counsellor, concerning England and the States General, their entring upon a treaty of peace with Philip King of Spain. Published as a seasonable caution at this juncture, now a treaty is in hand with France." Copied by Mr. Strype. fo. 44.

23. Jacobus Hippernus to Martin Luther, in Latin, giving an account of the cruel burning, at Meldorf, of one Henry a minister of God's word, 1525. fo. 46.

This a copy in the hand-writing of John Fox the martyrologist.

24. An unsigned letter to some sheriff, not named, concerning sheriffs' fees and expenses, Jan'y 20, 1695. fo. 48.

25. A copy of a long expostulatory letter from Lord Clarendon to his daughter Anne Duchess of York, on a report that had reached him of her having deserted the Protestant for the Roman Catholic religion. fo. 50.

26. An original letter from Dr. Cosins to Mr. P. Gunning, concerning the ordination of the presbytery, &c. May 26, 1627. fo. 56.

An indorsement by Mr. Baker of Cambridge, supposes the date to be intended for 1657.

27. Copy of a letter from Mr. Secretary Craggs to Mr. Davenant, respecting a duty of half primage on goods to be raised by contribution on the British factory at Genoa, for defraying their incident charges; and inclosing a report, of which a copy also follows, of the Board of Trade thereon. Nov. 14, 1718. fo. 57.

28. A copy of a letter from Humphrey Wanley to the Honourable Sam. Pepys, Esq. at Clapham; with a critical account of a work by Mr. Ross, supposed to be translated from another by Mons. De la Seine, a doctor of the Sorbonne, Oct. 12, 1702. fo. 61.

This copy was made from the original annexed to Ross's book now at Magdalen College Cambridge.

29. A copy of a letter from Dr. Tanner to the Rev. William Holman of Halsted in Essex; with various enquiries about matters of antiquity. Oct. 14, 1714. fo. 63.

30. A copy of a letter from Peter Le Neve Norroy to Mr. Holman, on various matters. Objects to being called "clarissimus," on the absurdity of which title, as applied to antiquaries, Sir Richard Steele had animadverted in the Spectator. June 16, 1719. fo. 64.

31. A copy of a letter [perhaps to Mr. Holman] from Humphrey Wanley, in answer to various questions about Waltham, as mentioned in Domesday book and old charters. June 11, 1722. fo. 65.

32. A copy of a letter from the Rev. Wm. Derham to Mr. Holman, with thanks for his account of Upminster, from Domesday book, &c. July 25, 1720. fo. 67.

33. A copy of a letter from Mr. Derham to Mr. Holman, with thanks for the trouble he had taken about his pedigree. Wishes he had had the use of Mr. Wilkinson's papers, which fell into the hands of his son-in-law Mr. Salisbury, who suffered death for forging stamps, &c. Decem. 5, 1721. fo. 67.

34. A copy of a letter from Mr. Alexander to Mr. Holman; that he had taken much pains in collecting pedigrees of families near Ongar in Essex. Some particulars of his manor of Spaynes Hall at Finchingfield, &c. May 24, 1722. fo. 69.

35. A copy of a letter from Mr. Alexander to Mr. Holman, on various matters relating to Essex. fo. 69.

36. A copy of a letter from Mr. Thomas Baker of

Num. 814.

St. John's College, to Mr. Holman; that he is ready to serve him in his collections for Essex, with some particulars of Essex persons and places. fo. 71.

37. A copy of a letter from Mr. Baker to Mr. Holman, about Essex men who have been members of St. John's College. Nov. 2. fo. 72.

38. A copy of a letter from Mr. S. Dale to Mr. Holman, answering queries about coats of arms and Roman coins. April 30, 1724. fo. 73.

39. A copy of a letter from Mr. S. Dale to Mr. Holman, with particulars of the Clopton family, &c. Nov. 18, 1724. fo. 73.

40. A copy of a letter from Mr. Anstis to Mr. Holman, on various heraldical matters. Tells him, as a secret, that in an old tract intitled "Genealogia de Harley," one of the family is stiled "fatuus." fo. 75.

41. A copy of a letter from Mr. Anstis to Mr. Holman, that he had prepared for publication a treatise written by himself, in Latin, on the opinions of lawyers about proofs of a pedigree, on consanguinity, &c. That notwithstanding his title to the office of Garter is as legal as any grant of the Crown can confer, he had met with all the opposition that interest, railing, envy, and little artifices could invent, all which he contemned, and had ordered his right to be asserted by an action against Stebbing for invading one branch of his office. That till his controversy with Stebbing be determined he dares not frank, though letters come to him so. That Sir H. St. George gave his books to his executor Serjeant Bridges, and that he will endeavour to procure Mr. Holman a sight of Strangeman's collections, should the Serjeant admit him to his favour, &c. fo. 76.

42. Copies of two letters from Tho. Sebright to Mr. Holman, with materials for the history of his family for the Essex collections. March 24, 1722-3. fo. 77.

43. Copies of two letters from James Green of the Herald's College, to Mr. Holman, about Essex families. 1723. fo. 81.

44. Copy of a letter from Dr. Prideaux to Mr. Holman, with some account of his family. Feb. 25, 1720-1. fo. 81 b.

45. Divers extracts from acts of parliament for naturalizing aliens, &c. with remarks. fo. 83.

46. Copies of three letters from Mr. N. Jekyll to Mr. Holman, on making vitriol; on a foolish book by Bishop Comber about Adam and Eve's navels, which [book] he says came of "feeding high"; on the ancient artificial mount at Mount Buaers, &c. 1728. fo. 85.

47. A specimen of Humphrey Wanley's Catalogue of the Harl. MSS. being a description of N° 306 in the present Harl. Catalogue; very beautifully written by Wanley himself. fo. 87.

48. A list of foreign Catholick prayer-books; liturgical books of foreign Protestants, Bibles, Testaments, &c. in foreign languages; Popish primers and other prayer-books for the English nation; prayer-books by Reformers or Protestants of the Church of England; and Dissenters' books; probably forming a part of the collection of printed books belonging to Lord Harley; drawn up by Humphrey Wanley. fo. 88.

See art. 51.

49. Some proposals for the better custody and regulation of the Bodleian Library, drawn up and submitted to the Curators by some former librarian. fo. 92.

50. A fragment of a letter from Nathaniel the father of Humphrey Wanley, to a nobleman, on painting, musick, &c. 1701. fo. 102.

51. A continuation of article 48, being Humphrey Wanley's further account of printed books in Lord Oxford's library. It contains primers and other prayerbooks; Dissenters' books; prayer-books of foreign Catholicks; English Bibles and Testaments; Concordances, Expositions, and other biblical articles; books of foreign Protestants; with a few notes of some particular MSS. belonging to Lord Oxford. fo. 104.

Num. 814—816.

52. A catalogue of "Mr. Wanley's collection of Bibles, Testaments, Prayers, Psalters, fragments of the Old Testament, history of the Bible, Solomon's Song or Phrase Song in verse, Fisher's Penitential Psalms, now in the library of St. Paul's, London." fo. 114.

This is not in Humphrey Wanley's hand-writing, and the collection might therefore have belonged to his father Nathaniel.

On the back of this article is a copy of a letter or certificate addressed by Sir Roger L'Estrange to some unnamed person, expressing his grief at the change of his daughter's religion; and solemnly protesting that as he had been brought up in the faith of the Church of England, he would continue in the same to the end of his life. Feb. 16, 1702-3.

53. Humphrey Wanley's list of original letters preserved in the Harleian collection, and purchased of himself and Mr. George Paul. fo. 116.

54. A translation, by Humphrey Wanley, of part of one of Cicero's familiar epistles (book ix. chap. 22.), with a singular marginal comment. fo. 118.

55. A specimen of the affinity of the Saxon with the present English language; extracted from Sir Thomas Browne's miscellaneous tracts by Humphrey Wanley, who at the bottom of the leaf has written the Lord's Prayer twice within the compass of a shilling. July 30, 1691. fo. 120.

56. A printed petition of the Trustees of the Cotton Library to Parliament, for various purposes. It is indorsed "not now to be presented." fo. 121.

57. Notes by Humphrey Wanley of charters, &c. in the Harleian library, that relate to the counties of Herefordshire, Northamptonshire, Cambridgeshire, and Essex; and also to Scotland, Wales, and Ireland. fo. 123.

815. folio.

An essay towards a classed catalogue of the Harleian manuscripts, by Humphrey Wanley; which, though it be unfinished and necessarily imperfect, may be found of great use as to some particular subjects. At the end is an index of the classes.

816. folio.

"Librorum impressorum, quos Wympoliæ, in agro Cantabrigiensi, tenet vir illustrissimus Edwardus Dominus de Harley, Catalogus brevior."

This catalogue, consisting of 7040 articles, arranged numerically, with the press and shelf marks, was completed the 14th June 1717, by the learned and industrious librarian Humphrey Wanley. As there is no index to that which was afterwards published by Osborne the bookseller, who purchased the noble collection of printed books made by Lord Oxford, Mr. Wanley's index to the present volume may be of use to bibliographers; and his critical account of English Bibles will be found extremely curious and interesting. Mr. Lewis, in his History of the English Translations of the Bible, had certainly made use of this catalogue, although he has not expressly quoted it.

Num. 817.

817. folio.

A Volume containing the following miscellaneous articles :

1. "Observations on the late Scotch proclamation." fo. 2.

This was some proclamation issued by King James II. in favour of the Papists, which is here animadverted on with considerable vigour of style and freedom of opinion; and the words "absolute power" frequently repeated in the proclamation, more particularly attacked and censured.

2. "A discourse of the late trouble hapned in Scotlande betwene the moste noble and mightye prynce Marye, by the grace of God Queene of Scotlande, and her husband Henrye the Kinge, with the others Earles, Lordes, Barrons, Gentlemen, Freeholders, Marchants, and Craftesmen on their parte, the ninthe daye of Marche, A° 1566." fo. 6.

This paper is in a contemporary hand-writing, and was sent, probably by Randolph, to Sir Nicholas Throckmorton. It is a duplicate of article 25 in N° 9 of the Burghley Papers at the head of this collection.

3. An elaborate treatise intituled "The state of matters between the Kingdoms of England and France, &c." enlarging more particularly on the title maintained by English Sovereigns to the Crown of France, and on the folly of the wars between the two countries. fo. 18.

Written about the time of Charles I.

4. "The case of Thomas Wells, containing an account of his services [as a spy] in time of the late Rebellion, wherein is humbly set forth the reasons which induced him to suspect a design of that importance carrying on; the commands he thereupon received to pursue that service; together with the most secret designs communicated by him, from the month of April in the year 1715 to that of Baron Gortz, as presented in a memorandum thereof in the year 1734." fo. 27.

5. "The secret designs carried on in favour of the Pretender in the year 1715, as communicated by Thomas Wells, from the month of April in the year aforesaid to February 1716; with the method he took to come at the knowledge thereof, which was as follows, and in his case presented in 1741." fo. 45.

This is addressed "to the honored Baron Scrope at the Treasury Chamber, at the Cookpit, June 9, 1741," and is apparently in the writing of Wells himself.

6. A copy of the will of Richard Jones Earl of Ranelagh, 20th February 1710. fo. 55.

7. "The case of His Grace the Duke of Marlborough," relative to some demands of Sir John Vanburgh for the building of Blenheim-house. fo. 71.

8. A supplement to H. Mayer's scheme for the next campaigns of the year 1705. Oct. 1, 1704. fo. 81.

9. A fragment of the original of Mr. Strype's Life of Sir Thomas Smith. fo. 84.

10. "A description of the animal flower, by the Rev. Griffith Hughes, A.M. & F.R.S." fo. 133.

This is extracted from Mr. Hughes's Hist. of Barbadoes, p. 293. His Animal Flower is the Actinia Calendula of Ellis's Zoophytes.

11. "Mr. Thomas Bodeley, his relation of his employments into the United Provinces of the Lowe Countries. 1594, 1595." fo. 143.

12. A copy of the treaty between Robert King of Scotland and Edward III. King of England, March 17, 1327, concerning a marriage between David, son and heir of the King of Scotland; and Joan, sister to Edward; in the French language. fo. 155.

Num. 817, 818.

Extracted from the Lord Register's office at Edinburgh.

13. "The history of Prince Rupert, wherein is contained the remarkable passages of his youth till hee came into England to comand the forces of Charles the First, King of England." fo. 157.

14. "A list of such as were executed in K. Hen. VIII" time for religion." fo. 168.

See Hearne's "Camdeni Annales," tom. I. p. clix.

15. "A list of such as were executed in Q. Mary's time." fo. 169.

16. "Two chapters concerning the affairs of England, translated [by Basil Kennett] from the Life of Pope Pius V., written in Italian by Girolamo Catena; with a version of two Italian letters from Mary Queen of Scots to the same Pope, preserv'd in the appendix of the same historian." fo. 181.

In the hand-writing of Mr. Strype, except the letters.

17. "Articles to be enquired of and answered unto by the worshipful Francis Lockier, Dr. of Divinity, Dean of the cathedrall church of Peterborough, and the Prebendaries, Minor Canons, Clerks, and other officers of the said cathedrall church, in the triennial visitation of the R. R. Father in God, White by Divine permission Lord Bishop of Peterborough, in the year of our Lord 1726." fo. 189.

818. folio.

A miscellaneous Volume containing,

1. An account of King Hen. VIII. expedition into France, A.D. 1513; of his proceedings before Calais, Tournay, Terouenne, &c.; with a list of his forces and their various charges and expences, forms of summonses of towns, of passports, &c. &c. drawn up by some herald at arms attending the expedition. fo. 2.

2. "Syxe poynts in a soldier"; being part of a code of military instructions drawn up towards the beginning of the sixteenth century. fo. 14.

3. "The apparell for the field for a Baron, a Bannerett, or a riche Bachelor Knyght." fo. 27.

A memorandum by the transcriber says, "taken out of the booke that I borrowed of Mr. Stowe, which he had of Clarencieux, whiche booke was Thomas Wrythesley ats Gatter. xv. Decem. 1564;" and it is probable that the two preceding articles, as well as the four subsequent, were extracted from the same book.

4. "The office of the Constable or Marshall in the tyme of warre." fo. 29.

5. "The siege and treatie at Harfleet, 1415." fo. 33.

6. "The treatie of flaloys." fo. 34.

7. "The charge of the Sergeant Generall or gret Sergeant at the field;" followed by instructions for the conduct of divers military officers. fo. 36.

8. "Tractatus de tractu maritimo, sive litoris Saxonicæ. Or a discourse of the seas-course and coasts of Norfolk and Suffolk." fo. 41.

9. The certificate of Sir Simonds D'Ewes, Knight, High Sheriff of Suffolk, of the rates and assessments in the said county for raising a ship of war. fo. 52.

10. Rates of tenths, first fruits, and subsidies in the diocese of London. fo. 62.

11. A certificate to the trustees and contractors for sale of Bishops' lands, in answer to certain doubts concerning the manor of Acombe in the county of the 103. A curious note by Bishop Kennett on Mr. Molloy's book De jure maritimo et navali, written on the back of its title page. fo. 187.

104. The second edition of a printed pamphlet intitled "The royal Brandenburgher Great Britain's bail, that France's faith is sterling. &c." with a great number of manuscript additions in the margins, probably by the author. On the back of the title is written "This pamphlet was printed and published so soon as the preliminary articles of the treaty at Aix la Chapelle were known, by my son Quin Mackenzie, not then nine years old." fo. 190.

N.B. There are some few articles in this volume evidently extracted from printed books generally known, the mention of which has therefore been omitted.

826. folio.

A miscellaneous Volume formerly belonging to Mr. West, with the following articles:

1. Copy of a Privy Seal of James I. confirming the practice and jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery, as certified by the Attorney-general. fo. 2.

2. "Catalogue des estampes gravées par Wenceslas Hollar." fo. 9.

This seems to have been drawn up by some French collector, who has made several queries in the margins, and expressed a wish for any additional information on the subject of Hollar and his works.

3. A list of the works of Hans Holbein, by the same person. fo. 25. (French.)

Very imperfect.

4. A short journal of a tour from Pera to Salonica. fo. 26.

12. A list of Lord Presidents of the North, from 1537 to 1629. Ex autographo penes Chris. Hildyard. fo. 107 b.
13. "The gold-mine of France open'd and stopt; represented to the Princes and States of the Empire of Germany, by Gerard Van Wassenberg; wherein are shewed the meanes by which France is risen to its present excessive hight and power, and those also by which it may be debased." Translated from the French. fo. 109.
14. Transcripts from Domesday book concerning Rutlandshire, Yorkshire, and Kesteven in Lincolnshire. fo. 119.

827. folio.

A miscellaneous Volume, formerly belonging to Mr. West, containing,

1. "Confession generale du Comte du Luc à son Altesse Royale." fo. 2.
2. The memorial of George Mackenzie Quin to the Chancellor of the Exchequer; with his political ravings on the preceding confession of the Count du Luc, and the state of affairs in Europe. 1746-7. fo. 7.
3. "A speech against the Judges, per ignotum quendam." Made in the House of Commons, 1640. fo. 10.
4. Copy of the articles of impeachment against Sir Francis Crawley, one of the Judges of the Common Pleas. fo. 18.
Imperfect.
5. Copy of the articles of impeachment against Sir Richard Bolton, Knight, Lord Chancellor of Ireland; John, Lord Bishop of Derry; Sir Gerard Lowther, Knight, Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas; and Sir George Ratcliffe, Knight. fo. 20.
6. "A lamentable discourse taken out of sundrie examinations concerning the willfull escape of Sir Charles and Sir Henrie Danvers, Knights, and their followers after the murder committed in Wiltshir uppon Henrie Longe gent." fo. 25.
See N^o 830, article 13.
7. Copies of some speeches of K. Charles II. to Parliament, 1662, and the votes thereon. fo. 30.
8. "A calendar of all the terriers of the gleeb lands belonging to the several parishes within the Eastern division of the diocess of Peterbor' now remaining in the registry of the Lord Bishop of Peterborough, with the towns names, respective dates, and by what clergymen signed; extracted in November 1728." fo. 34.
9. A Latin letter to the Parliament of England from Joao de Guimaraes, desiring a committee to treat with him on the subject of his credentials. Jan. 13, 1652. fo. 46.

12. A copy of part of a Catalogue of a large collection of original royal and other letters and state papers made for Lord Oxford by Mr. West, who on the first leaf has written the following note, "Mem. I went with Edward Earl of Oxford to view these MSS. at a barber's shop, next door to the Bull Head Tavern in Lincoln's-Inn Fields, when we were carried up two pair of stairs, and an old woman asked 300l. for the MSS. which was thought exorbitant, but which would have been given if she would have declared any lawfull title to or owner of them. J. West. May 2, 1742." fo. 86.

Num. 827—829.

13. The report of John Lowe, Peter Le Neve, Deputies in the Tally Court, to Sir Nicholas Stewart and Charles Cole, Chamberlains of the Exchequer; concerning the state of the Exchequer Treasury Records. Dec. 22, 1705. fo. 96.

14. A State of Canterbury Cathedral and of the archiepiscopal jurisdiction throughout the diocese and over some colleges and hospitals, including some account of the foundation of Dulwich College. 1678. fo. 106.

Imperfect.

15. Concerning the several manors in Tottenham and the Stewards thereof. fo. 113.

This is intitled "Chap. the 2^d. sect. the 1st." and seems to be part of some intended publication.

16. A letter from Archb. Tenison to Queen Anne, remonstrating against the impropriety of a dispensation granted to one Mr. Borradaile to hold plurality of livings. Jan. 31, 1712-13. fo. 156.

17. Bishop Kennett's statement of some mistakes by Mr. Atterbury, in his Book on the rights, powers, and privileges of an English Convocation: in two letters addressed to Dr. Wake. 1700. fo. 160.

828. folio.

A Volume of the collections made by Captain John Stevens for his continuation of Dugdale's Monasticon. It is probably a part of what fell into Mr. Warburton's hands, and was dispersed again at his auction in 1759.

At p. 11 is some account of transactions during the year 1688, and particularly of what happened to the author during his residence at that time in Wales, where he seems to have been engaged in the service of King James II., whom he afterwards accompanied into Ireland.

At p. 13 is another fragment, seemingly of a translation from some Spanish novel; unless it relate to Stevens's own adventures in Spain.

829. folio.

A miscellaneous Volume, part of Mr. West's collections, containing the following articles:

1. A copy of the Perambulation of the forest of Sherwood in the county of Nottingham, from Jan. 20 to Feb. 21, 14 Car. II. fo. 2.
Taken from Mr. Clay's forest book.

A fac simile copy of the celebrated Virgil preserved in the Vatican library, made by Pietro Santi Bartoli, and accompanied with 50 drawings in gold and colours, besides the very elegant frontispiece which has the following inscription: "Camillus Maximus imagines ex P. Virgilii Maronis veteri codice qui in bibliotheca Vaticana servatur Urbani VIII. Pont. Maximi consensu pingi curavit, MDCXLII."

Of the age of the original manuscript it would be impossible to speak with certainty; and various have been the opinions of learned men on the subject. It has been carried as far back as the reign of Septimius Severus; but certainly without the least authority, and with every probability of erroneous conception. They seem to be nearer the truth who ascribe it to the time of Constantine the Great, especially if there be, as is asserted by the Abbé Winckelman, a nearly contemporary memorandum in the MS. itself to that effect; which, if genuine, will do away the opinion of those who, by collation with the Florentine Virgil, contend that it is not earlier than the fifth century. Another set of critics admit the manuscript to be of the time of Constantine, but consider the paintings as copied from originals of a much earlier period. This opinion seems to have been founded merely on the style of Bartoli's copies; and it is to be remembered, that this ingenious artist has been accused of a systematical intention of making several meaner specimens of art appear as the production of a better age than they really belong to. It is certain, however, that none can have the fair means of judging without a comparison of the copies with the paintings in the manuscript. There have been several publications of it accompanied with Bartoli's engravings.

The Vatican manuscript in question (for there are others in that library with which it has been confounded) is written on parchment, but is said to be sadly mutilated, and to contain only fragments of the Bucolics, the Georgics, and the Æneid. The following account of it, transcribed from the papers of Emanuel à Schelestrate or Schelstrat, one of the Vatican librarians, may not be unacceptable to many: "Anno 1686, die 16 Septembris, in bibliotheca Vaticana, coram R. P. Jo. Mabillonio ordinis S. Benedicti, D. Jo. Petro Bellorio, et me infrà scripto, visus est codex MS. sub N° 3225 in eadem bibliotheca servatus. Est in 4° quadratus, litteris majusculis, nulla distinctione verborum conscriptus, præterquam in interpunctionibus, quarum quæ in superiori, punctum nostrum: quæ in medio vel infimo loco sunt, commata nostra designant. Littera A absque lineola transversa Λ. Littera P semiclausa, U semper rotunda. Littera T lineam superiorem perbrevev: littera G S virgulam inversam. Litteræ E F quasi puncta pro lineis transversis habent. Continet ubique imagines coloribus effictas quæ sæculo Constantini superioris videntur, et fortasse ad tempora Septimii Severi spectant, quum in iisdem non solum conspiciantur templa, victimæ, ædificia, biremes, pilei Phrygei, habitus, aliaque ad Trojanorum et Romanorum sacrificia pertinentia, sed etiam lineamenta perfectiora, quæ melioris et superioris ævi ætatem indicant. Quinimo pictor harum imaginum videtur secutus fuisse ideam nobilioris et antiquioris pictoris, nihilque in iis exhibetur quod primam Romani imperii majestatem non redolet." What he says of the G is not correct, if Bartoli's copy can be trusted.

The text in the present copy begins with the first line of the third book of the Georgics,

"Te quoque magna Pales et te memorande canemus"; magne being put for magna; and ends with the 310th line of the 4th book of the Æneid,

"Et mediis properas aquilonibus ire per altum", aquilonibus being contractedly written aquilonib.

Cardinal Camillo Massimi, who died in 1677, had himself begun the publication of these drawings, but did not live to complete it. He was a passionate lover of the arts, and had been taught to draw by the celebrated Nicolas Poussin. Being a great admirer of the paintings left by the ancients, he had employed Bartoli to make copies of all that were then remaining at Rome; and this collection was purchased in 1738 for 200*l*. by Dr. Mead, who by his will directed that it should remain in his family with a few other select articles. The present manuscript however, which undoubtedly formed a part of the above collection, was sold among the Doctor's books, and purchased by Dr. Askew for five guineas, at whose auction it was again bought by the Marquis of Lansdowne for twenty guineas.

27. Copy of a letter from Mr. Lechmere to Gregory King, Esq., on his appeal to the Court of Delegates on some libel. 10 June, 1702. fo. 35.

See art. 93.

28. A letter from Mr. Humphrey Wanley, on some improvements to be made in the cases of the Cottonian library, and concerning the MS. collections of Sir Symonds D'Ewes, which he recommends to him to purchase. 20 Nov. 1703. fo. 36.

29. Mr. Humphrey Wanley to Mr. Harley; thanks him for his recommendation to Sir Rob. Davers; gives some account of Sir Symonds D'Ewes, whom he had lately visited, and many particulars relating to his library and collections. The date torn off. fo. 36.

30. Mr. Humphrey Wanley's draught of his letter to his supposed cousin Samuel Wanley, Minister of Banningham in Norfolk, containing some very anxious enquiries about the family coat of arms, and his ancestors, whom he had already traced as coming from Basil in Switzerland, though he had been informed by one of the Pursuivants-at-arms that the Gloucestershire Wanleys were descended from a tailor at Amsterdam; which, he adds, is a different account from what they themselves had caused to be registered in the Heralds Office. No date. fo. 36*.

31. A copy of Mr. George Plaxton's letter to Mark Hodson, a Quaker watchmaker in York." 1706. fo. 37.

It relates entirely to the repairing of his watch, and is written in quaint language.

32. The draught of a letter probably from Mr. Wanley to Mr. Harley, on the subject of seals, 31 Oct. 1708. fo. 38.

33. Copies of two Latin letters from Dr. Newton at Florence, the one addressed to Antonio Maria Salvino, the other to some unknown person, with an account of the death of the Florentine senator Filicaia. fo. 39.

34. The Duke of Shrewsbury to Mr. Davenant; is confident that the Duke of Marlborough is inclined to be kind to him, &c. 14 May 1707. fo. 40.

35. Mr. Digby to Mr. Hewett, on hounds to be used in some nobleman's park. Oct. 12, 1707. fo. 41.

Num. 841.

36. Some more Latin letters from Dr. Newton at Florence to various persons, and of very little moment. fo. 42.

37. Mr. Brown to Dr. Kennett, Dean of Peterborough, on private affairs, 1708. fo. 43.

38. William Renew, Mr. Strype's pupil, to his mother; 1697. fo. 43.

39. Dr. James Keith to the Rev. Simon Ockley, about ghosts in Cambridge Castle and elsewhere. Nov. 8, 1718. fo. 44.

40. Mr. Ockley to Dr. Keith, on the same subject, and very much to the discredit of his understanding. He fancies that he is haunted by "a malignant evil genius of the same sort as he met with in Hand Alley," and whose tricks he describes. 1718. fo. 44.

41. Ambrose Crowley to the Lord Treasurer, with some project that was "to raise any sum and hurt none but proud fools." Wishes his name to be concealed. March 17, 1711-12. fo. 45.

He was probably some insane person.

42. A letter from T. Smith, the English Consul at Venice, to Mr. John Gibson, with proposals for the sale of his books and manuscripts to Lord Oxford, and some curious particulars relating to them. He states that some had belonged to Matthias Corvinus King of Hungary, and seems to expect 1500*l.* for the whole of his collection. Oct. 11, 1720. fo. 46.

43. B. Broughton to Arthur Collins, on heraldical matters. Oct. 3, 1713. fo. 47.

44. A fragment of a letter from the Rev. J. Russell probably to Bishop Kennett, with a slight sketch of the characters of the Archdeacon of Stow and Chancellor Newell. That Hill, Sparks, and Brown are vendors of lies and ribaldry. May 28, 1726. fo. 48.

45. R. W. to Bishop Kennett, chiefly on matters of literature. June 27, 1713. fo. 49.

46. R. B. [q. Dr. Richard Bentley?] to Thomas Bateman, Esq. respecting some controversy at one of the Universities; certain seniors of which are branded with the appellation of "the scabs, the ulcers, and abhorrence of the whole University." The writer expresses his indignation to see "Majesty and power and right have the least regard or consideration for such cabbage-stalks." Jan. 21, 1712-13. fo. 50.

47. A letter from — Edwards to some unknown person, very mysteriously alluding to the disputes above mentioned, and expressing concern for the interest of Lord T. . . . Jan. 21, 1713-14. fo. 51.

48. Wm. Sliford to Peter Le Neve, Esq. concerning books borrowed for Mr. Willis, &c. June 2, 1715. fo. 52.

49. William Taylor to Dr. Kennett, on mitigating the punishment of some person who had been prosecuted by the East India Company. July 26, 1715. fo. 53.

50. John Ellis of Staines to Mr. Parker of Saint Albans, desiring him to forbear going to law about a debt. 19 June. fo. 54.

51. John Warner, a surveyor, to some unnamed Committee, showing his reasons for dissenting in opinion with Dr. Desaguliers respecting the quantity of water running from the Cowley and Heatham streams; with remarks on the Doctor's project for supplying the City of London with water from the river Colne, &c. Jan. 9, 1724-25. fo. 55.

See art. 53 and 55.

52. Thomas Vyner to some nobleman about his hounds. Aug. 25. . . . fo. 56.

53. Dr. J. T. Desaguliers to Wm. Bowyer, Esq., on the subject of his water scheme. Jan. 12, 1724-25. fo. 57.

See art. 51.

Num. 841.

54. A Latin letter from Sebastian Vander Eyken, probably to Bishop Kennett; that he had delivered his brother's letter to Sir Rob. Walpole, from whom no answer had been received. Recommends him to write himself, and assures him, in that case, of success. June 27, 1724. fo. 58.

55. George Cooke to Wm. Bowyer, Esq., on the before-mentioned subject of the scheme for supplying London with water. Feb. 8, 1723-24. fo. 59.

56. V. Gibson to Dr. Kennett, thanking him for favours, &c. Oct. 29, 1724. fo. 60.

57. William Hodgson to his brother, a clergyman, with an account of one Edward Ashwell a notorious clerical impostor. June 21, 1725. fo. 61.

58. A. Charlett, from University College, to Bishop Kennett, that he will consider of his motion about Dr. Wallis, &c. March 3, 1719-20. fo. 62.

59. Dr. A. Sanderson, vicar of Little Adington, appointing his own son to be his curate at 40*l.* per ann. Oct. 10, 1728. fo. 63.

60. Mr. John Goole to James West, Esq., concerning the free school at Witney. Oct. 16, 1736. fo. 64.

61. G. W. to some unnamed Bishop; being a very strong appeal respecting some injurious opinions as to his private character. 1737. fo. 66. (In Latin.)

62. Two letters from Dr. C. Mortimer to Mr. Ames, that he would bring Job Saint Solomon an African slave and priest, with his MSS., to Sir Hans Sloane's house, &c. 1733. fo. 67.

63. T. Bluett to Mr. Ames, that he was preparing an account of Job for the press. Aug. 26, 1734. fo. 69.

64. Jacob Smith to Mr. Ames, respecting Job's passage home. Feb. 6, 1734. fo. 70.

65. Sir Peter Thompson to Mr. Ames, with many particulars that he had collected of Job's history and captivity. 24 March 1733-4. fo. 71.

66. James Robinson to Mr. Ames, with further particulars about Job. March 27, 1734. fo. 72.

67. John Russell to Dr. Lockier, Dean of Peterborough, on some dispute with Mr. Hall about Church lands. 19 June 1738. fo. 73.

68. An imperfect letter, probably to Mr. West, about the writer's being overcharged by the Commissioners of hawkers and pedlars. fo. 74.

69. Mr. William Russell to his uncle James West, Esq., on family matters, chiefly relating to property. Bodicoate, 13 Oct. 1737. fo. 75.

70. T. Neve to Dr. Lockier, Dean of Peterborough, concerning a visit to that city by a Prince of Syria, and with other news of the day. 14 July 1738. fo. 76.

71. W. Smith to some clergyman not named; with a copy of the inscription in memory of Bishop Kennett, at Peterborough cathedral. 27 Dec. 1745. fo. 77.

72. Thomas Wells's letter or petition to Mr. West, for the payment of arrears of his salary, &c. Aug. 11, 1746. fo. 78.

73. Mr. E. Umfreville to Mr. West, giving an account of a curious piece of secret history which he had discovered in a note book of Chief Justice Hyde, purchased by him at the Duke of Chandos's sale, the substance of which was, that an information had been exhibited in the Star-chamber by the Attorney-general against the Earls of Bedford, Clare, and Somerset, Sir Robert Cotton and Selden, for publishing a scandalous libel. That after the case had been opened by the Attorney-general, the Lord Keeper Coventry signified to the Court that the King out of his grace and for joy of the birth of a Prince [Charles, born the May before] would pardon the defendants and not proceed to any sentence of the cause. But on motion by the Attorney-general that Sir Rob. Cotton had in his library, records, evidences, ledger-books, original letters and instruments of State belonging to the King, (and to prove it he showed a copy of the pardon which Sir Robert had obtained from K. James, for embezzling records, and other offences) it therefore was thought lawful and ordered, that a commission should be awarded to certain commissioners, who in the presence of Sir Robert Cotton might search his library, and seize to the King's use such records and other instruments as belonged to the King. Feb. 4, 1747. fo. 79.

Num. 841.

Mr. Umfreville adds that he possessed two copies of the information, with Sir Robert's brief to his Counsel Sir Edw. Littleton, whose papers Mr. Umfreville also bought at the same sale. The above commission was never executed, and Sir Robert Cotton died in the May following.

This may serve as a supplemental account to what is stated on the same subject in the new edition of the Biographia Britannica by Dr. Kippis.

74. A letter from one Richard Courtville, a ministerial newspaper writer, to Mr. West; that the Citizens' petition against hawkers and pedlars was not projected by Mr. Horsley, but Sir William Keith. That he would undertake to make the Jacobite Journal answer all the ends of Government without any expence but "what his Honour should think the respective authors worthy of." That he had intercepted two virulent papers that would have been prejudicial to his Honour; and concluding in the usual disinterested manner of these worthy persons, by begging his Honour to consider his present melancholy situation, &c. 5 March 1747. fo. 80.

75. A letter from T. D. "an Englishman and a Protestant," to Mr. West, containing several remarks and opinions on the libels of the day, published in the newspapers against the ministry. 12 March 1747-8. fo. 80*.

76. C. Everfield to Mr. West, for advice, being arrested for 500*l.* fo. 81.

77. A French letter to Mr. West from the Chevalier Manne, Surgeon-major of the hospital at Avignon, soliciting his interest to become a member of the Royal Society. 1752. fo. 82.

78. A letter to Mr. West from Peter Leheup, concerning the Lottery. 18 March 1754. fo. 83.

79. William Thynne to Mr. West, concerning the societies of the Mines Royal. Dec. 18, 1754. fo. 84.

80. A letter from Philip Carteret Webb to Dr. Birch, Secretary to the Royal Society, with an account of an extraordinary motion of the water in the dock and basin at Portsmouth, and elsewhere. 10 Nov. 1755. fo. 85.

81. The Rev. William Norris, Secretary to the Society of Antiquaries, to Mr. Philip Carteret Webb, thanking him for prints, and inclosing information relating to Domesday book, as communicated to the above Society. May 10, 1756. fo. 86.

82. Mr. Norris to Mr. Webb, with communications respecting Domesday book. 1 March 1756. fo. 87.

83. Mr. Wright to Mr. Webb, on the publication of Domesday. 12 Feb. 1756. fo. 88.

84. Francis Chambre to Mr. Webb, about some deed to be signed by Sir Anthony Abdy. March 16, 1763. fo. 89.

85. Mary West to her brother, on family matters. Feb. 25. . . . fo. 90.

86. Dr. A. Bury to the Vice-chancellor of Oxford, concerning his book intitled The naked Gospel, and his persecution thereon. No date. fo. 91.

87. R. P. to Dr. Gilbert Sheldon, on the vile printing of his friend's tract on Human Nature, by Bowman. Mr. Rockold a good preacher, &c. fo. 92.

88. A fragment of a letter without the names of the parties, concerning the enlisting of men for the Pretender. fo. 93.

Num. 841, 842.

89. A familiar epistle from Lord Carteret, a student at Oxford, to Edward Harley, Esq., with a defence of horse-racing and cock-fighting. June 26. fo. 94.

90. Tho. Edwards to Lord Oxford, soliciting his protection of the University of Cambridge. No date. fo. 95.

91. A copy of the Bishop of Ely's answer to the Lords of the Privy Council, concerning his visitatorial jurisdiction and authority over Trinity College Cambridge. March 19. fo. 96.

92. A letter to the Rev. Mr. Blackwell, Rector of Brampton, the writer's name and date being cut off, chiefly on private affairs. That Dr. Charlett had, at his own expence, undertaken the printing of King Alfred's translation of Gregory's Pastoral, prepared by Mr. Gibson; and had resolved on a new edition of Velleius Paterculus as a new year's gift to his Society, in imitation of Bishop Fell. fo. 97.

93. A copy of Mr. Lechmere's letter to Gregory King, Esq., on the appeal in Lord Coventry's cause. June 19, 1702. fo. 98.

See art. 27.

94. A fragment of a letter to Mr. Edward Lhwyd, Keeper of the Museum at Oxford, on various literary matters. fo. 99.

95. Thomas Lorkin, at Paris, to Mr. Adam Newton, preceptor to Prince Henry, with an account of Mr. Puckering and his studies. Nov. 6. fo. 100.

96. An unsigned, and probably imperfect, letter to Lord Oxford from some person at Cambridge, giving an account of a Latin Bible in Bishop More's collection, printed at Paris by Ulric Gering, &c. with a supposed date of 1464, which on inspection turned out to have been fraudulently altered. fo. 101.

It may be necessary to remark in this place, that Mr. Maittaire had been deceived by the false date of this copy, (see his Annales Typogr. tom. i. par. ii. p. 273.) and had misled Lord Oxford to seek for such a bible all over Europe. The real date is 1476, or nearly so, being thus expressed;

"Jam tribus undecimus lustris Francos Ludovicus Rexerat."

In the Cambridge copy "tribus lustris" is altered to "semi lustrum". The compilers of all bibliographical works, when they meet with articles that exhibit early dates before unnoticed or unheard of, would do well to submit them to the inspection of persons whose judgement may be equal to their own, but whose eyes are better, before they venture to commit themselves.

97. A letter from Mr. Anstis, the superscription wanting, containing, among other matters, some account of the word Starrum; the colophon of the Saint Albans edition of Dame Julian Barnes's book of hunting and hawking, which Mr. Anstis, after great importunity, had conceded to Lord Pembroke, as he had the other edition of 1496 to Mr. Murray; Archbishop Sancroft's mandate to All Souls College, Oxford, for the election of Wm. Harrington as a Fellow, with remarks on the same, and on a former rejection of Anstis's son. No date. fo. 102.

842. (a & b.) folio.

10. "Certain heads intended to be treated of in a Natural History of Northamptonshire; by J. Morton, M.A." fo. 103.

A printed paper.

11. Account of pictures in Drayton House. fo. 110.

844. folio.

A Volume with the following miscellaneous articles:

1. The titles of certain acts of parliament, from the 21 to the 27 Hen. VIII., relating to attainders, and also to the granting and exchanging of church and other lands. fo. 1.

The list was drawn up in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and appears to be imperfect at the beginning. Compare with MS. Harl. 4316.

2. A statement of the case and argument in a bill filed by the Attorney General in the Court of Exchequer against the East India Company, that they should account for and pay to the King the money in arrears and unpaid, for great quantities of unrated goods imported between the 8th March 1703 and the 12th Feb. 1711, and to establish the true method for computing the duties which ought to be paid for such unrated goods. fo. 43.

Said to be drawn up by Sir Thomas Bury, Knight, Chief Baron of the Exchequer.

3. A Journal made by Charles Wheatley on board the ship Bethnal Green, Captain Brace Mills commander, bound to Jamaica from the Downs, anno 1726. fo. 91.

5. "Brief instructions for making observations in all parts of Great Britain and Ireland, for the discovery and working of mines: drawn up at the request of a person of honour." fo. 144.

This paper involves some very curious and elaborate remarks on various mineral substances."

6. "The order of the proceeding on the funeral of the Duke of Marlborough." fo. 213.

7. "The character of a disbanded courtier [Lord Shaftesbury]. Dedicated to the authour of that famous . . . call'd The Speech of a noble Peer." At the end is this note: "This picture was drawn about the time of the last Parliament's sitting at Oxford. At which time the booksellers would not venture upon it. Yet it was printed in 1681 and twice reprinted in 1682. But the copies are all disposed [of] and not to be had for money." fo. 239.

8. A long Treatise intitled "Some few cursory notes upon the foregoing curiosa de se." fo. 243.

Much of this seems to relate to Gaffarel's work intitled "Unheard of Curiosities."

9. Some political reflexions on the times; written probably in the time of King William the III^d. fo. 296.

10. Some notes of various parliamentary proceedings from 1326 to 1546, by the same person who composed the preceding article. fo. 309.

11. "Instructions for the keeping company with His Majesty's snow Happy, Capt. Jos. Laws, commander;" given by Capt. Charles Cotterell, on service in the West Indies. fo. 321.

12. A fragment on the government of Ireland. fo. 331.

13. A list of a royal army of 25000 foot and 5000 horse, set out by the Earl of Oxenford and others. Feb. 11, 1620. fo. 332.

This is a title only.

14. "The Spanish Embassadors letter to King James." fo. 333.

Imperfect.

15. Copy of the King of Bohemia's answer to a letter of King James I., thanking him for the education of his eldest son at his Court, &c. Hague, 20-30 Decem. 1623. fo. 335.

In the initial letter to this volume there is a small and neatly executed whole length portrait of Chaucer, with a book in his hand and a knife suspended from his neck. He is dressed in a long greyish gown, with red stockings, and a kind of sandals. His head is uncovered, and the hair rather closely shorn. This miniature, though a little damaged, may be of considerable use to an artist. Many of the other pages and letters are painted and gilt in the usual style of the time.

The manuscript formerly belonged to Mr. Philip Carteret Webb, and was consulted by Mr. Tyrwhitt and cited by him under the letter W. See his admirable edition of "The Canterbury Tales," vol. I. p. xxiii. edit. 1775, in 8vo.

852. folio.

A large Collection of humorous and satirical Poems, in English and Latin, many of which were levelled by the Tories and Jacobites against the political occurrences of the reigns of King William III. and Geo. I. Others are of a miscellaneous nature; and the greatest part of them, perhaps, to be found in print.

The whole seem to have been collected for the use or amusement of Edward Lord Oxford, some of whose notes and corrections will be found in the volume. See particularly pp. 485 and 531.

A Collection of Pedigrees of Sussex Families, with several trickings of their arms. Interspersed are transcripts of a great many ancient deeds and charters relating chiefly to the above county.

Num. 874—878.

874. folio.

A large and curious Collection of Epitaphs and Arms in many of the churches in London and other parts of England, collected chiefly by Henry Saint George, Esquire, Clarencieux, and Nicholas Charles, Esquire, Lancaster heralds, with some later additions.

At fo. 50 b is an alphabetical index of family names; and at the end an index of names of churches, with another additional of names of persons.

This volume contains many drawings of monuments, and copies of arms, &c. from painted glass windows, of some of which perhaps few or no vestiges are elsewhere to be found.

At fo. 98 b there is a very elegant and interesting drawing of the arms and device granted by Charles the Sixth to the Stuarts for defending the Scottish sceptre, as they were emblazoned in the church of Saint Andrew in Holborn. On the device of a Knight combating a lion (here represented) the heraldical antiquary is referred to Dean Milles's dissertation on a seal belonging to Sir Richard Worsley, in Archæologia, vol. iv., to the Cotton MS. Jul. A. 1. where the drawing is evidently connected with the present; to the seal of R. de Quency in Spelman Aspilog. 105; to Vetusta Monum. vol. III. pl. xxviii.; to Dallaway's Heraldic Enquiries, p. 400; to Harl. MS. N° 4028. fo. 143; to Hearne's Langtoft, p. 199; and to the fine print of a Knight combating a lion at the Castle of Coucy in Picardy, in Androuet du Cerceau Batimens de France, p. 4, where the reason for assuming this device is assigned.

875. folio.

Genealogical notes of the Sovereigns of the island of Great Britain, from Brute to James I., and of the nobility from the Conquest, with their arms properly emblazoned. The several alterations in the royal arms are specifically given towards the beginning. Prefixed is an alphabetical index of names.

876. folio.

Arms and Pedigrees of Suffolk Families, collected by Harvey Clarencieux king at arms, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, with an alphabetical index at the beginning.

877. folio.

An account of the Kings, Nobility, and principal Gentry of Scotland, with very masterly trickings of their arms, by Joseph Holand, Esquire, 1585, whose autograph and partly engraved coat of arms are on p. 4.

878. folio.

"A Collection of Monuments in divers churches, with most of the coats of arms painted." They are chiefly in London and Westminster. At the end is an alphabetical index of the names of persons.

Num. 879—882.

879. folio.

"The book of Funeralls in Chesshiere, Lanc', Salop, and Northwales, &c. The register booke of Funeralls in the countyes of Chester, Lancaster, Salop, and Northwales, was begun the first daye of Marche anno Dñi 1600, and in the XLIIth yeare of the raigne of our Sovereigne Ladye Queene Elizabeth by mee Willelm Segar Norroy king of armes of the North, to be contynued by my servaunt Randall Holme, resident in the cittie of Chester; wherein I will that hee shall truly enter from tyme to tyme, the armes and creasts, matche, issue, and deceasse of all suche persons of coate armour and worshipec as it shall please God to call oute of this transitory life; and shall receave worshipfull enterment according to their estates and degrees. And I will also that my said servaunt Randall Holme shall, in my name, and to my use, demaund and receive of the heires, executors, or administrators of every such defuncte, my due fees, as they are severally rated in the next page, and to make unto mee the said Norroy a just and true accompte, when, and as often as it shal be required by myself. And upon the fynishing of this booke, that hee the saide Randall my servaunt shall delyver the same or cause the same to be delivered to mee the said Norroy, to be recorded and entred into Her Majestys office of armes in London, according as I am enjoyned by oathe and order of my office, for the benefitt of posterity.

p' Willelm Segar Norroy
King of Armes."

Then follows a list of the persons buried, with their arms emblazoned, and particulars relating to themselves and their families. The rest of the volume is occupied with memorandums of divers patents and grants of arms, in Cheshire and elsewhere, by Sir Richard Saint George, Norroy. At the end is an alphabetical index of names.

880. folio.

Arms and Pedigrees of Oxfordshire Families recorded by Richard Lee gent, Portcullis, marshall to Clarendieux king of arms, in his visitation anno 1574.

881. folio.

The Collection of Sir Thomas Saint George, Garter king at arms, concerning the ceremonial of the order of the Garter; with two indexes of the contents of the book and of the statutes.

At the end Mr. Warburton, to whom this volume belonged, has put together some animadversions on the undue authority usurped by Mr. Ashmole, Garter, over his brother kings Clarendieux, Norroy, &c. being what he terms "extraordinary attempts to make Garter an absolute monarch."

882. folio.

An heraldical Volume compiled and written about the time of Henry VIII., in which are the following articles:

1. Genealogia Comitum Cestrie. fo. 2.
2. Historia brevis Comitum Leicestrie, cum insignibus gentilitiis. Præmittitur nota de Gulielmo Conquestore. fo. 3.

Num. 882.

3. The History of the Earls of Warwick, ascribed to John Rouse or Ross of Warwick, with their arms emblazoned, and portraits of them neatly painted in water colours. Although these portraits are imaginary, they are interesting for the armour and costume of a period anterior to the manuscript itself, which is only a copy of some other.

Concerning this work Mr. West, to whom it belonged, has made the following remark on fo. 1; "The drawings of the Earls of Warwick seem to be taken from John Rous roll of the Earls of Warwick which in Sir William Dugdale's time was in the possession of Robert Arden of Parkhall. What relates to the Earls of Warwick is printed by Mr. Hearne at the end of his Life of Richard the Second, though without the arms or draughts of their effigies here expressed." It is not impossible that the portraits might have been copied as is here stated, but the works are certainly different. The roll used by Dugdale, and then in Mr. Arden's possession, was in Latin, and had besides a portrait of Ross himself, which Dugdale has caused to be engraved by Hollar in his Warwickshire. The roll of Warwick, mentioned by Bishop Nicholson in his Historical Library as in the Bodleian library, is in all probability another copy of the same work. Both these have been confounded by Mr. Gough in his British Topography, vol. ii. p. 301, with Rous's Life of Richard Beauchamp Earl of Warwick, in the Cotton library, Jul. E. iv. the beautiful drawings of which have been engraved in Mr. Strutt's Horda Angel cymnan, and the contents or arguments of it printed in Hearne's Hist. Vitæ et Regni Ric. II. The curious reader may collect still further information on the present article from the preface to the last-quoted work by Mr. Hearne.

4. "Habes hic, erudite lector, illustrium virorum cognomina quos sanguinis claritudine armorumque insignibus prestantissimos insulam expugnasse Britanniam celeberrima passim annalia testantur; quod si quis clavis prognatus parentibus de primo progenitore suo forte subdubitat, huc accedat et originem suam inquirat." fo. 26.

This seems to be an amplified copy of one of the rolls of Battel Abbey.

An imperfect copy of Sir George Cavendish's well known Life of Cardinal Wolsey. It begins in the middle of chap. V., with the words "Beds, the master of the wardropp and 10 persons;" and concludes towards the beginning of the last chapter in the printed copies, with the words, "Soe I would, quoth the Lord Percie, but in this matter, I have gon." It is of no other use, but for the purpose of collation with other copies, if any one should consider such a task necessary after what has been so ably performed by Mr. Wordsworth in his "Ecclesiastical Biography," 1810, 8vo.

905. folio.

A miscellaneous but chiefly topographical Volume; formerly belonging to Mr. Umfreville, containing the following articles,

1. A treatise of the Court of Star Chamber, by William Hudson, Esquire. Imperfect at the end. A duplicate of No. 622. fo. 2.

13. "A brief history of the honor of Gloucester, more particularly within the county of Northampton, and the liberties and franchises of the said honor, in the several townships, hamlets, and parishes of Ad-dington magna et parva, Aldwinckle St. Peter's, Barton Segrave, and Hanrod cum membris, Burton Latimer, Craneford St. Andrew, St. John, Deneford cum membris, Luffwick, Raundes, Ringsted, Stanyerne cum membris, Thingdon, Thrapston cum membris, Wollwencotes and Woodford." fo. 128.

Num. 905—907.

Mr. Umfreville remarks on this work, that it is only a fragment, compiled by Charles Hornby, Esq. who died 1739 at his seat at Ingatestone; the original, of which this is a copy, being in the hands of Mr. William Parr Johnson of Gray's Inn, the then feudary of the honour.

14. Collections for a general history of ancient Castles in the kingdom of Great Britain, being extracts from Camden, Lambarde, Sammes, Dugdale, and other English historians; with an alphabetical index at the beginning, and another at fo. 163 b. fo. 147.

15. Ordinances, constitutions, rules, and articles made by the Court of Star Chamber, relating to printers and printing, 23 Jun. anno 28 Eliz. fo. 282.

It appears that many of the more opulent printers and stationers had exclusive licences for printing and selling particular books on condition of their depositing with the Stationers Company copies of the same for the benefit and relief of the poorer members thereof. At the end of the above ordinances, &c. is a list of the printers of the above description, and of all the books so delivered by them to the Company. The printers named are, Barker the Queen's printer, Tottell, Watkins, John Day, Newbery, and Denham. Under Barker's article it is stated, that he yielded up the profit and benefit "of the two most vendible volumes of the New Testament in English, commonly called Mr. Cheeke's translation;" and yet no such edition of Cheeke's Testament is noticed by Lewis or Herbert.

Mr. Warburton's collections relating to the arms of Yorkshire families. Part of the volume belonged to Francis Hougham, arms-painter.

909. 4to.

Another volume of Mr. Warburton's Yorkshire collections, consisting chiefly of a portion of the Magna Britannia with manuscript additions. It also contains several papers extracted from the Philosophical Transactions relating to this county, and so much of Bishop Godwin's work as concerns the Archbishops of York. At the end is a letter supposed to have been written by one H. Tr. to Sir Thomas Chaloner about the reign of Henry VIII. giving a curious account of the natural history and antiquities of the lordship of Gisborough in Cleveland. It has been evidently transcribed from the Cotton MS. Julius F. vi. fo. 431, with unwarrantable alterations in the orthography.

910. small folio.

books or pamphlets as I have been able to find out, either by the same being written on copies thereof bought by me, or by other information, 2 Dec. 1764."

1050. folio.

A Catalogue of the Pictures, Books, Medals, Bronzes, and various Rarities belonging to King Charles I. and deposited in His Majesty's palaces of Whitehall, Windsor, Hampton Court, Kensington, &c. for the most part very ignorantly drawn up, by Abraham Vander Doort, keeper of the King's cabinet, of whom an account may be seen in Mr. Walpole's Anecdotes of Painting in England. This is one of the several copies extant of this work, which was afterwards printed by Bathoe in a very mutilated form. Another copy may be seen in the Harleian Collection, N^o 4718. The original is said to be preserved in the Ashmolean Library at Oxford. Mr. Walpole has stated, and probably with more humour than strict veracity, that Tom Hearne once thought of publishing it, but, concluding it was German, gave it over. Bad English it certainly is; but in all events T. Hearne would have given a much better edition.

Prefixed to this volume is an Inventory of Mr. Prior's Pictures taken Oct. 18, 1721, by Adrian Drift, being 125 in number. Among these were three, by or after Tintoret, of the following interesting subjects here particularly described: 1. The manner in which Henry the III^d of France was received when he passed through Venice in his return from Poland. 2. The interview between the Emperor Charles the Vth and Pope Clement the VIIth at Bologna, 1532. 3. The interview between Pope Alexander the III^d and the Emperor Frederick Barbarossa anno 1177 at Venice.

1051. folio.

A large Collection of Cases, Pleadings, Reports, &c. in various Courts, during the reign of Queen Elizabeth; very fairly transcribed in a law hand of the time. At the beginning is the great case of Scroggs and Colshill concerning the office of the Exigendaryship of London.

Num. 1058—1064.

1058. folio.

Reports in the King's Bench from Easter 43 to Hillary 45 Eliz.

1059. folio.

A Volume successively belonging to Mr. Powle, Dr. Rawlinson, and Mr. Umfreville, containing the Reports of Sir Francis Moore; transcribed, but not abridged, from his own Manuscript. Although these are not the whole of Moore's Reports, there are many amongst them not to be found in the printed copy, which also wants the references in this manuscript.

1060. folio.

A Collection of Reports of certain Cases adjudged in the time of Queen Elizabeth in the King's Bench, Common Pleas, and Exchequer, by divers eminent persons, amongst whom are Justice Harper, Baron Saville, Sir John Walter, and Matthew Ewens.

From internal evidence this Manuscript, which was Mr. Powle's and afterwards Mr. Umfreville's, appears to have been written anterior to the 38 Eliz.

1061. folio.

Reports of Cases between the 28 Eliz. and 11 Jac. I. in the hand-writing of the anonymous collector.

1062. folio.

A Volume of Miscellaneous Reports, at the beginning of which Mr. Umfreville has written the following note: "Before these two volumes of Rant's Collections were new bound they were covered with parchment, whereupon was wrote, 'Three volumes [the second is wanting] of Reports out of Rant's Law MSS.' in the same hand with the following leaves; the which was my justification for the title now on the back. But nota, they are not the proper collections of any one author, but taken from several. I have seen another MS. in two volumes of the following Cases, whereon was endorsed Reports out of Reeve's Law MSS. and in the same hand with the following leaves; which Reeve died a Judge, regnante Carolo Primo. Though these books be only coppys and not very correctly wrote, yet in general 'twill appear to be a good collection, and to contain many Cases (leading in law) not elsewhere to be found. E. U."

At the beginning are alphabetical indexes of the cases and subject matter.

1063. folio.

Reports of Cases in the King's Bench from 22 Jac. I. to 2 Car. I. by Ravenscroft.

1077. folio.

A miscellaneous and irregular Collection of Reports of Cases from the reign of Hen. VIII. to that of Charles I., by Timothy Levinge, Serjeant at Law. To these is added, at fo. 67, another Collection of Cases in the Common Pleas, from 1653 to 1663, by Richard Levinge, Barrister of the Inner Temple and Recorder of Chester.

1078. folio.

Reports of various adjudged Cases in the King's Bench during the reign of Elizabeth, written at the time.

Mr. Umfreville regarded them as of no value; but he has particularly noticed the learned Fleetwood's argument on the power of the Pope's dispensation, the case of Sir Christopher Hatton and the Companies of London for concealed lands on the statute of Chantries, and some others, on the first leaf. The MS. had belonged to Mr. Powle who died Master of the Rolls.

1079. folio.

Sir Edward Coke's Reports, 12th and 13th parts; with alphabetical indexes.

This volume belonged to Peter Phesaunt, Esq. Serjeant at Law in the reign of Charles I., who at fo. 128 has made the following entry, which may serve as a very good specimen of Law French jargon; "Touts les Cases devant fuer de Reports sur Coke, et jeo eux ay hors de un copy qe Sir John Brampton, jades Cheif Justice d' Bank le Roy lende a moy. Anno 1644."

1080. folio.

Reports in the King's Bench from 15 to 21 Jac. I.

Mr. Umfreville doubts whether they are by Godfrey or Palmer, adding that they are not Palmer's own collection, and referring to a note in his printed copy. He has also written the following remarks on Godfrey's Reports on the first leaf of the present manuscript; "Godfrey's Reports, of which there are three parts, viz. temp. Eliz., 2. temp. Jac. and 3. temp. Car. I. And Shepherd, Attorney-general to Oliver Cromwell, had the three parts, and in his common-place book, now in the Inner Temple Library, cites them as Godfrey's, and hath inserted cases into his common-place book verbatim from them. They came afterwards into the hands of Sir Jeffery Palmer, and after his death part of the Reports in the reign of James I. were printed as of Palmer's own collection." Prefixed is an alphabetical index of names.

1081. folio.

A large Collection of Reports in the Courts of King's Bench, Common Pleas and Exchequer, from 11 to 15 Car. I.; with alphabetical indexes of names and matter.

1082. folio.

Reports in the Common Pleas 11 and 12 Car. I.

1083. folio.

The Reports of Sir Thomas Widdrington in the King's Bench, and of Robert Paynel in the Exchequer, temp. Car. I.

Mr. Umfreville has remarked that on account of the loss by fire of many records in the Exchequer, Paynel's Reports are become the more valuable, and, from the known integrity of the reporter, to be depended on as authentic. Biographical notices of the respective authors will be found on the first leaf and at fo. 355 of this manuscript. At the end are alphabetical indexes of names and matter.

1084. folio.

A Miscellaneous Collection of Reports, Cases, Readings, &c. during the reign of Elizabeth, among which, at fo. 36, will be found some Reports by Chief Justice Wray.

The volume has the autograph of Mr. Calthrope, but was written at the before-mentioned time. At the end is an alphabetical table of contents.

1085. folio.

Reports in the King's Bench from 3 to 7 Charles I.; with an alphabetical index of names.

1086. folio.

Reports and Readings in the reign of Elizabeth, with an alphabetical index of names.

Of this collection Mr. Umfreville says "rien ne vault."

1087. folio.

A Collection of Cases in the Courts of King's Bench, Common Pleas and Exchequer, from the 24th to the 37th year of Elizabeth. Prefixed is an alphabetical table of matter.

Mr. Umfreville observes that many of the Cases in the Common Pleas are reported in Anderson.

1088. folio.

Reports of King's Bench Cases in the 42^d and 43^d years of Elizabeth.

Num. 1089—1096.

1089. folio.

Reports of Cases in the King's Bench from 4th to 18th Car. I.; with an alphabetical index of names.

1090. folio.

The Lord Hobert's Booke of Reports in the King's Bench, &c. temp. Jac. I.; with an alphabetical table of contents.

1091. folio.

Sir Humphrey Winch's Report of Cases in the Common Pleas temp. Jac. I.; with an alphabetical index of names.

Mr. Umfreville states in a note on the first leaf, that these Reports, though printed as Judge Winch's, are by Mr. Allestree.

1092. folio.

Another copy of Widdrington's Reports, with some variations from the former.

Mr. Umfreville remarks that many of these Cases will correct the erroneous impression of Latch.

1093. folio.

A Collection of Cases, Special Pleadings, and various Legal Forms and Precedents, made in the time of King James I.; with a table of the special pleadings only, not alphabetical.

1094. folio.

Ravenscroft's Reports of Cases in the Courts of Chancery, King's Bench, Common Pleas, Exchequer, and Starchamber, from 21 Jac. I. to 9 Car. I.

At p. 12 is Judge Dodderidge's Charge to the Grand Inquest of Middlesex. Prefixed is an alphabetical index of names.

1095. folio.

Reports of Cases in the King's Bench and Common Pleas, from 6th to 36th Elizabeth. At the end are a few Cases in the King's Bench, 4 Car. I.

1096. folio.

A Miscellaneous Volume, containing,

1. A letter from E. C. with short notes of two Cases in the King's Bench in the time of Eliz., one of which relates to the Bishop of Ely's granting a lease of Downham Park.

2. A copy of Queen Elizabeth's foundation charter of the Grammar School of Sevenoaks in Kent. Dated the 1 July, in the second year of the Queen's reign. fo. 3.

3. Copies of several letters written from Paris in the year 1657, by T. C. to some person not named, on the subject of a work by the writer in defence of the Articles of the Church of England and on other ecclesiastical tical matters, but more particularly the apocryphal books of the Scriptures. fo. 8.

4. "Some extracts relating to the school and hospital at Sevenoke in Kent, on occasion of a bill depending in Parliament, Decem. 1721. Extracted out of the Lord Keeper's decree." fo. 29.

5. "The Case of the Company of Mercers, London, concerning the rectory and right of patronage of the parish of St. Mary Colechurch, London." With the opinions of Civilians and other persons thereon. fo. 31.

6. Reports of Cases in the King's Bench 3 Jac. I. fo. 37.

1097. folio.

Reports of Cases in the King's Bench 20 and 21 Jac. I.

1098. folio.

Reports of Cases in the King's Bench and at the Assizes in the reign of King Charles the First. Interspersed are some Exchequer Cases in the reign of James I. With an alphabetical table of matter.

1099. folio.

Reports of Cases in the King's Bench 39 and 40 Eliz. by Thomas Fleming, afterwards Chief Justice; with alphabetical tables of names and matter.

Some of these Cases have been printed in Coke's Reports; but they are much more fully reported in the present collection, according to a remark at the end of the tables, where such cases are particularly named. The writer of the remark has also collected the names of all the Serjeants and Counsellors when Popham was Chief Justice.

1100. folio.

Reports of Cases in the King's Bench 2 to 4 Car. I.; with an alphabetical index of names.

1101. folio.

A Miscellaneous Volume, containing,

1. Sir John Saville's Reports of Cases in the Exchequer in the reign of Elizabeth. fo. 1.

"Not," says Mr. Umfreville, "in the printed Reports."

2. A copy of the instrument of association, 1584. fo. 27.

3. A copy of the High Commission, 9 Decem. 26 Eliz. fo. 30.

4. Reports of Cases in various years of Queen Elizabeth. fo. 37.

5. An alphabetical table of matter in all the preceding Reports. fo. 74.

6. The case in question between Sir Moile Fynche Knight and Mr. Throgmorton and others. fo. 90.

1105. 4to.

Sir Bartholomew Shower's own Note-book of Cases chiefly wherein he himself was Counsel, among which are several concerning the Customs of London, that have never been printed. On the first leaf is the following interesting note by the former possessor of the volume, Mr. Umfreville,

"This MS. greatly controuls the printed Shower, and contains many good cases not printed, and seems to be his regulated collection of cases, prepared, as I conceive, by himself, and methodized from his note-books, with a view to the press. But his papers after his death falling into the hands of a bookseller, he, causâ lucri, at different times printed his general collection without due consideration had of these selected cases, which were the only cases, I conceive, Sir Bartholomew intended for the press. E. U."

Mr. Umfreville then notices the cases in this manuscript which are omitted in the printed copy. At the end of the volume are various biographical notices of Sir Bartholomew, likewise in his own hand, and the names of the cases reported, but not alphabetically.

1106. 4to.

Reports of Cases in various years of Queen Elizabeth, transcribed 1598.

Some of the marginal references are in the hand-writing of Robert Paynel.

1107. 4to.

Reports of Cases in the King's Bench, from the 9th to the 12th year of Queen Anne, by Francis Cudworth Masham, Esquire, afterwards a Master in Chancery; in the reporter's own hand: with alphabetical indexes of names.

At the end of the Reports is an account of the office of Foreign Apposer and also of the King's Remembrancer, the latter extracted from a copy of an ancient manuscript in the hands of one Marryot, deputy to Auditor Phillips in the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

1108. 4to.

A part only of Sir Henry Yelverton's Reports in the King's Bench, being those which begin at p. 33 and end at p. 148 in the printed copy.

A Miscellaneous Volume, containing the following articles:

1. Reports of Chancery Cases in the 9, 10, 12 and 13th years of James I., by an anonymous but able person. pag. 1.

In the case of Grantham and Stone, 9 Jac. I. the privilege of the Exchequer was pleaded; on which the Lord Chancellor Ellesmore said, that no Chancery man is privileged against the Chancery, not the Lord Chief Baron himself, unless the matter concern the King; and that if the defendant should endeavour to get an injunction to stop the Court he would commit him. And he added that he would know those lawyers that occupied their wits to jumble jurisdictions of Courts together.

2. Reports of Chancery Cases in divers years of Queen Elizabeth. pag. 69.

3. Various notes and cases of Appeals and other legal and constitutional matters from the reign of King Stephen to that of Rich. II.; extracted from historians and original records. pag. 293.

Num. 1175.

Raoul de Presle, or Praelles, at the command of Charles the Fifth, King of France. These are its contents:

1. The Prologue of the translator.

As this has never been printed, is not extremely long, and may be of considerable utility in collation with other copies, it is here given.

"A vous tres excellent et tres puissant Prince Charles le Quint, Roy de France. Je Raoul de Praelles vostre petit serviteur et subject. Tout ce que je puis faire mon tres Souverain et tres redoubte Seigneur, quant vous me comandastes a translater la Bible en François je mis en deliberacion le quel seroit plus fort a moy, ou du faire ou du refuser.* Car je consideroie la grandeur de leuvre et mon petit engin d'une part; et de autre part je consideroie quil nestoit riens que je vous peusse ne deusse refuser. Je consideroie derechief mon aage et ladverse fortune de ma maladie, et les autres euvres que je avoie faites: cest assavoir, la translacion et exposicion du livre de Monsr. Saint Augustin de la cite de Dieu; le livre qui sappelle le compendieux moral de la chose publique; le livre qui sappelle la muse; aveques aucunes epistres. Mais tandis come je debatoie ceste question en moy meismes je me recordai que je avoie leu en un livre que nature humaine est come le fer, lequel se len le met en euvre il se use; et se len nen use point il senrouille et se gaste. Et toutevoies se degaste il moins quant len use que quant len le laisse gesir. Et pour ceste cause je lentrepris, et amai miex a moy user en exerçant que moy consumer en occiosite. Comme selon le dit du sage, occiosité sanz lettres soit mort. Si suppli a vostre Mageste que vous veulliez recevoir en gre ce que je en ferai. Car quant a la maniere du translater, la ou je verray quil cherra abreviacion je la ferai, la sustance demourant entiere. Et ou je verrai quil ara repeticion dune meismes chose, si come en Paralipomenon et en Esdras le secont et ailleurs je ferai remission. Et aussi lairai je a nommer plusieurs noms de gens de villes et de citez la ou je verrai que ce ne seroit que charge au liseur et quil non seroit de riens miex edifie. Et aussi ne scet len aucune foiz se ce sont leurs propres noms, ou de leurs peres ou aïolz ou de leurs villes ou citez, pour ce que ainsi le mavez vous commande. Mon entente est aussi de faire aucuns prologues ou je verrai quil en sera besoing, a la declaracion des livres. Et aussi aucuns integumens es commencemens daucuns chapitres a fin de comprendre plus legierement la sentence. Et par tout on il ara une ligne par dessouz ce sera hors le texte pour le declarier et pour comprendre plus legierement ce que le texte du chapitre veult dire. Car sanz declarations aucunes le texte est mult obscur en plusieurs lieux, especiaument aus gens lais qui nont point estude en la sainte escripture. Et ne tiengue nul a arrogance ce que je lay entrepris: car vostre commandement men excusera en tout et par tout. Apres je supplie a touz ceulz qui verront ceste euvre que sil y a aucune chose qui ne soit apoint mise et a son droit, quil veullent supporter mes deffautes; et ce quil y trouveront de bien il le veullent atribuer a nostre Seigneur duquel tout bien vient. Et en outre se il y a aucune chose regardant la foy, je men raporte a ce que la foy en veult, et que nostre mere sainte eglise en tient."

* Before the word "refuser" is "laisser;" but the latter has been cancelled by a line drawn through it with a pen.

Raoul de Praelles was the illegitimate son of the secretary to Philip-le-bel, Louis X., and Philip V.; and, as his father bore the same name, has sometimes been confounded with him. Following the profession of the law, he became Advocate-general in 1371, and Master of Requests in 1373. He died in 1382, at the age of about 68 years. His translation of the Bible is supposed to have been finished in 1377. It has been most unaccountably neglected and overlooked by many French writers who should have been better informed on the subject, and has been frequently ascribed, without any apparent cause, to another person, Nicholas Oresme, bishop of Lisieux in Normandy and preceptor to Charles V.;

Num. 1175, 1176.

who is sometimes mentioned as having only assisted de Praelles in his translation: but even of this there is no evidence whatever; and, indeed, Fathers Simon and Le Long have very satisfactorily decided the question. It has been maintained that this translation by Raoul de Praelles is nothing more than a revision of a preceding similar and well-known work of Guiars des Moulins, who at the end of the 13th century translated into French the Historia Scholastica, or Glossed Bible, of Petrus Comestor: but in this opinion the reigns of Charles V. and Charles VIII. have been confounded; for in the latter, Des Moulins' translation was by the King's command revised and committed to the press; and this would hardly have happened if there had already existed a revision of Des Moulins. Whoever will take the trouble of comparing the two translations, (and there are many copies of Guiars des Moulins among the Royal MSS. in the British Museum,) will soon be convinced that the two works are fundamentally different, and that the version of De Praelles is by no means to be regarded as a revision of the other. His comments likewise, frequently interspersed in the text, are entirely different from those in Des Moulins.

The Manuscripts of Des Moulins are not very uncommon, whilst those of De Praelles are extremely rare. No other copy except the present is in the British Museum; and it is presumed that none has been noticed by any English writer: but it would be improper to conclude that no copies exist in the libraries of Great Britain.

Prefixed to every book in this valuable Manuscript, which was written at the end of the 14th century, is an appropriate illumination of singular neatness in the execution. These paintings are about two inches square, and in number twenty-one. At the end of the volume the transcriber has thus recorded himself: "Cest la fin du premier volume de la Bible, et la escript Henri du Trevou:" immediately under which is the following monogram

It is the signature of John Duke of Berry, second son of John II. king of France, and brother of Charles V. He possessed a very fine library, in which were many copies of the Bible, and appears to have been fond of writing his name in his books. He died in 1416. Many of his books, as well as those of Charles V. and VI., were carried away by the Dukes of Burgundy during the troubles in the reign of the latter sovereign.

A Book very fairly written on vellum in the 14th century, containing various matters relating to English Law, &c.

1. The law treatise entitled "Bretton." fo. 1.

At the end is the following note: "Cest lyver fuit fait au temps E. le Primer le quel roy fuit en purpose daver mis tout en certeynty et comence de fayr lyvere de la ley par les plus sages de son realme, ses juges et autres. A. 35 H. VI. fo. 37. p. Prisott." This seems to be a dictum in curia by Prisott, who was Chief Justice of the Common Pleas in the time of Henry the Sixth, and to have been extracted from the year books by some lawyer.

2. An ancient treatise on Husbandry compiled in the reign of Edw. III. fo. 131. (French.)

In another copy in the possession of the writer of this article [F. Douce] there is prefixed the following prologue wanting in the present MS., and which, as it throws some light on the subject, is here given, "Cest le dite de hosbonderye qe un sage homme fist jadis qe avoyt aucun Sir Wauter de Henle e coe fist il pur enseigner acunes genz qe unt teres e tenemenz qe ne sevent pas toux les poynz de hosbonderie meyntenir come de gaynage de tere e de estor garder dont granz biens en poent surdre a ceux qe ceste doctrine volent entendre e apres ouvrir come ci trovezerez escrit."

Of this Sir Walter de Henley it may be difficult to obtain any account. His work is slightly noticed by Tanner.

3. "Issint comencent les de lestapeles de leynes en Engeltere fest et ordene par le conseil nostre Seigneur le Roi Edward filz le Roy Edward dissucosime." fo. 136.

These laws, which were made in council at Kenilworth the 19th year of Edward III., seem to have been the foundation of the statute of the staple made at Westminster in his 27th year.

1177. folio.

A Volume, very neatly written, and embellished with a great number of drawings in Indian ink, entitled "Les Œuvres du Sieur Debenat, officier de Galere, et chevalier de l'ordre militaire de St. Louis. Marseille 1721." This is on an elegantly decorated title-page. It is divided into two parts, the first of which contains the following articles:

1. A dedication to the Regent, the Duke of Orleans. fo. 3*.

Signed by the author himself, the rest of the volume being written by another person.

2. The preface. fo. 7*.

3. "Table des principales matieres contenues dans ce livre." fo. 15*.

4. Four views of the author's library and museum. fo. 19*.

5. A description of the library and a detail of the contents of the museum, accompanied with drawings of Egyptian antiquities, plants, shells, fossils, corals, &c. fo. 1.

6. "Dissertation historique et critique sur les anciens bâtimens à rames." fo. 97.

7. "Remarques sur l'Histoire de Thucydide touchant les differens rangs des rames." fo. 176.

8. "Dissertation sur les côtes occidentales de l'Amerique Septentrionale." fo. 217.

9. "Remarque sur les côtes occidentales de l'Amerique Septentrionale, la terre de Jesso, et la Californie." fo. 268.

Next follows, on another highly ornamented title-page, "La seconde partie, contenant les descriptions geometriques de toutes pièces qui entrent dans la construction, les agrez et les manœuvres d'une Galère." &c. fo. 285*.

This second part, besides the above-mentioned descriptions, contains,

1. "Observation sur l'usage des pièces mentionnées ci-après qui servent à la commodité d'une Galère extraordinaire." fo. 747.

2. "Galère ordinaire." fo. 813.

3. "Remarque sur l'usage des pièces mentionnées cy-après qui servent à l'ornement d'une Galère extraordinaire et ordinaire." fo. 851.

Besides the numerous drawings which accompany these descriptions, there is inserted at p. 878, a large engraving of a beautiful galley called Reale de France, dated Marseille 1698.

4. "Noms des pièces des ornemens des Galères que l'on travaille dans la sale des voiles à l'arcenal, avec la quantité des marchandises qui leur est necessaire." fo. 880.

5. "Premier discours sur le timon qui est à l'avant des Galères de France depuis 1695." fo. 921.

1178. folio.

A large and elegant Volume neatly written and illuminated, containing a French translation by Pierre Berceure or Bercheur, of the first ten books of Livy.

The work commences with a dedication to John II. King of France, in which the author states that he had undertaken his translation at the King's particular command, notwithstanding the great difficulties that he had to encounter, some of which are thus detailed: "Et certes combien que la treshaute maniere de parler et la tresprofonde Latinite que a le dit aucteur soit excedent mon sens et mon engin comme les constructions dicelluy soient si trenchies et si briefves si suspensives et si destranges que au temps de maintenant peu de gens sont qui les sachent entendre ne par plus forte rayson ramener en Francois; neantmoins ay je prins le labour de le translater pour obeir avous qui estes mon seigneur, et pour faire prouffit a tous ceulz qui par moy lentendront et lorront." He then enumerates his other works, which are "1. Reductoire Moral. Le secont est Repertoire Moral. Le tiers est Breviare Moral. Le quart si est la Massemonde et la Rescription. Le quint est ceste translacion de Tytus Livius." He concludes with assigning a reason for a table that follows of Latin words for which none that were equivalent could be found in the French language, and which he had therefore been compelled to render in a circuitous manner.

Of the translator Pierre Bercheur, or as he is Latinized Petrus Berchorius, several particulars have been given by Mr. Warton in vol. ii. of his History of English Poetry, and at the end of his Dissertation on the Gesta Romanorum in the same work; but the learned and elegant author has certainly failed in his effort to prove Berchier the author of the Gesta. More concerning him may be also found in the Bibliotheque Françoise of La Croix du Maine as edited by Mons. Rigoley de Juvigny. He was Prior of the monastery of Saint Eloy at Paris, of the order of Saint Benedict, and died in 1362.

There is a magnificent copy of Bercheur's Livy among the Royal MSS. in the British Museum 15 D vi. being the whole of his translation. Another copy, less complete but infinitely curious, as being in the Languedocian dialect, is in the Harleian Collection, N^o 4893.

The present MS., which was purchased at the sale of Count Macarthy's duplicates, &c. in 1789, is in very fine preservation and decorated with neat illuminations of historical subjects at fo. 1. 19. 53. 90. 139 b. 164 b. 196 b. 222. 248, 248 b. 274 and 316. on most of which are the arms of Dauphiné and Champagne quartered, and the device of a basket surmounted with a crown, perhaps belonging to Charles Dauphin of France the son of King John.

Num. 1178—1183.

1179. folio.

A very large and beautiful Volume, neatly written on fine vellum and embellished with seventy-eight paintings in camaieu gris of considerable merit for the time in which they were executed, being part of a French translation of the once popular and celebrated work of Vincent of Beauvais, entitled "Speculum historiale."

The translator's name was Jean de Vignay, a monk, and master of the Hospital of St. Jaques de Haut-pas, who undertook the work about the year 1340, at the command of Jeanne Queen of France, wife of Philip V. surnamed Le Long. His translation has been printed; but the language in the MS. differs in many places from that in the printed copies. The present volume contains only eight books out of thirty-two, viz. from book 9 to book 16 inclusive; narrating events from the reign of the Emperor Claudius to that of Valens, principally the lives of Saints; and of course the miniature paintings refer to the martyrdom of those holy persons. One leaf is wanting at the beginning of this MS. which contained the first two chapters of book 9. It was purchased at Count Macarthy's sale of duplicates above mentioned.

There is a magnificent MS. of the first nine books of De Vignay's work among the Royal MSS. 14 E 1. which supplies the deficiencies at the beginning of the present volume.

Num. 1202—1207.

1202. 4to.

"Les vraies Clavicules du Roi Salomon. Par Armadel."

This book is elegantly written in a modern French hand, and ornamented with neat drawings of numerous talismans and other implements used in the practice of Magick, of which art this seems to be a very complete treatise.

At fo. 179 is another work, entitled "Le Livre d'Or, touchant les vertus et les caracteres des Pseaumes du Prophete David," concluding with the Athanasian Creed.

1203. 4to.

Another Treatise on the cabalistical art called "Les veritables Clavicules de Salomon, traduites de l'Hebreux en langue Latine, par le Rabin Abognazar." (In Latin and French.)

It is a very beautiful specimen of French calligraphy, and, like the former article, decorated with a great number of drawings, but in a superior style of execution.

1204. 4to.

"Recueil des Dogmes les plus obscures des Cabalistes composé par C . . . A . . . V . . . De St. B. dans lequele se trouve les interpretations les plus claire du sens caché et obscure qui se trouve dans les ouvrages ecrits sur ces matieres avec une methode simple pour l'intelligence de la cabal des nombres numeriques, 1792. Am^{me} R. C."

This title, in bad orthography, has been added to the work, and some alterations made in its real title, which is "Traite des Dogmes les plus curieux et les plus obscurs des Cabalistes anciennement tirés de leurs commentaires. Par Jean Pic, et enrichis d'interpretations par le P . . ." (the name, which was Pere Archange, being carefully defaced with a pen). It is in fact no more than a translation of Pico's printed work, the original Latin of which is also transcribed; nor does it appear that any comment whatever has been added to that already made by Archangelus. The name of the pretended commentator or compiler is introduced at fo. 521, and is Charles St. Bedau.

Theologie des Cabalistes de la Psychologie.

1206. 8vo.

A Cabalistical Book of Prayers and Psalms in French.

It is an elegant specimen of writing, in imitation of Roman Pica, probably by the celebrated Lesclapart, who may also have executed the article Num. 1203.

This volume has been lettered LINPARFAIT, but the reason is not very apparent.

1207. sm. 4to.

The Statutes and Ordinances of the Most Noble Order of the Garter. Upon vellum. On the first leaf are the arms of Henry Grey, Marq. of Dorset, afterwards Duke of Norfolk.

Num. 1208—1213.

1208. sm. 4to.

Sir John Davies's Speech, as Speaker of the House of Commons of Ireland, to Arthur Lord Chichester, Lord Deputy, 11 James I. 1614.

1209. 4to.

An Account of all the Livings. &c. in the gift of the Lord Chancellor.

Copied 19 Nov. 1737 from an original MS. belonging to the late Lord Chancellor Talbot.

1210. 4to.

A Book of Practical Geometry, begun and finished by Henry Fombelle within the three first months after his entering the Royal Military Academy at Little Chelsea, since the amendment of the plan and change of the Directors of that Institution. Dedicated to the Marquis of Lansdown.

It is very neatly written, and accompanied by drawings, &c.

1211. 4to.

A Book containing the principal Problems in Planimetry and Stereometry, begun and finished by the above Henry Fombelle within the three last months of his residence at the Military Academy at Chelsea.

It is dedicated to the late Marquis of Lansdown, and ornamented with various drawings of plans, &c.

1212. folio.

"Continuata Series et Historia omnium Germanorum Imperatorum, nec non Tyrannorum, qui Imperium Romanum occupare conati sunt, una cum eorum uxoribus, liberis, et consanguineis: à Carolo Magno usque ad Rodolphum II. Imp. semper Augustum; additis ipsorum effigiebus ex antiquis ipsorum numismatibus argenteis et aureis ex ipsis archetypis fidelissimè delineatis. Per Octavium de Strada Mantuanum, S. Cæs. Majestatis nobilem Aulicum, civem Romanum, et antiquarium."

It is executed by the same artists as the preceding volume, and with equal skill and elegance; but is of superior value, as containing a great number of interesting portraits. At the beginning is a Dedication to Frederick William Duke of Saxony; and, at the end, an alphabetical index of names.

The present MS. forms the third part of the printed copy of the well known work of Strada's Lives of the Roman Emperors, the originals of the preceding parts being in the Imperial Library at Vienna. It has some variations from the printed copy, and contains, occasionally, more medals than are to be found in the last edition, which has some that do not occur in the manuscript. The great beauty of the drawings renders this volume of considerable value and importance.

1213. folio.

"Symbola Romanorum Pontificum, Imperatorum, Regum, Cardinalium, Archiepiscoporum, Ducum, Principum, Marchionum, Comitum, atque aliorum illustrium omnium nationum virorum ac mulierum. Per Octavium de Strada, S. C. M. nobilem Aulicum, civem Romanum, et antiquarium."

Num. 1213—1215.

This very beautiful volume, which is dedicated to Sfortia Andrea Carretus, Prince and perpetual Vicar of the Roman Empire, is elegantly written, and ornamented with masterly drawings of the devices in pen and ink. This work, which has never been printed, would afford useful materials for a more general compilation of the kind that has long been wanted by the admirers of the heraldic science. At the end is an alphabetical list of names.

1214. folio.

"Compte de la Seconde Prevosté de M. de Caumartin du Mois d'Aoust 1780 a pareil Mois 1782, et de l'Eschevinage de MM. Pochet, Blaque, Richer, Bordenave, Famin, et Magimel. Etant M. Jolivet de Vannes Avocat et Procureur du Roi, M. Veytard Greffier en chef, et M. Buffault Receveur General des Domaines en Octroi."

This title is written on an ornamented frontispiece beautifully drawn in pen and ink by J. L. Ligeret de Pricey. The account is dated at Paris 6 August 1784.

1215. folio.

1236. folio.

A Volume, containing Letters, &c. written by royal, noble, and eminent Persons of Great Britain, from the time of King Henry VI. to the reign of his present Majesty. These are originals, except where otherwise expressed.

1. A proclamation, signed and sealed by George, Duke of Clarence, in the name of King Henry VI. that none presume to rob or despoil the Lord Mountjoie's manors of Barton and Elveston in Derbyshire, or vex or trouble the tenants, &c. Dated the 26 Octo^r. fo. 1.

It has been very ignorantly indorsed "A Charme against Theeves."

2. King Henry VIII. to Sir Edward Poynings and Dr. William Knight, ambassadors to the King of Castile, to demand satisfaction for an outrage committed on an English ship in one of the ports of Zealand. Dated Greenwich, 22d July. fo. 2.
3. King Henry VIII. to Dr. Knight, ambassador in Flanders, that he would solicit leave from the Duchess of Savoy for Thomas Barnaby, an English merchant, to carry on his traffic, notwithstanding her proclamation against importing French commodities. Dated Chertsey, 12 Aug. fo. 3.
4. King Henry VIII. to Sir David Owen, appointing him to the command of a hundred men, to be furnished by him in the King's intended expedition into France to assist the Pope. Dated Greenwich, 22 Feb. 1513. fo. 4.

This appears to be only a copy.

5. King Henry VIII. acknowledgement of certain jewels sent to him at Hampton Court from Greenwich, by Master Norris, the 21 Sept. 1531. fo. 6.

Printed in Strype's Life of Cranmer, Append. p. 7.

6. King Henry VIII. to Thomas Dowty, to furnish a cabin in his ship to a servant of Sir Anthony Kingston, serjeant of his Majesty's hawks, sent by his master into Iceland to transport hawks into England. Dated Hampton, 29 March, 1539. fo. 8.

N.B. The King's sign manual is stamped, not written.

7. Queen Katherine Parr to King Henry VIII. in his absence, full of duty and respect, and requesting to hear from him. No date. fo. 9.

Printed in Strype's Eccles. Memorials, vol. ii. App. p. 33.

8. An unsigned and undated Letter in the same handwriting as the preceding, addressed, as it should seem, by Queen Catharine Parr to the University of Cambridge, in answer to a Latin letter, requesting her interference with the King to exempt the Colleges,

Num. 1236.

Chuntries, &c. from the operation of an Act of Parliament, placing them in his disposal. fo. 11.

Printed in Strype's Eccles. Memorials, vol. ii.

App. p. 39.

9. Cardinal Wolsey to Stephen Gardiner, bishop of Winchester, soliciting his good offices towards obtaining the King's pardon. Written from Asher, without date. fo. 12.

Printed in Strype's Memorials, Vol. I. Append. p. 91.

10. King Edward VI. to the Earl of Hartford, strongly recommending to him the pursuit of literature, and thanking him for some communications. Saint James's, June 9th. fo. 14. (In Latin.)

11. King Edward VI. to the Lord Protector Somerset, on his success against the Scots. Oatlands, Sept. 18. fo. 16.

12. A Testimonial in favour of Vicentio Bellacci, a Florentine, who had served in the English army. fo. 18.

Written, as it should seem, by King Edward himself, and signed by six of the Privy Council.

13. Two Papers or Memorandums in the hand-writing of King Edward the Sixth, concerning money and various other matters to be attended to. fo. 19. 21.

14. An unsigned Letter in the handwriting of King Edward the Sixth; perhaps to Bucer, Fagius, or Peter Martyr, from whom he had received godly instruction. fo. 22. (Latin.)

15. A Letter of Lady Jane Grey, as Queen of England, to the Marquess of Northampton, Lord Lieutenant of the Counties of Surry, Northampton, &c. announcing her entry into possession of the kingdom of England, and requiring his allegiance and defence of her title, against what she calls "The fayned and untrewed clayme of the Lady Marye, bastard daughter to our great uncle Henry theight of famous memorye." Dated from the Tower, July 10. fo. 24.

This very curious letter appears to have belonged to Lord Burghley, who has indorsed it "Jana non Regina," and carefully erased the superscription, but yet not in such a manner as to prevent its being read. See Strype's Memorials, vol. iii. p. 2.

16. The Lady Mary (afterwards Mary I.) to the Lord Admiral (Seymour) declining to interfere respecting his suit for marriage with the Queen-dowager. June 4th. fo. 26.

17. An unsigned Paper in the hand-writing of the Lady Mary, seemingly addressed to the Lords of the Privy Council, remonstrating in very spirited terms, on their conduct, with respect to her interference during the minority of her brother. fo. 28.

18. A Copy of Queen Mary's letter to Sir George Somerset and others, announcing the death of the King, and commanding them to repair to her at the manor of Keningall. July 8, 1553. fo. 29.

19. Mary Queen of Scots, to the Earl of Northumberland, to send her the property that belonged to her on board a ship wrecked on the coast of England. Edinburgh, Feb. 11, 1565. fo. 30. (In the Scottish dialect.)

20. Mary Queen of Scots, to some Privy Counsellor, that he would attend to the proceedings of the Earl of Murray, &c. January 31, 1568. fo. 31. (In the Scottish dialect.)

21. Mary Queen of Scots, to Lord Burghley, requesting his mediation with the Queen his mistress, respecting her long captivity. Sheffield, Nov. 21. fo. 32. (In French.)

The whole in her hand-writing.

22. The Lady Elizabeth to the Lord Protector, a well-composed justification of her conduct respecting certain opinions of the Council. She alludes to the necessity of a proclamation to restrain evil reports of the King's sisters. Hatfield, Feb. 21. fo. 33.

Num. 1236.

23. The Lady Elizabeth to the Lord Protector, in favour of Catharine Ashley. Hatfield, March 7. fo. 35.

See Haynes's State Papers, p. 89.

24. The Lady Elizabeth to her sister Queen Mary, expressing sentiments of loyalty and affection. Hatfield, Aug. 2. fo. 37.

25. The Lady Elizabeth to her sister Mary, that she is concerned to hear of her sickness, &c. Ashridge, Oct. 27. fo. 39.

26. Catharine Ashley, on the part of the Lady Elizabeth, to Sir William Cecil, that he would interfere with the Lord Protector on the part of the bearer, some poor man; with a postscript in the hand-writing of Elizabeth. No date. fo. 41.

27. A Fragment of certain suggestions to Queen Elizabeth, touching the declaration of a successor to the Crown; with some very angry remarks thereon in her Majesty's hand-writing. fo. 42.

See vol. xciv. art. 14, 15.

28. A kind and affectionate Letter from Queen Elizabeth to Sir Amyas Paulett, expressive of her satisfaction with his conduct, and alluding to some base actions of the Queen of Scots. No date. A copy only. fo. 44.

Printed in Strype's Annals, vol. iii. p. 361.

29. Queen Elizabeth's warrant for levying pioneers for the service of the Earl of Warwick, Lieutenant of the Army against the Northern Rebels. Windsor, Nov. 29, 1569. fo. 46.

This document is signed only with the first two letters of the Queen's name.

30. Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Shrewsbury, Earl Marshal of England, appointing Mons. de Naon to be Secretary to the Queen of Scots; with admonitions for his good behaviour. Saint James's, March 29, 1575. fo. 47.

31. Mr. Strype's copy of Queen Elizabeth's remarkable letter to Lord Burghley, beginning "Sir Spirit." May 8, 1583. fo. 49.

Printed in Strype's Annals, iii. 166, and from thence in the Biogr. Britannica; where the writer seems to err in supposing the Queen to use the word "spirit" in the sense of "ghost," and as allusive to the vulgar notion that there is no striking a ghost. Her Majesty had before addressed her secretary in this manner, (See No. X. of the Lansd. MSS. art. 71.) and might perhaps allude to his having personated a ghost or spirit, when a student in Gray's Inn. See Peck's Desid. Cur. vol. i. p. 6.

32. James VI. King of Scotland to Lord Burghley, touching rebels and fugitives. Falkland, June 19, 1584. fo. 50.

33. James VI. of Scotland to Lord Burghley, in favour of certain Scottish merchants sent to London to provide necessaries for his marriage. Ross, July 19, 1589. fo. 51.

34. Seaton Earl of Wintoun, to Prince Henry, complimentary, with a present of a feather. Edinburgh, Dec. 24, 1600. fo. 53.

In the superscription the Prince is called, "Harie be the Grace of God, Prince off Scotland, and Appairand of Waillys."

34.* Prince Henry's copy of a complimentary letter from himself to his uncle the King of Denmark. (In Latin.) 1601. fo. 53.*

vines, by the hands of the Chevalier Daniston. Strive-ling, 22 Aug. 1601. fo. 54. (In French.)

36. Queen Elizabeth's licence to the Lord Darcy, for absence from Parliament on account of sickness.
Richmond, Oct. 25, 1601. fo. 55.

Signed by herself.

37. Prince Henry's Copy of a complimentary letter from himself to his uncle the King of Denmark. July 27, 1602. fo. 56.* (In Latin.)

Written on a fragment of a letter which had been written to the Prince's preceptor, Mr. Adam Newton.

38. Prince Henry to his mother; with his prayers for her happiness, &c. Thetford, Dec. 1, 1608. fo. 57.
A copy.

39. The Lady Arabella Seymour to the Queen, thanking her for her mediation with the King. Lambeth, July 23, 1610. fo. 58.

40. A Copy of the last-mentioned letter. fo. 60.

41. Prince Henry to the Duke of Rohan, thanking him for information about St. Jean d'Angely. July 15, 1612. fo. 61. (In French.)

42. King James I. to the Duke of Buckingham, expressing his grief at his absence, and earnestly desiring his return. Requests that none may see his letter, and that the Duke will not answer it. No date.
fo. 62.

43. Prince Henry to his father, giving an account of his health and studies; that he was reading Terence, Cicero, and Phædrus. July 15. fo. 64. (In Latin.)

44. Prince Henry to his mother, in French, with the first-fruits of his studies in that language, by way of new-year's gift. fo. 65.

A copy by his tutor, Adam Newton?

45. Prince Henry, in French, to his father, as the first-fruits of his proficiency in that language. fo. 66.

A copy by his tutor, Adam Newton.

46. Henry Prince of Wales, to his mother, with thanks for her visit and a present of a hound. Stirling, June 2. fo. 67.

47. Henry Prince of Wales, to his mother; with an excuse for not visiting her, &c. No date. fo. 68.

It seems to be a copy by himself.

48. Prince Henry to the Count de Vaudemont, thanking him for his proffered friendship, and expressing his particular esteem for him, in being satisfied with the present he had made him of some English dogs.
No date. fo. 69.

A copy by Adam Newton?

49. The Countess of Marr to King James I. that her son is coming to England, and reminding him that he still had an old servant, who was desirous, before her death, of rendering him some service, &c. No date. fo. 70. (In French.)

50. Prince Charles's own copy of a Latin letter from himself to the Pope, with promises to support the Catholic Faith in general against its enemies, and an allusion to his contract of marriage with a Popish Princess. fo. 71*.

plaining of neglect of a writ issued from the Privy Council, and peremptorily commanding him instantly to obey the same, by levying the sum of 8000*l.* in the county of Kent and the Cinque Ports, for providing a ship of 640 tons for defence of the realm. May 20, 1640. fo. 74.

53. A Warrant signed by King Charles I. to Lord
Percy, General of the Ordnance, for delivery to Sir John Winter of twenty barrels of gunpowder, &c. from the stores at Bristol. Dated from Oxford, March 22, 1643. fo. 76.

Num. 1236.

54. A Warrant signed by Prince Rupert, exempting the house of one Baskerville from the quarterage of soldiers. June 16, 1643. fo. 78.

55. A warrant signed by King Charles I. to Lord
Percy, General of the Artillery, for delivery of one hundred pair of pistols to Lieut. Gen. Lord Wilmot.

sending 100*l.*, and expressing concern for his sufferings.
Saint Germain, Aug. 30, 1649. fo. 87.

The superscription in cypher.

60. King Charles II. to requesting the loan of 500*l.* for six months, promising on his royal word to repay it with interest. Saint Germain, Aug. 30, 1649. fo. 89.

The superscription in cypher.

61. King Charles II. to requesting the loan of 500*l.* "on this great occasion," and promising very faithful repayment on his royal word. St Germain, Aug.
31, 1649. fo. 91.

The superscription in cypher.

62. Instructions from King Charles II. at Jersey to Colonel Jervas Holles. Jersey, Dec^r 2, 1649. fo. 93.

Signed by the King himself.

63. King Charles II. recommendatory Letter in favour of Col^l Jervas Holles, going to the Netherlands.
Jersey, Dec. 4, 1649. fo. 95. (In Latin.)

Sardinia, desiring protection to Admiral Popham and the Fleet under his command for the suppression of piracy. Signed by William Lenthall, the Speaker.
April 26, 1650. fo. 96*. (In Latin.)

This letter once belonged to Lord Oxford, as appears by Humphrey Wanley's Diary, 28 Aug. 1725.

65. President Bradshawe to the Lord General Cromwell, with much compliment and flattery; commends the indefatigable industry of General Harrison; that he will shortly hear of a great number of godly persons in a regimental form in London, whose example will be followed in Norwich, Kent, and other places, and who have sent Commissioners for that purpose. Whitehall, Aug. 30, 1650. fo. 97.

66. Oliver Cromwell to Col^l Francis Hackett, at Peebles; that he cannot revoke a commission which he had given to Capt. Empson in favour of Capt. Hubbert, but that he will not be unmindful of him. That he was not satisfied with Hackett's saying of Empson that he was a better preacher than fighter, being himself of opinion, that he that prays and preaches best, will fight best; that nothing will give so much courage and confidence as the knowledge of God in Christ's will, and that he blesses God to see any in his army able and willing to impart the knowledge they have for the good of others. Dec. 25, 1650. fo. 99.

67. A summons to Jervas Piggott, Esq^r signed by Oliver Cromwell, requiring him to serve as a Member of Parliament for the county of Nottingham. June 6, 1653. fo. 101.

At the foot of this document is written, "I rather chose to be made a sacrifice than to yeild obedience to these cōmands. Ger. Pigot." To which note Mr.
Peck, the author of Desiderata Curiosa, has subjoined

Num. 1236.

the following remark, "I was told by the gent. who gave me this original (and who is a person of credit and worth) that these words written by Ger. Pigot were all a flourish, written after the Restoration; the said G. P. complying before as much as any body." This paper is printed in Peck's Desiderata Curiosa, vol. i. lib. vi. p. 25.

68. Oliver Cromwell, Protector, to [the superscription torn off] desiring him and his High Sheriff to make due inquiry into the conduct of Adjutant General Allen, who was reported to have multiplied dissatisfactions in men's minds with the Government; and report the same to him. January 20, 1654. fo. 102.

69. Oliver Cromwell, Protector, to the Lord Mayor; recommending Mr. Turner as a minister for St. Bartholomew's Hospital. July 5, 1654. fo. 104.

70. King Charles II. to his Aunt, the Queen of Bohemia; that he writes from his sister's chamber, where there is such a noise, that he never hopes to end his letter or write sense. Gives her an account of an intended dance, and of the difficulty of finding fiddlers and dancing-masters, &c. Collen, Aug. 6, [1654.] fo. 106.

71. King Charles II. to Prince Rupert, thanking him for his offer of assistance in recovering his Kingdom, but declining it from the present state of his affairs. Bruges, 15 June 1656. fo. 108.

75. King Charles II. to Sir George Downing, resident with the States General; with instructions to maintain in His Majesty's name the right and pretensions of the Lord Wotton to the Drossartship of Breda; the interest of the King's nephew, the Prince of Orange, being concerned therein. Sept. 13, 1661. fo. 115.

76. King Charles II. to the Lord Chancellor (Clarendon); with a very favourable account of his new-married Queen, Catharine of Portugal. Portsmouth, May 21, (1662.) 8 in the morning. fo. 117.

This letter is extremely curious.

77. King Charles II. to the Lord Chancellor; that his brother had spoken with the Queen about owning his son, and that she had declared in much passion, that if he did she would never see him more. Desires his advice on this matter. Thursday morning. fo. 119.

78. King Charles II. to the Chancellor; that he would counsel Brodericke not to meddle any more with what concerns Lady Castlemaine, and denounces vengeance against him should he spread any scandalous reports of her. Wishes that he may be unhappy in this world and in the world to come, if he should fail in his resolution to make her of his wife's bedchamber, and declares his future enmity to any one that shall attempt to thwart him in his purpose. Desires the Chancellor's cooperation in this business, if he wishes for the continuance of his friendship. Hampton Court, Thursday morning. fo. 121.

Num. 1236.

79. King Charles II. to the L. Chancellor; that his brother will tell him of all that passes at Portsmouth; that he is very happy, and must be the worst man living, which he hopes he is not, if he be not a good husband, &c. Portsmouth, 25 May. fo. 123.

80. King Charles II. to the L. Chancellor, concerning the insolent behaviour of Sir H. Vane; that he is too dangerous a man to be suffered to live, if he can be honestly put out of the way. He desires the Chancellor to consider of the matter. Hampton Court, Saturday, two in the afternoon. fo. 125.

Mr. West has made the following indorsement on this letter: "This letter was wrote by the King 7 June 1662, and that day sevensnight Sir Henry Vane was beheaded."

111. The Duke of York to Prince Rupert; that he will hasten to send him all the fire-ships and small craft in the River, and that orders shall be sent to meet the Count d'Estrees at Portsmouth, &c. Whitehall, Monday noon. fo. 184.

112. The Duke of York to Prince Rupert; that he had received his account of the Dutch Fleet being at the Gunfleet, and had sent him all the fireships that he was able to procure; that he had sent to Portsmouth to apprise Capt. Haddock of the enemy being on the coast. He desires that the Prince will write to him without ceremony. Whitehall, May 4. fo. 186.

113. King Charles II. to Prince Rupert; that due diligence shall be used in sending ships to him, &c. Whitehall, May 5. fo. 188.

114. The Duke of York to Prince Rupert; that the Count d'Estree is come to the Isle of Wight, with orders to join him, &c. May 8. fo. 190.

115. King Charles II. to Prince Rupert; hopes the Count d'Estree has joined him, &c. Whitehall, May 12. fo. 192.

116. King Charles II. to Prince Rupert; announces his intention of visiting him on board the fleet. Whitehall, May 14, Wednesday 8 at night. fo. 194.

117. The Duke of York to Prince Rupert; that he had been fair up with the enemy's Fleet off Ostend, but the blowing wind prevented his engaging it. Desires a supply of water and provisions that he may return to the enemy's coast. Southwold, May 21. fo. 196.

118. King Charles II. probably to Prince Rupert, that the Dutch will get nothing by delaying fighting, especially while he lies before the Texel and stops their trade, the King of France attacking them in the mean time by land, &c. Whitehall, May 23. fo. 198.

119. King Charles II. probably to Prince Rupert, with his advice about coming home to refit, &c. Whitehall, June 2. fo. 200.

120. King Charles II. probably to Prince Rupert; that deputies from the States of Holland are arrived at Margate. That the Queen is anxious to visit the Fleet at Gravesend. Directs him to punish the Captains who have misbehaved. Whitehall, 13 Thursday. fo. 202.

121. King Charles II. probably to Prince Rupert, with his opinion of the intended motions of the Dutch Fleet, &c. Whitehall, July 14. fo. 204.

122. King Charles II. probably to Prince Rupert, with directions how to intercept the Dutch East India-men. That preparations are making at home for an attempt upon Holland or Zealand. Whitehall, July 26. fo. 206.

123. The Duke of York to Prince Rupert; that he cannot think of looking for De Ruyter until he meets with the victuallers; that he would send what ships are in the River to join him, &c. Dogger-Bank, July 29, fo. 208.

124. The Duke of York to Prince Rupert, for a supply of anchors and cables preparatory to coming to the Nore, the Fleet having suffered by the stormy weather that had dispersed the Victuallers, &c. West end of the Dogger, Aug. 4. fo. 210.

125. King Charles II. probably to Prince Rupert; approves of his coming to the Nore to refit; that the Dutch meditate offers of negotiation, but that nothing will be more likely to produce a good peace than the appearing ready to continue the war, with an alarm of a descent, &c. Whitehall, Aug. 8. fo. 212.

Num. 1236.

126. King Charles II. probably to Prince Rupert ; repeating his directions to refit at the Nore, where he intends visiting him. Whitehall, Aug. 10. fo. 214.

127. King Charles II. to Prince Rupert, with directions to come up with all speed, leaving the Fleet together with the French squadron in the River, and not permitting any officer except Lord Ossory to come on shore. Whitehall, Aug. 26. fo. 216.

128. The Duke of Monmouth to the King, that if he should obey His Majesty's orders to bring back the volunteers, he should leave the troops in the greatest disorder, and endanger the loss of Ostend ; that he has been obliged to detach 400 men to Newport, and is in need of a fresh supply, &c. Ostend, March 4, 1677. fo. 218.

129. The Duke of York to recommending to his favour the bearer of the letter, in the service of the Prince de Ligne. Expresses his very warm thanks for the service rendered him by the party addressed in the House of Commons ; hopes the King will find his account in the great concessions he has made. Brussels, May 19, 1679. fo. 220.

130. The Duke of Monmouth to the Queen Dowager, expressing great contrition for his offence, and ardently requesting her intercession with the King to save his life. Ringwood, July 9, 1685. fo. 222.

131. An order of Privy Council, signed by King James II. commanding the town of Cambridge to elect new Aldermen and Common-council in the room of others removed. April 28, 1688. fo. 224.

132. A Warrant signed by King William III. appointing Wm. Petyt, Esq. to be Keeper of the Tower Records, March 12, 1688-9. fo. 226.

133. A Warrant signed by King William III. for removing sick soldiers from Sheerness to Rochester. Nov. 3, 1693. fo. 228.

134. The Copy of a letter from the Princess Anne of Denmark, to the Queen ; that she is deeply affected with the surprising news of the Prince's departure, and is gone to absent herself to avoid the King's displeasure ; that she is divided between her duty and affection to a father and a husband, and must resolve to follow one to preserve the other ; wishes a happy end to all the troubles, &c. No date. fo. 230.

135. George Louis, Elector of Hanover, to Queen Anne ; desiring that she would guarantee a treaty that he had made with Duke Rodolph, April 21, 1702. fo. 231*. (In Latin.)

136. Queen Anne to the Duke of Wirtemberg ; approving his being appointed to the command of the Danish troops. Windsor, July 24, 1707. fo. 232. (In French.)

137. Lord Sunderland to the Duke of Newcastle, concerning the Duke of Queensberry's patent ; congratulates him on the election of a Whig Parliament, &c. Whitehall, May 27, 1708. fo. 234.

138. Lord Sunderland to the Duke of Newcastle ; that he had been prevented from waiting on him by a sprain in his foot. Alludes to the bad state of affairs, the villainous management of Scotland, and the ascendancy of the Popish interest in Ireland. That if there be no spirit shown in Parliament, they may as well give up the game and submit to the Lord Treasurer's and the Duke of Marlborough's bringing in the Prince of Wales. Requests his presence in Town to concert measures for preserving the Revolution and Protestant succession. Althrop, Aug. 9, 1708. fo. 236.

139. Lord Sunderland to the Duke of Newcastle, with the sentiments of the Dukes of Bolton, Devonshire, Lords Dorchester, Oxford, &c. on the present posture of affairs, which are as wrong and as much Tory as if Lords Rochester and Nottingham were at the head of every thing ; that the Fleet is scandalously managed by the Prince of Denmark ; and that they proposed to the Lord Treasurer to appoint Lord Pembroke Admiral in his stead, who had made a counter-proposal for an Act to continue the Prince in his office, and empower his Council to act for him, &c. &c. London, Oct. 19, 1708. fo. 238.

Num. 1236.

140. Lord Sunderland to the Duke of Newcastle ; that he would speak or send to Mr. Jessop about the matter of the Speaker, to engage him for Sir Peter King, &c. Oct. 26, 1708. fo. 242.

141. Lord Sunderland to the Duke of Newcastle ; that the death of the Prince of Denmark has made a great alteration in every thing, and that their party had in contemplation to offer a compromise respecting Sir Peter King's Speakership, &c. Nov. 4, 1708. fo. 244.

142. A Paper entitled "The Word for July 1710, for the Court, for the City," signed at top by Queen Anne. fo. 246.

143. Lord Sunderland to the Duke of Newcastle ; concerning Mr. Peyton's not being a fit man to come into Parliament, though with His Grace's interest, being a bully for the Tory party, Aug. 31, 1710. fo. 247.

144. Lord Sunderland to the Duke of Newcastle ; inviting him to meet their friends at Lord Halifax's house, and to bring with him or send the letters that passed between Lord Nottingham and Col. Gilby about the men taken at Hull. Wednesday afternoon. fo. 249.

145. The Duke of Marlborough to thanks him for congratulations on the reduction of Bouchain ; laments the unwillingness of the States to contribute to a project for bringing France to reason. No date, but a memorandum on the letter mentions that it was received the 26 Sept. 1711. fo. 251.

146. Queen Anne to Lord Oxford ; rejoices at his recovery, and wishes him health for many many years ; approves of his reminding her of the necessity of a fast throughout Britain ; that she had found the Lord Chamberlain in a good humour ; doubts whether Mr. Prior's birth will entitle him to the office of Envoy, but will give him any other situation that Lord Oxford shall recommend ; consults him about filling up the offices of Master of the Mint and Privy Seal, Nov. 16, [1711]. fo. 253.

147. Sir Richard Steele to Lord Oxford ; that having an ambition to serve in Parliament, he desires leave to resign his office of Commissioner of the Stamps ; enters into an explanation of his late conduct to those in former power, which he ascribes altogether to his love of truth. He tells him that no one who thinks and has any public spirit, can do otherwise than tremble at seeing his country, in its present circumstances, in the hands of so daring a genius as his Lordship's ; that he shall feel himself bound to befriend him in the day of his adversity, admitting that this is strange language from a private man to the first of a nation. Bloomsbury Square, June 4, 1713. fo. 255.

This curious letter is printed in the Biographia Britannica.

148. A copy of Baron Schutz's letter to the Chancellor, for an answer to his former application, that he might lay the result before the Princess Sophia, April 13, 1714. fo. 257.

152. George Louis, Elector of Hanover, to the Lord Treasurer: desiring that he would use his interest with the Queen to send him some regiments of cavalry, that he might the better be enabled to make terms with the Danes for keeping the Dutchy of Bremen free from the effects of war; and that he has written to the Duke of Marlborough on the same occasion. Hanover, Sept. 4, 1711. fo. 265. (French.)

153. George Louis, Elector of Hanover, to the Lord Treasurer; thanks him for his attention to the preceding letter. Herrenhausen, Oct. 6, 1711. fo. 267. (French.)

154. Sophia, Electress of Hanover, to the Lord Treasurer; is sorry that the Queen has cause to complain of the allied powers who leave the burden of the war to fall on her subjects: and it is much to be lamented that, after so many victories, Great Britain should be obliged to wish for peace, Oct. 8, 1711. fo. 269. (French.)

155. George Louis, Elector of Hanover, to the Lord Treasurer; acknowledges the Queen's attention to his interests in the intended peace, &c. Nov. 7, 1711. fo. 271. (French.)

156. George Louis, Elector of Hanover, to the Lord Treasurer; that he is glad to find he was satisfied with his attention to his relation whilst at Hanover. Herrenhausen, Sept. 27, 1712. fo. 273. (French.)

157. Sophia, Electress of Hanover, to the Lord Treasurer; a letter of general thanks and compliment. Herrenhausen, Sept. 30, 1712. fo. 275. (French.)

160. George Louis, Elector of Hanover, to the Lord Treasurer; thanks him for his attention to the Protestant interest, &c. Hanover, 27 April—16 May, 1714. fo. 281. (French.)

161. Sophia, Electress of Hanover, to the Lord Treasurer; with thanks for his attachment to the house of Hanover and to the interest of her son the Elector: fo. 283. (French.)

No date, but indorsed by Lord Oxford as received May 25, 1714.

162. George Louis, Elector of Hanover, to the Lord Treasurer; that he could not answer his letter before on account of the death of his mother, which he should very soon announce in proper form to the Queen. Herrenhausen, June 11, 1714. fo. 285. (French.)

163. George Louis, Elector of Hanover, to the Lord Treasurer; thanking him for his attachment to the Protestant succession, the more acceptable to him at a time when designs of a nature injurious to the Queen's authority had been imputed to his family. Requests his good offices with Her Majesty; urges the necessity of the presence of some Prince of the House of Hanover to ensure her person and dominions against the designs of a Pretender who reckons on a powerful foreign aid; and reasons very generally and emphatically on the necessity of defending and preserving the Protestant interest. Hanover, June 15, 1714. fo. 287. (French.)

164. A fragment of a paper, entitled "The word for April 1716," with the signature of George I. fo. 290.
